Cape Henry Pilgrimage to be Held April 24; George Mason to Speak

The Cape Henry Pilgrimage, an annual event sponsored by the Order of Cape Henry 1607, will be held Sunday afternoon, April 24, at the Memorial Cross on the first landing due to Cape Henry.

This year's pilgrimage will commemorate the 348th anniversary of the landing of the first permanent English settlers on this continent.

Principal speaker for the occasion will be George Carrington Mason, historiographer of the Episcopal Diocese of Southern Virginia. Mason, who is a resident of Newport News, has held the position of historiographer for the past fifteen years, and is consultant on archives and history for the Jamestown Celebration. He is well known for his authorship of several books on early Virginia history, and is managing director of the restoration of the New Kent St. Peter's Church.

The queen of the International Azalea Court, Miss Olivia Barbour Twining, daughter of General Nathan F. Twining, Chief of Staff of the United States Air Force, and Mrs. Twining, together with several of her princesses, will distribute programs at the Pilgrimage ceremonies.

This year the Pilgrimage is the concluding feature of the Norfolk International Azalea Court, an annual event.

Governor Thomas B. Stanley has issued a proclamation declaring Tuesday, April 26, as Cape Henry Day. The first settlers made landfall at Cape Henry on a Sunday, and the pilgrimage is held on the Sunday nearest the actual landing day.

W. Ludwell Baldwin will be in charge of the ceremonies at the cross. His committee will include Alexander P. Grice, III, William B. Copeland, and others.

Conducting the religious service at the cross will be the Rt. Rev. George W. Quinn D.D., Bishop of the Diocese of Southern Virginia. The Order of Cape Henry 1607 will participate in the service.

Music will be furnished by the Navy Band from the Naval Base. Both Army and Navy are cooperating in the Pilgrimage.

April Designated "Cancer Control Month" in Virginia by Governor

Cancer took the lives of 3,723 persons in Virginia in 1954. It took the lives of 88 persons in Princess Anne County.

These constitute concrete reasons for cooperation in the 1955 Cancer Crusade being conducted in Princess Anne County and the Old Dominion this month, declares Brig. Gen. Frank Camm, USA, retired, of St. Mount Airy, N.C., who is heading the Crusade this year.

Governor Thomas B. Stanley has proclaimed April as "Cancer Control Month." In his proclamation, the Governor recalls the estimates which indicate that 1,500 persons in Virginia were saved from death by cancer in 1954. "The American Cancer Society reports that at least twice this number could be saved with present knowledge in cases where diagnosis is early and treatment is prompt."

The proclamation continues: "New knowledge is improving detection and treatment techniques; the death rate among men, with the exception of lung cancer, is leveling off, and the death rate among women is declining. Lives are being saved daily through the program of research, education and service conducted by the American Cancer Society.

"The President of the United States has proclaimed April as a month for a special effort to conquer cancer. I urge our citizens to support the American Cancer Society and to take advantage of this opportunity to learn as much as possible about this enemy within our midst — cancer."

The solemn note on which this year's educational and fund-raising crusade opens will be renewed April 17, when churches throughout the state observe Cancer Sunday. Services will be dedicated to those engaged in the struggle against cancer and the religious aspect of the crusade, with its message of faith and hope, will be the topic of special sermon stress.

THE GOAL
The goal for the Virginia Division of the American Cancer Society during the April Crusade is nearly $40,000 more than last year. Each dollar received is channeled into the society's three phases of activity: Education of the public to the danger of cancer and the need for regular physical check-ups; research into the cause and cure of cancer; and service to cancer patients.

AGE-OLD EASTER MESSAGE

Good Friday Services Tomorrow Expected to Draw Large Number

Auto Spotlight on Safety in Driving

Safety is a day-by-day concern of Mr. Rine Adams, Ford Dealer. He has loaned automobiles for behind-the-wheel instruction in high school driver education courses, and he has supported the organization of a national or county-wide safety campaign. The Virginia Beach Ministerial Association. An invitation has been extended to all churches of the county that are not having their own services to join in the cooperative venture. "Come when you can; leave when you must," is the slogan for the service.

In commenting on the fact that April 11-16 has been designated as "Spotlight on Automobiles" week, Mr. Adams said motorists must remember that highway safety "should be spotlighted every day of the year, every moment of the day."

The nation's franchised new car dealers, such as Mr. Adams have made an important contribution in fighting the battle against accidents. During the 1954 school term this group of independent retailers provided the nation's high schools with an all-time high of 7,300 cars for instruction purposes. These automobiles were valued at $146 million.

New car dealers have also enhanced safety through active participation in:

1. The annual May vehicle safety check. Under this voluntary program thousands of motorists bring their vehicles to service departments for inspection of 10 points vitally affecting safe operation. Last year more than 4 million vehicles went through safety check lanes.

2. Campaign to "Make courtesy your Code of the Road." This campaign was designed to create widespread awareness of the need for some highway manners. Dealers helped get into the hands

Periodic "breaks" in the service will make it possible for worshippers to enter and leave the sanctuary conveniently during the Service for the Three Hours at the Virginia Beach Methodist Church tomorrow from 12 o'clock noon until three o'clock. All Protestant congregations of the community are cooperating in the event, which is sponsored by the Virginia Beach Ministerial Association. An invitation has been extended to all churches of the county that are not having their own services to join in the cooperative venture. "Come when you can; leave when you must," is the slogan for the service.

Will Interpret Words
Seven preachers of the community, preaching ten minutes each, will interpret the seven words spoken by Jesus from the cross. The three hours represent the traditional period that Jesus hung on the cross. Representatives from the choirs of the cooperating churches will contribute to the musical background for the service.

The Rev. C. Stanley Lowell, chairman of the ministers' committee, sponsoring the service, thanked the participating churches for their help. "It is certainly gratifying," he said, "to have had such enthusiastic cooperation from the clergy, the choirs, and the churches generally in this undertaking. We all hope this cooperation will be registered in an impressive attendance from all the congregations at this event, which is sacred to all Christians."

Ministers taking part in the observance, speaking on the "Seven Words," will be the Rev. C. Stanley Lowell, the Rev. John D. Kester, the Rev. Edmund Berkeley, the Rev. W. George Bond, the Rev. William N. Raney, the Rev. Robert P. Davis, and the Rev. Henry C. Barton, Jr.

Special music for the service will include the following:

Organ Prelude: "Lamb of God."

Mayor Asks Observance of Special Week for Cars and Car Dealers

The week of April 11-16 was proclaimed "Spotlight on Automobiles and New Car Dealers" by order of a proclamation issued yesterday by Mayor Frank Dunch. Streamlining the fact that the automotive industry has grown to be one of America's greatest enterprises and that automobiles were among the most essential citizens to consider the great success and the bright future of the automotive industry.

Mayor Dunch said that the sale and servicing of cars and trucks is a vital factor to the economic health of this community and state as well as to the entire nation. Millions are provided employment by the industry, according to Mayor Dunch, who also pointed out that new car dealers have billions of dollars invested in their business to insure the American people economic, adequate and safe transportation.

The new car dealers of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County plan an extensive program during the week as part of their "Spotlight" program. To be featured are a parade and auto show.

Everything In Readiness for Polio Vaccine

Letters have been sent out to parents of all first and second grade pupils in Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach enclosing a "Parental Consent Form" to be signed and returned to the schools indicating that the parents are willing for their child to receive the polio vaccination. The local Health Department under the direction of Dr. William Y. Garrett is getting everything in readiness for the first dose of the vaccine to be administered during the week of April 18, the date tentatively set.

Already, approximately 95 percent of the "Consent Forms" have been returned to the respective schools. This unusually good response is largely due to the efforts and splendid cooperation of the teachers in the local schools. According to a statement just released, it has been learned that where the "Consent Forms" seemed to be a little slow in being returned, the teachers have made personal telephone calls to the parents stressing the importance of their immediate return since the vaccine has to be given in three doses and every effort is being made to complete the vaccination before the end of the present school term.

The Princess Anne County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis is working hand in hand with the Health Department and lending every possible assistance. Volunteer Chairmen, Mrs. Clinton Walker and Mrs. B. Y. Porter, report that response to their call for volunteer workers has been most

PA Ticket Candidates Fail To Answer Key Questions

MALBON PRESENTS "EVIDENCE"
HE IS NOT ENFORCEMENT OFFICER

By Walter Reppert

Members of the Ticket for Princess Anne failed to answer a single question put to it by the SUN-NEWS at a political rally held last Thursday night at the Oceana School with approximately 160 persons in attendance. Despite paid newspaper advertising that stated the members of the anti-organization ticket for constitutional offices in the county would answer questions asked by the SUN-NEWS no answers were given by the candidates.

The questions had been specifically directed to Roger Malbon, candidate for sheriff, but the rally produced nothing more than political smoke-screen and further remarks about Judge Floyd R. Kellam.

James E. "Buck" Hight, Commonwealth's attorney candidate on the ticket, added little to the meeting with remarks unrelated to the campaign itself.

Although at least two of the owners of the SUN-NEWS were seen registered letters informing them that their names would be mentioned at the meeting and that the news-paper's questions would be answered, the answers were not covered by any of the four candidates who signed the letters.

The letters to the owners of the newspaper were signed by Malbon, Heath, W. W. Oliver, Jr., candidate for commissioner of the revenue, and L. B. Walker, candidate for treasurer.

Instead of covering the points as advertised by the anti-organization candidates, the meeting produced what Malbon called "evidence" that he is not the county's chief law enforcement officer and therefore is not responsible for the lack of enforcement against "100 drivers and joints" as is being charged by his opponents. (Editor's Note: The SUN-NEWS has asked Malbon to name the "100 drivers and joints," but so far he has failed to answer this question, or any other that has been asked.)

Malbon's "evidence" consisted of two letters, one from Judge Floyd E. Kellam and the other from Virginia's Attorney General J. Lindsey Almond, from which he read certain paragraphs but not the letters in their entirety.

Malbon quoted from a letter from Judge Kellam in which he (Malbon) asked the judge for jurisdiction over the county police. The judge, according to Malbon, advised that the county police force was headed by a chief of police and handled criminal matters, and the sheriff's department handled civil matters "with both helping each other."

Malbon produced a letter from the Attorney General whom he had asked to rule on whether he (the sheriff) was the chief law enforcement officer of the county. According to the sheriff's quotation from Almond's letter, the Attorney General stated that he could find no statute giving the sheriff authority to give orders to county justices or power to discontinue them.

Heath again referred to Judge Kellam and the part he played, according to Heath, in the contested elections suit in 1951. Heath stated that he had been subjected to much criticism because of the question he had raised.

Walker and Oliver also addressed the group as did Dr. John E. Lippincott, candidate for the board of supervisors from the Lynnhaven District, who served as chairman of the meeting.

Blood Donors Turn Out in Force; Scouts Aid in Collecting 140 Pints

At a recent visit of the Tidewater Regional Red Cross bloodmobile there were 140 pints of blood collected. The Boy Scouts, Explorers, and Cub Scouts assisted the Red Cross in bringing in the blood, along with Virginia Beach's radio station WBOP, which broadcast a blow by blow description of the attendance at the visit. Five Atlantic Fleet Amphibious Force ships arrived in Norfolk on Monday of this week, carrying more than 3,000 soldiers and tons of equipment, to participate in the Army-Navy Joint exercise designated "High Tide," which will be climaxed by a beach assault at Camp Pendleton on Wednesday, April 20.

The men and equipment, comprising the 74th Regimental Combat team, began arriving Sunday, when tanks, howitzers, engineering equipment and nearly 300 officers and men made port.

Two weeks of intensive training will precede the final assault on the Hampton beaches.

Excellent Acting Marks Showing Of 'Angel Street'

Just after this play-goer had finally decided that "the play" was the thing, along comes a production like, the Virginia Beach Little Theatre's latest vehicle, "Angel Street," and all preconceived notions are discarded.

"Angel Street" is a good play, a melodrama which manages to carry conviction to its audiences despite its pedantic language and a situation which many people would find unrealistic today. But this week in the High School Auditorium it was the players who were the thing. Seldom have the patrons of the Little Theatre been given more finished performances.

Jill Trantner played the sensitive, terror-ridden wife with real feeling; Wade Williams was a husband convincingly despicable, but at the same time handsome and powerful enough to make his appeal credible. Ian Goodwin in the role of the police inspector was a sheer delight, his lines providing the tone of levity the otherwise sombre atmosphere required. S. A. C. L. A. N. T. can be thanked for the loss of his talents. Pat Wade and Florence Neal as the two servants were exceptionally well-cast and well played. Even the two bobbies (Don Peterson and Roger Dale, who were also responsible for the well handled lights) were their scenes with dignity and wretched realistically at the end.

The set, a clever combination of Victorian coziness and gloom which did much toward creating the mood of the play, was the work of Anne Pennington and assistants.

More credit than the average member of the audience realizes is due to the talents and hard work of Mrs. Arthur Maury, who by some sleight of hand manages to turn a group of amateurs into the impressively professional cast of last night's performance.

Automatic Air Conditioning at Beach Hotel

Another "first" will be offered patrons of the Martha Washington Hotel here by J. Wesley Gardner, president of the facility, beginning Easter Sunday, when the first and only completely automatic, all-weather air conditioning with individual thermostatic control in each of the 100 rooms and apartments goes into operation.

The Martha Washington Hotel was among the very first hotels at the resort of brick construction — a pioneering effort in itself, when "frames" was considered the word in construction at Virginia Beach. That was 29 years ago.

The units, an improved design only recently released by the International Harvester Company, not only cool or warm fresh air at the turn of a dial, but will reverse automatically if a sudden weather change occurs. The air is completely filtered, providing perfect comfort for asthma or hay fever victims. The carload lot of these units shipped to the Martha Washington was the first such lot consigned in the nation by the makers, and the Martha Washington is the first hotel or motel to install these new 1955 all-weather units.

Mr. Gardner, who only recently completed a $100,000 program of refurbishing his hotel, said that expense was not considered in making a choice of the air conditioning, but that he selected the best performer from several manufacturers. He estimated that the 100 units and installation cost approximately $50,000. Other improvements made include installation and modernization of baths, wood paneling and painting, both inside and out, and refinishing and refurbishing furniture.

17th Street Merchants Organize Association; Seek to Aid Progress

What may well prove to be a milestone in progressive action for this area was initiated last Wednesday evening when the merchants located on 17th Street at the Beach met and formed the "Seventeenth Street Business and Professional Men's Association."

Elected to fill temporary offices to serve as a nucleus for setting the organization, by-laws, etc., were:

The association proposes to adopt a more uniform program of business ethics and customer relations. In addition, committees will be appointed to not only work out such existing problems as parking facilities, litter on the streets and vacant stores, but also to investigate the opportunities of inducing the establishment of meat-by factories and other enterprises that would tend to provide better and more year-around employment for existing

Outdoor Courses Planned for Girl Scout Leaders

"Camping" was the main topic for the day when the Princess Anne District Girl Scout committee met last Friday at the home of Mrs. J. O. Carter in Oceana. Eleven members were in attendance, and the meeting was opened by the reading by Mrs. Cathy Gladin of the poem "Green Angels."

The group is especially proud of the fact that their camp, Camp Matoaka, on Lake Prince, has been accepted by the American Camping Association, the only Girl Scout camp in the east enjoying this honor.

It was announced that on April 15 a course in "Natural and Outdoor Handicrafts" will be given at the Chesapeake Beach Community House at 10 a. m. by Mrs. Gladin. On May 8, at Camp Linkhorn, 78th Street, Virginia Beach, there will be an "outdoor course" given to all interested adult leaders and workers. It is hoped that a large number will attend these courses. Those attending are asked to bring a "nosbag" lunch.

Plans were also made for the presentation of the "Curved Bar" awards by the district committee. This is the highest award in Girl Scouting and is looked forward to with keen anticipation by all Girl Scouts.

FT. STORY TELLINGS

Capability of the Army's new Superduty was demonstrated dramatically by Fort Story officers and NCO's this week by the DUKW expert of the Transportation Corps, Lt. Col. Frank Speir, Colonel Speir, who works out of the Detroit Arsenal, screened a color film in the Post Theater showing the Superduty truck, mountainous surf off Monterey, Calif. It was a fascinating test of the amphibian's endurance and maneuverability under constant drubbing by waves as high as 27 feet. The colonel himself was at the Superduty's wheel for the Monterey test.

Back from the West Coast is Story's commanding officer, Col. Edwin A. Deagle, after two weeks in which he served as observer in the Navy's Operation Surfboard at Camp Pendleton, Calif. The big-scale maneuver provided realistic ship-to-shore training for a regimental combat team.

Story's soldier of the Week again represents the 5th Transportation Battalion. He's 24-year-old Cpl. Donald R. Michalek, a member of the battalion Headquarters and Headquarters Company, Michalek, who is unit mail clerk, was singled out for similar distinction last year when he was stationed at Salsburg, Amstr. His home is in Westfield, Mass.

Another unit of the 5th Battalion, the 344th DUKW Company, was singled out as Best Marching Unit at the weekly garrison review on the post parade ground. The 344th is commanded by First Lt. Jack J. Schwartz. Reviewing Officer for the parade was Story's deputy commander, Lt. Col. Frederick G. Ward, with a staff of Maj. Glennis L. King, Maj. George L. Williams and First Lt. Ernest T. Bauer.

Formosa Bound, for service with the Military Advisory Group to the Chinese Nationalist government is Story's Ordnance Officer, Maj. William F. Maney Jr., of Lancaster, Pa. A veteran of World War II in which he served in both the Pacific and European theaters, the major has been at Story almost three years.

Another officer departing the command this month is Capt. Bobbie L. Hisaw, maintenance officer of the 5th T Battalion, who is retiring after more than 20 years of service. Captain Hisaw, who enlisted in 1934 in the 33d Infantry Regiment in Panama, received a battlefield commission in Germany in April 1945. His decorations include the Bronze Star Medal with V for valor, the Silver Star, the Purple Heart and the Combat Infantryman's Badge.

Latest tour conducted by Post Special Services took 75 Story men to the huge Norfolk Naval Base which is also Headquarters for the Fifth U. S. Naval District. The group, which had as its guide WAVE Lt. (jg) Maureen A. Martin, spent the Sunday afternoon visiting various installations in the 10-square-mile area, in addition to boarding three submarines. Such tours to points of interest in the Tidewater are bi-weekly features planned by Lt. Donald P. Campbell, Post Special Services Officer.

Best Supply Room trophy this month goes to the 612th DUKW Company, a unit of the 54th Transportation Battalion. The 612th is commanded by Capt. William M. Dean, with Sgt. Ted D. Arrington as supply sergeant.

A TV Salute to Story, staged by the neighboring Little Creek Naval Amphibious Base over Norfolk's Station Deagle, Story CO, as a guest to brief WVEE - TV, had Col. Edwin A. Deagle explain his command's amphibious mission. Color guards for the American and Transportation Corps flags respectively were Cpl. John R. Hadalski of Story's Military Police Detachment and PFC Troy V. Lane of Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 54th T Battalion. Major portion of the half-hour show was devoted to such talented Story entertainers as PFC Frank Blankenmeyer, tenor, of the 347th DUKW Company.

Story's Pistol wizard, Lt. Whitman Cross II of the 554th Heavy Boat Company, will be on one of the two teams the post is sending to compete in the Transportation Training Command's rifle and pistol matches at Fort Eustis on April 7 and 9. Cross, who recently returned from Tampa, Fla., where he was a member of the U. S. Army Team that competed in the National Midwinter Pistol Championships, is one of 11 Story experts who will represent the command in the pistol matches.

As the bald eagle is our national bird, many cognomeners believe that America's national animal should be the recon, and the coonhound our national dog.

THE U. S. SUBMARINE — FROM 1776 TO 1955

Submarine Service Celebrates 55th Anniversary on Monday

As the Navy celebrates the 55th anniversary of its Submarine Service, Monday, April 11, the "true" submarine, capable of staying submerged for unlimited periods of time, is a reality.

It was on April 11, 1900 that the Navy accepted its first submarine from builder John Phillip Holland. It was a stubby cigar-shaped craft powered by a four cylinder gasoline engine. At that time, the submarine was considered of slight military significance. It was not until World War I that the underwater craft had a chance to prove its worth as a full-fledged member of the Navy's fighting team.

19TH CENTURY SUBMARINE: David Bushnell's "Marine Turtle," which attacked the British frigate HMS Eagle in New York Bay in 1776, but failed in her efforts to fasten a mine to the ship's copper sheathed bottom. This was the first American submersible.

FLEET TYPE SUB OF WORLD WAR II FAME: Many of these fast-type subs have been streamlined and modernized into "Guppy" boats.

TROOP CARRYING SUBMARINE is easily distinguished by a large dome-like hanger aft of her superstructure. This dome houses rubber rafts, landing craft and other vehicles used for transporting troops ashore.

FAST ATTACK SUBMARINE: The 276-foot submarine USS Tang was the first of six new high speed, attack type subs built for the U. S. Navy in the last four years. Barring the atomic-powered Nautilus, Tang class submarines are among the most advanced undersea craft in the world.

World War II, American submarines bore a heavy brunt of the fighting — holding the defense line in the Southwest Pacific and leading the Navy's offense in the Central Pacific.

The final submarine score tells a never-to-be-forgotten story. During World War II, American submarines in the Pacific sank 1,850 Japanese merchant vessels, and more than 200 major combat ships. All in all, U. S. subs sank more than 56 per cent of all Japanese naval and merchant ships. Our casualties, 34 officers and 3,131 enlisted men, were painful, but the achievement stands as a monument to the greatest submarine force in history.

After the war, the Navy modernized and improved its submarines, utilizing the knowledge learned from World War II experiences of U. S. boats and data captured from Germans. One of these improvements was the addition of the snorkel or breathing tube. The snorkel enables submarines to travel submerged at periscope depths on their diesel engines since air needed for the diesels is inducted through the tube. Another improvement was the modification of the fleet type boats into "guppies." "GUPPY" means greater underwater propulsion power, with the "Y" added for euphony.

Among the new type vessels that have been completed in recent years are the anti-submarine boats. These small hunter-killer subs have been built specifically to seek out and destroy enemy submarines.

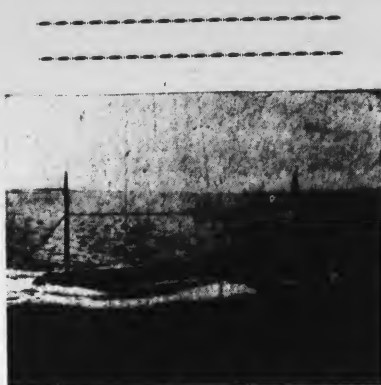

Also added to the Submarine Service are the fast attack boats. These are approximately the same weight as the 1600 ton World War II Fleet type, but are much shorter for more maneuverability and streamlined for greater underwater speed.

Another new type is the SST class, a 131-foot, 250-ton craft designed as a target and training submarine. This class is used primarily for personnel training and anti-submarine target service. Because of its small size, it is economical to build and operate.

In addition to the fast attack, hunter-killer and target and training submarines, other types developed since World War II include guided missile subs which can launch the "Loon" and "Regulus" missiles; submarine troop transports; submarine oilers; submarine cargo carrier and radar picket boats.

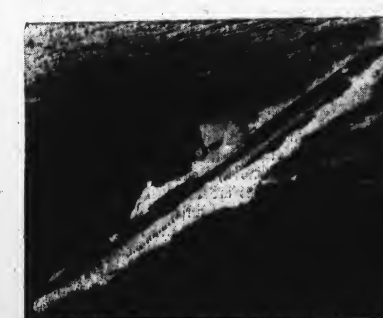

On January 17, 1955, the World's first nuclear-powered vessel, the USS Nautilus, got underway at Groton, Conn., to begin a new era in submarine history. The USS Nautilus is scheduled to be the next atomic-powered submarine.

THE NAVY'S FIRST SUBMARINE: The USS Holland, "grand daddy" of all U. S. Navy submarines was accepted April 11, 1900.

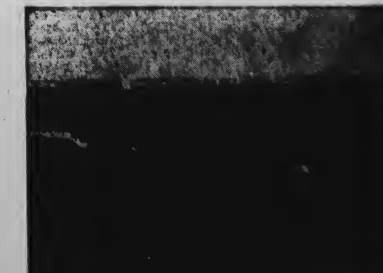

WORLD WAR I: The submarine USS F-1, formerly USS Carg. Commissioned in 1912, she was lost in 1917.

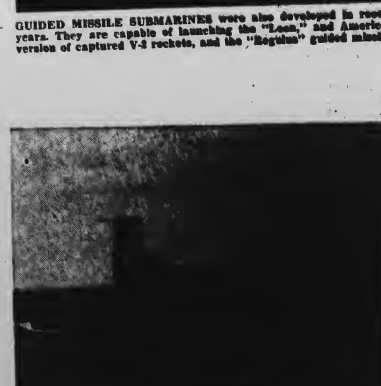

VETERAN WORLD WAR II SUB MODERNIZED: A former fleet type submarine converted to a "Guppy-boat" submarine.

GUIDED MISSILE SUBMARINE: A post-war type designed primarily to seek out and destroy enemy undersea craft.

THE USS NAUTILUS entered a new era of transportation when she got underway January 17, 1955, under nuclear power.

TARGET TRAINING SUBMARINE USS T-3: In service since 1953, she is our smallest submarine. The T-3 is used as a target in anti-submarine warfare practice and in training of submarine personnel.

STILL WITHOUT ANSWERS

Although this newspaper has repeatedly asked many questions of Sheriff Roger Malbon based on statements he has made or statements that have been attributed to him, we are, at this writing, still without answers.

The questions have not been answered even though Malbon and his political group ran a newspaper advertisement in this newspaper last week stating that they would answer the SUN-NEWS' questions at a political rally. The meeting failed to produce the answers that the public is entitled to and failed to produce anything that is pertinent to the present political campaign.

The SUN-NEWS feels compelled and morally obligated in the public interest to again ask these questions of Malbon and to ask additional questions that should be answered by the Sheriff. Here are the questions:

1. Where are the "100 dives"?
2. If the "dives" he refers to actually exist, why is he not doing something about them?
3. Who is the famed "bag man"?
4. To these questions we might ask Malbon:
 - a. Has Malbon made derogatory remarks about his running mate, "Butsie" Heath?
 - b. What condition was he in when he wrecked a borrowed automobile and did he not get someone else to sign that he was driving at the time?
 - c. Malbon stated that he paid his own legal fees in the celebrated ouster proceedings. Is it not true that other parties gave him money to pay these fees?

These are just a few questions that remain unanswered and Malbon should supply these answers. The people want to know the answers to these questions and at the same time they should know the qualifications of the candidates they are being asked to vote for in July.

Malbon and the rest of the "Dunn Machine" candidates should deal in real issues of the campaign, not continue to dwell on side issues that tend to add little to the campaign.

Let's have some answers for a change.

FUNDS NEEDED

News that a movement is afoot to purchase the famed Adam Thoroughgood House in Princess Anne County and to restore it as a shrine is a pleasant development and one that should receive the support of everyone in this area.

The historical structure was built in the early 1600's and is one of the most famous homes in America. It is a vital part of the colorful history of Princess Anne County.

Those who are in back of the movement to purchase and restore the building hope to interest the National Historical Society to adopt it as a national shrine and to create an organization so that it may be opened to the public.

Many civic and business leaders in Norfolk and Princess Anne County are interested in the fund raising campaign to preserve the Adam Thoroughgood House. More than $60,000 has been raised but the steering committee feels that it must raise at least $40,000 more to insure the success of the undertaking.

The house will be sold later this month and funds are urgently needed to keep the property from falling into private hands. The garden clubs of this area have joined in the fund raising campaign and the Princess Anne Garden Club has begun a drive to help raise the necessary funds. Anyone desiring to contribute may do so by sending their check to the Princess Anne Garden Club.

DALE CARNEGIE

★ AUTHOR OF "HOW TO STOP WORRYING AND START LIVING" ★

Here's a brief and to-the-point story told me by George Visson Everts, of 1327 Concourse, New York City.

He didn't feel well so he called his doctor and was told that he had ulcers of the stomach. That could be bad, often it was. Sometimes even a forerunner of cancer. So he went to the hospital and had the usual tests and treatment, all the time worrying about what would happen to his wife and two children if worse came to pass. His two ailing parents, he as their only child, what a blow might be inflicted on them; they would have no one to lean on now.

They did not give him much to eat at the hospital, but he did not want even what he was allowed. For five days and five nights he lay there worrying, worrying. No happy thought entered his head when his wife came — his parents were not physically able to make the trip — he hated to look her in the face. He wished they had saved more, that his insurance was larger. He slept only when given a sedative.

On the fifth day, the doctors — two of them — came to him. They looked at him, he thought, a bit scornfully. "Get up from there, you bum," said the one he had known from childhood. "Get up and go home; relax, take plenty of outdoor exercise. Forget your worries. AND STOP WORRYING, for that's all that is the matter with you."

And that's the end of the story, says George Everts.

CHOOSE ONE

"We had an argument over where to spend our vacation, and this year the family will go where (father) (mother) decides."

THE "BOSS" PULLS THE STRINGS

AROUND

The Cracker Barrel

It seems that Roger Malbon, who would like to feel that he is the main cog in the "Dunn Machine," has slipped another notch in Boss Dunn's political plans for the ticket for Princess Anne. The group put up a signboard Tuesday and Malbon's name was placed third in the listing of Dunn's candidates. Here-to-fore, Malbon had been listed right after Dunn's pal, "Butsie" Heath. It looks like the Sheriff is sinking fast, even among his running mates.

It is right amusing to hear some supporters of the individual candidates on the "Dunn Machine" ticket. When you talk to a Malbon supporter, he lets it be known that he is not interested in Heath, and then when you meet a Heath backer, he tells you in no uncertain terms that he is not concerned whether you vote for Malbon or not.

Roger Malbon, displaying his usual "tact," asked the question the other day that "if he was good enough to run in 1951 why is he not good enough now?" Now, that is quite a question and while many know the answer, none is more familiar with the reason he is not good enough now as Malbon, himself. We will not answer it for him for he knows that answer all too well.

There are many questions asked of Sheriff Malbon, but he has failed to answer any of them. The man on the street has heard much of the work that Malbon has done in trying to persuade other lawyers to run on a ticket with him for the office of commonwealth's attorney. It seems that Malbon felt in the beginning that he would rather run with someone else, but "Boss" Dunn convinced him that he had better take Heath, or else.

The Dunn group entertained Delegate Wendell Godwin last week. The Eastern Shore man is reportedly anxious to run for the Senate and Malbon and his crowd are toying with the idea of supporting him. What support that would be is questionable.

Whenever reference is made to Walker and Oliver, the other candidates on Dunn's ticket, the expression goes something like this: "Poor old Walker and Oliver, they just seem to be tagging along behind Dunn, Malbon and Heath." Seems the two candidates for treasurer and commissioner of the revenue have little to say about the policy Dunn seems to make the plans and relays them to Mal-bon and Heath. Walker and Oliver are just around.

The "Dunn Machine" crowd asks question: "Do you think 24 years is too long?" To the average person this is meaningless, but to some it must be assumed that they refer to men who have had the political backing of the Democratic organization in this area and who have been successfully elected over a period of years through their individual qualifications and this backing.

We wonder if they have stopped to consider that Roger Malbon and his father have been in office for more than 20 years. We wonder, too, if they also feel this is too long. There is only a few years difference.

The political meeting of the "Dunn Machine" held last week at the Oceana school attracted the smallest crowd of the three meetings held thus far. Each meeting seems to draw a smaller crowd than the previous one. If the crowd continues to dwindle, inside the candidates will end up talking to each other.

In an effort to break up the so-called "100 dives" and impress people, Sheriff Malbon did make an arrest recently. The Sheriff arrested one person who was found to possess nine cans of beer. Apparently the Sheriff doesn't like beer.

of the public material emphasizing seven rules of courteous motoring.

3. Safe Driving Day. When President Eisenhower proclaimed last December 15 Safe Driving Day, dealers pitched in and did everything they could to make it the success it was, proving that motorists and pedestrians can reduce accidents if they really want to.

4. Man to - Man and Dad to - Daughter safe driving programs. Dealers have promoted safety through distribution of pledges signed by teen-agers and their parents. Parents appreciate having safe driving habits instilled in their children and teenagers quickly learn that safe behind-the-wheel conduct helps to make it possible for them to borrow the family car.

5. Good highway programs. Realizing that safety depends, in part, on good roads, dealers have been an extremely vocal

Mr. Albin R. Malthe, Virginia Beach, Virginia.

Dear Mr. Malthe:

The Ticket for Princess Anne has invited the public to a political meeting next Thursday evening, March 31, at 8 o'clock at Oceana School, to hear its reply to several questions raised in a Virginia Beach Sun-News editorial of March 17.

Since you were shown to be an owner of the Sun-News in an affidavit published therein in October 1954, and because your name will be mentioned in the public discussion of the Sun-News questions, we tender you this special invitation to come to this meeting. You will, of course, be given full opportunity to address the meeting, should you care to do so.

Yours very truly,
 The Ticket for Princess Anne

Miss Kathryn Stone will be present at the luncheon to discuss the topic "Legislative Look at 1956."

group in urging improvement of America's highway network.

80 Million Cars Seen by 1970

A passenger car population of eighty million automobiles was forecast for the nation this week by William O. Thompson, Jr., who is heading the local group of new car and new truck dealers staging a week of "Spotlight on Automobiles and New Car Dealers."

"If anything, this figure is conservative," said Mr. Thompson. "Research by our National Automobile Dealers Association shows that the car population of this country increased from 35.6 million cars in 1946 to more than 40 million at the end of 1954. Thus, more than 2 million cars have been added to our registrations each year during the past ten years."

In this ten-year period about 42½ million cars have been produced. During the same ten years some 18.5 million cars have been sent to junk heaps. There are now 11 million pre-war automobiles on our highways. Most of these cars will be scrapped in the very near future. In the next few years the difference between cars produced and cars scrapped should be about two million. In fifteen years that would mean an increase of about 30 million cars.

"We must allow for population growth and continued prosperity. Our allowance of two million cars in a fifteen year period is most conservative," he added.

Mr. Thompson pointed out that although the population of passenger cars and trucks had greatly increased in the past ten years, the mileage of surfaced highways had not increased proportionately. "A look at the future shows the great need for President Eisenhower's highway program," he added. "We must have highways to take care of this increased car and truck population."

Mr. Thompson said that the number of new car and truck dealers had remained fairly constant during the same period. "There has been great expansion by these dealers," he said; "many of them have built entirely new plants and all of them have increased their service facilities. New car dealers on the average have been in business more than 20 years and this stability is an important factor in the servicing and selling of new and used cars."

No appreciable increase in the number of new car and new truck dealers was forecast, "I think," declared Mr. Thompson. "You will see a constant improvement in the services offered by dealers but very little increase in the number of dealerships."

A truck population of 20 million was forecast by Mr. Thompson for 1975. "America's shippers are now moving 78 per cent of all their freight tonnage by truck," he pointed out. "Thus the normal growth of the truck population should double in the next twenty years. There are nearly ten million trucks in the country at the present time."

"By 1976 truck transportation will be an industry paying people a billion dollars a year to keep the 20 million trucks moving over America's highways."

Alumnae Group Meets on 23rd

The Norfolk and vicinity Alumnae Association of Saint Mary's Junior College, Raleigh, N. C., will hold its regular Spring Luncheon Meeting on Saturday — April 23rd at 1 p. m. at The Norfolk Yacht and Country Club. The guest speakers will be Owen and Browne, and Miss Mary Jo Paul. Dr. Browne will show his St. Mary's movie, "A Belle of St. Mary's," and his movies of the May Day pageant at St. Mary's last year. Dr. Browne received his B. S. in Chemistry at North Carolina State College in 1921 and his Ph. D. in 1926 from Johns Hopkins University. He has been assistant professor of Chemistry at Virginia Military Institute, a chemist for Penniman and Browne, in Baltimore, science teacher in the Raleigh High School, professor at Pembroke State College for International Chemistry at Lehigh University, and a member of North Carolina. He is a member of Gamma Sigma Epsilon Honorary Chemical Fraternity and North Carolina Academy of Science.

Miss Mary Jo Paul, alumnae secretary at St. Mary's, will tell the Chapter of new alumnae activities. Miss Paul graduated from Saint Mary's in 1952 and received her A. B. from the University of North Carolina in 1953. She is a member of the Phi Kappa Phi honor society and Chi Omega social sorority.

The Nominating committee composed of Mrs. W. C. Calley, Chairman, Miss Pencie C. Warren, and Mrs. Thomas H. Wilcox will present the slate of officers for the coming year.

Mrs. Charles E. Treake, a past President of the Chapter will introduce the speakers.

'Gramercy Ghost' At Little Creek April 12 and 13

"The Gramercy Ghost," a 3 act comedy by John C. Holm, will be presented by the Little Creek Players on April 12 and 13 at 8:00 p. m. at the Naval Amphibious Base, Little Creek.

As the players go into their last week of rehearsal, reliable sources indicate that the production will be a great success.

The play tells the story of a young lady who inherits a house in Gramercy Park in New York and finds to her surprise that she has inherited with it the ghost of a Revolutionary War soldier.

The unfortunate soldier has been denied entrance to heaven for his failure to deliver a message from General Washington in 1775. It seems he was caught and shot by the British after dallying too long with a pretty young barmaid.

How the ghost finally wins his way past the Peary Gates and how he enters into the romantic life of the heroine makes for a hilarious evening's entertainment.

C&P Completes Huge Program Of Construction

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Virginia completed another large construction program during 1954 to improve and expand service in order to meet the public's demand. J. Rhodes Mitchell, vice president, stated at the C. & P. Annual Report was issued today.

The Company expended $24,700,000 last year to install 184,000 telephones for a net increase of 35,000, to provide better grades of service for nearly 15,000 customers, and to improve and speed service for subscribers generally.

Mitchell said additions to C. & P. facilities were completed in all exchanges varying in scope from large construction projects and new buildings housing modern dial central offices to small line extensions.

The report noted that another record total volume of calls was made during the year. The average number of calls per business day reached over 3,645,000 and over 70 per cent of all out-of-town calls were dialed to the called party by the operator.

Mitchell said operating taxes of $13,320,000 were the highest in the Company's history. There were $1,269,080 or 10.5 per cent higher than in 1953 and were six and one-half times as much as in 1948, the first postwar year. It was noted that direct taxes and excise taxes together totaled over $21 million for the year and averaged $44.57 per telephone customer.

C. & P.'s operating revenues totaled $73,280,000, and operating expenses and taxes amounted to $64,240,000.

The report noted that while net operating revenues were about $2,150,000 greater than last year, 88 per cent of this amount was consumed by an increase of $1,269,000 in taxes, leaving net operating income $880,000 higher than in 1953.

Mitchell stressed that the increase in net operating income was not sufficient to keep pace with the great increase in investment to meet the demands for service and the rate of earnings on plant decreased from 4.59 per cent in 1953 to 4.57 per cent in 1954.

It was reported that technical progress in long distance service was made in 1954 with the activation of Richmond's new automatic long distance switching apparatus — a part of the nation's direct distance dialing system. In addition, major progress was made in converting Virginia exchanges to a uniform nation-wide numbering plan which is necessary to keep pace with the growing use of the telephone and ultimately permit direct distance dialing by customers of a nation-wide basis. Under this plan each telephone number will consist of two-letters and five-numerals.

Mitchell said that the Company can now give customers in more and more places all the service they want and that the 1955 construction program is designed to enable the Company, by the end of the year, to generally supply the type of telephone service customers desire, when and where they want it, immediately after they place the order. It was also noted that the Company is offering many new conveniences and that all are designed to make telephone service more convenient, more efficient and more pleasant to use.

Reporting on the Company's Benefit and Pension Plan, which is now in its 42nd year, Mitchell disclosed that 1954 expenditures

The MIXING BOWL... IT'S Fun TO COOK!

By LUCILE CLARK
SUN-NEWS FOOD EDITOR

For the very latest in food facts and fables... for practical, down-to-earth recipes that please both palate and pocketbook, tune in "LET'S COOK," with Lucile Clark each day, Monday through Friday, at 1:00 P. M. on Station WTAR-TV.

MEATLESS MEALS

On with our Macaroni Story. I'm sure it has helped you feed your family well during Lent—when you have been planning meatless meals.

Whatever the occasion, there's a shape or size of macaroni to fit it, for one may choose from more than 100 different forms of this protein-food. Whether cooking for guests or the family, macaroni recipes can be found to satisfy the tastes of all. Enriched macaroni products cost but a few cents and serve to extend more costly foods.

Macaroni is an all-weather food. It can be served hot or cold, according to the day or mood. Favorite sauces can be transformed with the addition of herbs such as chervil, marjoram, oregano, basil. For a quick and easy variation, noodles may be buttered and sprinkled with poppy seeds in the Viennese manner.

"Food of Imagination"
Macaroni is truly a food for imagination, always ready to rise to an occasion, a challenge to ingenuity and cooking skill. For the sheer joy of creative cooking, individual fancy may be followed as well as the traditional recipes. The consumption of macaroni, noodles and spaghetti in the U. S. has been rising steadily. It's well worth the time to look at the contributing factors.

Macaroni foods are...
QUICK-COOKING—Depending on the size of the product, and the use to be made of it, macaroni foods cook in from 7 to 15 minutes.

EASY TO USE—You have few failure worries with macaroni foods. The only caution in their preparation is "don't over-cook."

ECONOMICAL—Macaroni is low in cost. It can be used to "stretch" servings of more costly animal protein foods.

VERSATILE—The mild and wheaty flavor of macaroni combines well with many other food items like meat, cheese, fish, sea food, vegetables, eggs and even fruits. It combines unusually well with left-over foods, too.

NUTRITIOUS—Macaroni foods are a reliable source of wheat protein and food energy. Since they are seldom served alone, but rather in combination with animal protein foods, they are able to make valuable contributions to a healthful diet.

EASILY STORED—Macaroni foods require no special "treatment" for storage. They are always ready on your kitchen shelf.

"DO-AHEAD" FOODS—Macaroni dishes can often be prepared ahead of time, then stored in the refrigerator until it's time to bake or heat for service. This trait makes macaroni foods especially dear to employed homemakers.

POPULAR—Especially with youngsters. Mother's appreciate macaroni foods because most of the younger generation likes the bland flavor. Witness the popularity of spaghetti with the small fry set.

Here are a few suggestions:

Hearty Beef Vermicelli

Dilute two cans of consommé soup according to directions. Season with celery salt, salt, pepper, onion salt. Bring to boiling point and add one cup enriched broken vermicelli. Cook 8 to 10 minutes.

Summertime Shell Macaroni Salad

1 8-oz. pkg. enriched shell macaroni
¼ cup French dressing
¼ cup cheddar cheese cubes
1 cup celery, cut fine
2 tablespoons grated onion
½ cup chopped pimiento
½ cup sliced stuffed olives

Cook macaroni shells and drain. Turn immediately in chilled salad bowl and add French dressing. Mix lightly and chill for an hour. Now toss together with cheese cubes, dash of salt and pepper, grated onion, olives and celery. Serve on salad plate on salad greens, garnished with tomato wedges and sliced cucumber. You may wish to add radish roses. Yields six servings.

Baked Lasagne

1 lb. enriched lasagne (wide macaroni stripe)
½ cup grated Parmesan cheese
¾ lb. Mozzarella cheese
¾ lb. Ricotta or cottage cheese
Cook lasagne about 15 minutes. Drain, then hold over hot water in strainer as you arrange ingredients in casserole—preferably a well oiled rectangular baking dish about 12 x 8 x 2. Arrange layers of meat sauce, lasagne, Mozzarella, Ricotta or cottage cheese (spread thinly, Parmesan cheese; repeat, top with meat sauce and Parmesan cheese. Bake in moderate oven (350°) 30 to 35 minutes. Serve with additional meat

Virginia Garden Club Daffodil Show At Martinsville One Nation's Biggest

Judges for the 21st annual Daffodil Show of the Garden Club of Virginia, to be held in Martinsville April 8 and 9, will come from South Carolina, North Carolina, Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland, the District of Columbia and New York. Nine of the experts will determine the winners of the horticultural exhibits, and three will judge explanation classes. Judging will begin at 12 o'clock noon on Wednesday, April 13, and the show will open its doors to the public at 3 p. m.

At 4 p. m. seventeen awards will be presented to the winners by Mrs. Thomas E. Thorne, of Williamsburg, president of the Garden Club of Virginia. The Silver Medal of the American Horticultural Society will be presented by a representative of the president of that organization.

Two Covered Cakes
While the judges are busy ribbon is coveted by exhibitors, two of them cause special excitement among Garden Club of Virginia members: The Harris Cup Class, and the Inter-Club Arrangement Class, both given yearly.

The Eleanor T. Harris Challenge Cup is a memorial established in 1937 to the late Mrs. Floyd Harris, who was the first chairman of the Garden Club of Virginia's daffodil test committee, as a tribute to her influence and leadership in horticultural enterprises. This class exhibits 12 varieties, three stems each, from at least four divisions of daffodils, to be shown with foliage.

The Inter-Club Arrangement class is exhibited in the name of the club, and calls for white daffodils in a glass container, in combination with any glossy foliage, using green fruits as an accessory, to be shown in a yellow-green niche with forest green table cover.

New Silver Medal Award
A new award this year is the Silver Medal of the American Horticultural Society, given for the first time in any Daffodil Show, and open to both professional and amateur growers. This class calls for 15 varieties, three stems each, from at least four divisions, to be shown with foliage.

The Best Bloom in Show will receive the Mrs. Howard B. Bloomer, Jr., Cup, and the Best Arrangement in Show will win the "saucy" and Parmesan cheese. Allow to stand a few minutes after removal from oven before serving.

About eight servings.
Meat Sauce Recipe

2 tablespoons olive or salad oil
2 lbs. ground beef
1 cup minced onion
1 clove garlic, finely chopped
3 8-oz. cans tomato paste
3 cups water
2 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon black pepper
Oregano—to suit taste

Brown meat in heated oil. Add tomato paste, diluted with water. Add onion, garlic, salt, pepper and oregano. Cover and simmer 45 minutes. Reserve about 1 cup of sauce for those who wish additional sauce.

Bye now... Happy cooking. And I hope you have a wonderful Easter!

GARDEN GUIDE

By J. WILSON ANDERSON

LIGUSTRUM

Of all the shrubs planted in the Virginia Beach area, none has a wider range of use than Ligustrum. It will live in a very sandy soil or in a heavy clay soil. There are many Ligustrum between Atlantic Avenue and the ocean growing in practically nothing but sand, and there are almost as many thriving in the Harbortown Point heavy soil.

Ligustrum does nicely in full sun or in shady places. Several homeowners in the Colony have Ligustrum hedges in areas heavily shaded by trees. It tolerates poor drainage but as with nearly all other plants thrives much better in a well-drained soil. Ligustrum tolerates salt air much better than most shrubs, however a few plants will stand the salt exposure better.

The leaf of Ligustrum (L. lucidum, Glossy Privet) is about 3 inches long and 1 inch wide. It has a very attractive dark green, glossy color and is evergreen. The plant tends itself very slowly to being pruned into almost any shape. It can be kept small but should not be restrained under about 2½ feet for a long period of time because the root system will continue to expand and will need the food produced by a large number of leaves. If the leaf area is continually reduced by severe pruning, the plant will gradually be weakened.

The maximum height of Ligustrum has been seen at the campus of Meredith College in Raleigh, where a row of Ligustrum has been allowed to grow as trees. They are about 40 feet high.

Propagation
Propagation of the plant is not difficult. Commercially it is done by cuttings. Pieces of stem about 6 inches long root comparatively easily in a well drained soil that is kept moist and lightly shaded from summer's sun. The lower 2 to 3 inches of the stem should be inserted in the soil. Ligustrum frequently reseeds itself—however seedlings are seldom as attractive as the parent plants.

It was at a meeting of the Faurquier-Loudoun Club in Upperville in April, 1930, that a group of members, after listening to a talk on daffodils by B. V. Morrison, decided to make the raising of the spring flowers a horticultural specialty of the Garden Club of Virginia.

Fourteen member clubs joined the movement and offered seedlings of the well-known daffodil specialists, John C. Winter, planted in the fall of 1930 the first test collection of new and unusual varieties. The following spring in 1931, the first show was held at Farmington, sponsored by the Albemarle Garden Club.

From a small beginning, the show has grown to be one of the most extensive displays of daffodil varieties in America. There are now forty member clubs in the Garden Club of Virginia, each with its Daffodil Test chairman.

Mrs. H. Irvine Tuggle and Mrs. E. A. Sale, both of Martinsville, are co-chairmen of this year's show. Mrs. J. Robert Walker, also of Martinsville, is chairman of the Daffodil Test Committee.

With the exception of five special classes limited to Garden Club of Virginia members, the show is open to amateur growers of daffodils everywhere. Special non-competitive exhibits will be seen from the Daffodil Test Garden and from growers in the U. S. and Ireland.

Before 1945 less than $1,000,000 a year was spent for cancer research. Since then the American Cancer Society alone has devoted $35,000,000 to that work.

More than 100,000 different kinds of sea shells are known and named. They range in size from the microscopic to some weighing more than 500 pounds.

BUY...USE EASTER SEALS

not do much damage. Two holes on Atlantic Avenue have recently had to remove Ligustrum plants because they looked so unattractive. It was because proper consideration was not given to salt air exposure and the plants were nearly defoliated.

Often, because of constant pruning, the homeowner never allows the plant to develop flowers, but in the early summer, Ligustrum will produce masses of small white flowers that are attractive on the plant and in flower arrangements. After flowering, blue-black fruits are produced about the size of English peas. Many people think the fruit is attractive.

All in all, of the plants we have at our disposal for planting around foundations of homes, accent plants in shrub beds, screens, hedges, etc., none is more adaptable than Ligustrum.

Your question about gardening will receive a considered and prompt reply. Just address Garden Guide, care of the Sun-News, and watch for your answer.

The second edition of "The Hurricane," the Virginia Beach High School annual, has gone to press. Edna Hutschinger, editor-in-chief, announced this week that the 128-page book is filled with pictures and articles describing all phases of the activities at Virginia Beach High School.

Other members of the staff include: Robert Greene, associate editor; Charles Reina, business manager; Judy Taylor, assistant business manager; Julia Gray Wallace, circulation manager; Jo Ann Ferrell, feature editor; Jo Ann Johnson, art editor; Anita Myers, girls sports editor; Emanuel Katsias, boys sports editor; and Daniel Frouit, photography editor. Miss Martha Alice Wilson, sponsor, has worked along with the staff and provided excellent guidance in producing "The Hurricane."

The book is being published by the commercial printing department of the Virginia Beach Sun-News and is to be ready for distribution in May.

At the beginning of 1950 there was one automobile for every three persons 14 years of age or older; by 1975, it is estimated, there will be one car for every two or two and a half persons in that age group.

Fuel Feed Plans For Biggest Promotion During Hardware Week

IRHA Hardware Week, one of the nation's biggest promotions, will find Fuel, Feed and Building Supplies Corporation playing a key part, it was announced this week.

Featuring one of the greatest of all advertising and merchandising campaigns, bigger by far than last year's record-breaking event, Hardware Week will be observed by 23,000 independent hardware stores from coast-to-coast, April 15-23.

The letters IRHA stand for Independent Retail Hardwaremen of America. It is part of the symbol that identifies Fuel, Feed and Building Supplies Corporation of Virginia Beach as a member of the National Retail Hardware Association and a seller of standard, quality merchandise.

Supporting the IRHA stores in their great Spring selling campaign will be 566 wholesalers and more than 100 manufacturers whose brand-name goods are displayed in these independent establishments.

Widest Range of Items To participate in this long-anticipated event, Fuel, Feed and Building Supplies Corporation has loaded its shelves and storerooms with the latest merchandise. Everything from power tools, do-it-yourself tools and materials, kitchen equipment, sporting goods, and wanted garden supplies are tagged and ready for buyers.

In addition the usual staple lines have been restocked to prepare for the volume of business that has been increasing each year.

As part of the promotion, many standard items have undergone drastic price slashes as a bonus for buyers.

Many of the members of the National Retail Hardware Association are prepared to offer special buying plans, permitting customers to stock up on needed items and pay for them over a convenient period. This will be especially useful for the homeowners trying to stretch their paychecks in a period of high prices and yet needing numerous items for Spring rehabilitation of their homes.

Do-It-Yourself Items Like member stores throughout the country, Fuel, Feed and Building Supplies will have special decorations and exhibits in the store. There will be special window displays, posters, and pennants on items that are for sale.

As usual, a feature attraction at Fuel and Feed will be materials and tools for the "do-it-yourself" and home hobbyist. There will be paint, paint rollers, easy-to-walk paper, new types of paint and floor finishes, as well as kits for the craftsman.

All in all, it will be open house at Fuel and Feed — with clerks and "brass" ready to extend a welcome. Even though you may not buy, they are anxious to have customers drop in, browse around and ask questions.

The fastest train run in the U. S. was recorded in 1905, when the train now known as the Broadway Limited covered three miles in 85 seconds, traveling at a rate of 127 miles an hour.

Princess Anne Teams High In Judging Contest

The Peanut Federation, Future Farmers of America, had their annual livestock judging contest at the Holland Experiment Station March 26. Eight high schools were represented in the contest from this area.

The Princess Anne team of five boys was led by Floyd Waterfield, Jr., and Billy Sawyer, and followed closely by Stanley Murphy, Darny Dudley and Edward Gilbert. They scored a total of 1900 points out of a possible 2500. They judged two classes of beef cattle, two classes of swine and one class of sheep.

Windsor High School was second with third place going to the boys from Holland.

All 29 of the local FFA boys studying vocational agriculture will be busy for the next two weeks writing 10-minute speeches on agricultural topics. The Creeds Ruritan Club has offered a ten dollar prize to the boy who writes and delivers the best speech. The winner of this prize will represent Princess Anne in the public speaking contest of the Peanut Federation, which will be held at the Princess Anne High School the latter part of this month.

New "Orbital" Bus Service Will Speed Travel To - From Beach

Service was revised over the Boulevard, or south route, and the Port Story-Lynnhaven Roads highway, the north route, as well as in other areas served by the buses in this area.

Beginning last Friday morning, the buses began an "orbital" route system, with all buses leaving the Beach northbound making the Norfolk run and continuing a circular path back to the resort by the Boulevard. Conversely, all buses leaving the Beach for Norfolk via the Boulevard, will after leaving Norfolk, continue to the Beach by the northern, or Port Story route.

Lake View Park Civic League Aids Growth

Lake View Park is a relatively new residential development bordering on Laskin Road. It was originally the Joseph Lambert farm. This community was subdivided into one-acre sites in 1936 and has expanded and grown considerably since that time. A civic league was organized in 1943 and has grown in strength since its inception, having an average attendance of 75 persons at each regular monthly meeting.

A. Raymond Young, present president of the league, believes that the most important task now engaging the organization is the acquisition and improvement of roads in the Park. The league has worked in the past with the state highway engineer, Mr. Orange, and with county officials along this line. Local residents have to date raised $3,000 towards their roads and more has been pledged.

Another civic project the league has been working on is seeing that its residents register and vote. They have distributed pamphlets telling the residents what the voting requirements are. W. J. Slade, Jr., county registrar for the section, has attended meetings and assisted in registration. This civic league has worked hard to obtain a high standard of zoning for this residential section in order to keep the homes in a first class residential area.

Complete and official figures show that again in 1954—for the 19th straight year—

MORE PEOPLE BOUGHT CHEVROLETS THAN ANY OTHER CAR

No other low-priced car even comes close to matching these important Chevrolet advantages...

If you're planning to buy a new car, the one you just can't afford to miss seeing is Chevrolet—for 19 straight years America's best-selling car. The Motorama Chevrolet offers you so much more than the other low-priced cars that it's hardly fair to compare them. And even the high-priced cars don't have all the advantages that today's Chevrolet offers you.

The beauty's built-in—not belted on! And that makes a big difference—not only in how your car looks today, but in how it will look tomorrow, too. Chevrolet's good looks spring from fine, clean, uncluttered design. The beauty is inherent in the basic contours of metal and glass. There's no excessive belted-on ornamentation to go out of style overnight.

The Body's by Fisher!

No other low-priced car has a Body by Fisher—but many of the high-priced cars do. That fact alone tells you there must be something extra special about the style, quality and construction of Body by Fisher. And there is! You can see it, feel it and even hear it when you slam the door.

Today's most modern engines!

That goes for Chevrolet's new V8 and two new sixes as well. For example, all Chevrolet engines bring you a modern 12-volt electrical system—double the voltage of other low-priced cars. This means quicker cold weather starting and a greater electrical reserve. Then Chevrolet's new "Turbo-Fire V8" has the shortest piston stroke in the industry, and develops the highest power per pound of any V8 in the low-price field. It takes valve-in-head leadership like Chevrolet's to bring you truly modern engines like these!

A drive to suit your driving!

You can take your choice of three different drives—and every one's as modern as this minute. There's silky, peppery Powerglide, new Overdrive (both extra-cost options); and a new Synchro-Mesh transmission that's as smooth as they come.

All the power helpers you want!

Windows, seat, steering, brakes—all are available with built-in "muscles" to make driving as effortless as you wish.

And you can even have air conditioning if you like. These things are extra-cost options, of course, but they more than repay you with extra pleasure.

Fun is "standard equipment"!

You find that out the first time you take the wheel of a new Chevrolet. Here, you discover, is a car that takes the curves like it's on rails, that steers like it's reading your mind. It seems simply to ignore bumps—and when you stop suddenly, there's no excessive lurching or diving, either. There has never been such a difference in low-priced cars as there is today—or so many good reasons why you should drive a new Chevrolet. Come in and take the key.

Over Ten Million Chevrolet owners—Two Million more than any other car!

WHEN WOMEN FAIR

Altruism is a good word, but it is no word for the cross. There is an utterance, a beyondness, about the cross which bankrupts our most potent language. Altruism, generosity, magnanimity, sacrifice — these words and all the rest fall short of the mark. We sense that at the cross something very great was being done on our behalf. It was something so great that our minds cannot conceive it. Yet we must try to conceive it. It is highly important to us to make the effort. What does the cross mean to God and to us?

The Zoo and God

I used to enjoy going to the zoo. I loved to watch the antics of the lions and the elephants and the gymnastics of the monkeys. I think I have a real affection for the shaggy denizens of the zoo. But liking them is one thing; a willingness to become them is quite another thing.

Would I be willing, out of fondness for these animals, to enter their habitat, to share their life, to accept their limitations, to become one of them — in order that I might thereby lift them up to the human level? Such a question dimly suggests the question Christ answered in the affirmative. But it only dimly suggests it. For such willingness as this would fall far short of the willingness of Christ. "Being in the form of God . . . He emptied Himself." The Eternal Son became man. Pure, unfettered spirit assumed the bondage of finite brain and the limitations of human flesh. The Infinite and the Eternal came to live in the back streets of the dirty little town of Nazareth. "He was obedient unto death — even death on a cross."

Christ and Ourselves
Let us try again to make clear what the cross means. One of the figures used often in the New Testament to describe the relationship of Christ to the church is that of the bridegroom. Christ is, as it were, married to the church. The distinctive thing about a true marriage is the faithfulness of the partners. Such a marriage persists — for better or worse, for richer or poorer, in sickness and in health — until death. So Christ chose his people and has joined Himself to them. Sometimes we give up on people. We may say: "That does it! I'm not going to waste any more of my time and energy on him." We even have an expression for this very thing — "I wash my hands of him." I have been trying to think of an expression in English that means exactly the opposite of that, but I can't think of one. I don't believe there is one. We may say: "I'm stuck with him," but that doesn't quite convey it. Well, Christ committed Himself irrevocably to the work of recovering all humanity for God. He has never given up on that work and never will. Calvary is the proof.

"How on earth can He do that?" we sometimes ask. The question is significant. Christ could not do for us what He is doing — ON EARTH. For on earth He was subject to earth's limitations; also the limitations imposed by one body, one mind, one nervous system. But now He is not on earth. He is in the unseen — man still, but also God, doing what is impossible with man but possible with God.

We can't save ourselves, but Christ can save us. He will save us from our sins, cost what it will. That is what "the cross means." He ever liveth to make intercession for us."

INTO THE WOODS MY MASTER WENT

Some men make a bold attempt to write hymns in the hope that one or two will achieve immortality. Others write for the sheer joy of writing, with no thought of creating something that future generations will take to their hearts. To their surprise and their amazement, some stray bits of verse dashed off in an inspired moment meet a deep human need and wings its way into the hymnals of the church.

Thus it was with the versatile southern poet, Georgia-born Sidney Lanier, one of the rare southerners who made a permanent contribution to ecumenical hymnody. In his brief life of 39 years, he wrote fourteen volumes of prose and at least ten books of poetry, a remarkable record in view of his weak physical body and his life-long struggle against poverty, disease and disappointment.

When he wrote his wife, "Let my name perish — the poetry is good poetry . . . and the heart that needs it will find it," little did he dream that many hearts would find solace and strength in sixteen lines he wrote the year before his untimely death, entitled, "The Ballad of the Trees and the Master."

Life was not all bitterness to Lanier, but he seemed to have had more than his rightful share. A self-taught scholar who entered college at the age of fourteen, his education was interrupted by the Civil War, in which conflict he was at various times a scout, a signal officer, a blockade runner, and a prisoner. His physical breakdown dated from his prison hardships and privations.

Following the war he traveled widely and tried to earn a living at such varied jobs as a hotel clerk, school teacher, lawyer and writer. But even then happiness and contentment were denied him. So he began the serious study of music which had been one of his first loves. He perfected this talent to such a degree that, despite the threat of tuberculosis that hung over him for many years, he became the outstanding flutist in the country, and an accomplished violinist as well. From Texas he went to Baltimore where he played in the Peabody Orchestra and lectured on English literature at Johns Hopkins.

Moves to North Carolina
But the ravages of disease were him down, until he had to leave the city to seek solace in the mountains of western North Carolina. There, as his own life ebbed slowly away, he thought of the death of Jesus centuries before. Like the Master, who spent many lonely hours on Mount Olivet prior to His betrayal and crucifixion, Lanier often went in to the woods to regain composure and find inner peace.

When he could no longer play his prized flute, one of his most valued possessions, and when no more did the applause of the multitudes ring in his ears as it had at the close of many a successful concert, and when almost nothing could be done for him that had not already been done, he penned his sixteen lines that began:

Into the woods my Master went,
Clean forsook, forsook.

He died the very next year, in 1881, in Tryon, N. C., unaware of the fact that future generations would look back upon him as one of the leading hymn-writers of the southern states.

William Steffen, author of the hymn "O my brothers, will you meet us on Canaan's happy shore," was a Richmonder who wrote his song in Georgia. It is to his melody that we now sing "The Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Lowell Mason, father of American hymnology, public school music, long a resident of Boston, was at one time a bank clerk in Savannah, Georgia. It was while he lived in the south that he composed his hymn tune for "From Greenham's Key Mountains." And Charles Wesley himself must have sung some of his great hymns beneath the famed Wesley oaks on St. Simon's Island, near Brunswick, Georgia, during his brief stay in the colonies. But when we think of American composers and hymn-writers we include such "northerners" as Fiedler, North, Merrill, Holmes, S. F. Smith, Palmer, Stobbs, Bradbury, Bliss, Root, Lowry, Sankey and others.

But few wrote as exquisitely or as beautifully in the brief space of sixteen lines as did the south's leading poet, Sidney Lanier.

THE GOLDEN DAY

The bell rings, and its message is a clarion call across the countryside. Beneath it, white lilies touched by the sunlight look upward toward a cloudless sky.

This is Easter... the golden day... the day of promise and joy. This is the time when God proffers the great gift of eternal life... when he shows, in the lesson of the Tomb... that there is no death.

There is no more joyous occasion in the Church than Easter. Against the setting of Spring, it touches the land with beauty, bringing a new upsurge of hope, thrilling the young, comforting the old. Easter is the time to rededicate your faith... to listen again to a wonderful promise... to receive again a glorious gift. Start attending Church regularly by beginning at Easter.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Marine Parade Or Regatta Plans Must Have Coast Guard Approval

Persons planning to hold a marine parade or regatta during the coming boating season were reminded this week by the Commander 5th Coast Guard District of the requirements of law that plans be submitted to the Coast Guard for approval well in advance of the proposed event.

Covered by the requirement are marine parades or regattas, which by their nature, circumstance or location will introduce extra or unusual hazards to the safety of life on navigable waters. Statutory regulations are set forth in 33 CFR Part 100.

Any organized water event of limited duration which is conducted according to a prearranged schedule, and in which no public interest is manifested is considered a "marine parade" or "marine regatta."

If the planned regatta or marine parade is to be of such nature as to involve limitations on the use of a portion of the navigable waters by other interested parties, detailed plans must be submitted at least 60 days prior to the event to the District Commander of the Coast Guard District in which the event will be held. In all other cases, not less than 15 days' notice is required. In all cases as much notice as possible is desirable. For waters adjacent to the District of Columbia, and the states of Maryland, Virginia and North Carolina plans should be addressed to the Commander, 5th Coast Guard District, P. O. Box 540, Norfolk, Virginia.

To enable the District Commander to evaluate the request properly, certain detailed information must be furnished with the application. First, the name and address of the organization sponsoring the event, as well as the purpose for the affair, must be given. In this connection, the amount of general public interest in the event must be included, along with an estimate of the number and types of participating boats and spectators likely to be in the area at the time. A time schedule and description of the events to be held should also be included in the plans, along with a section of a chart or scale drawing showing the boundaries of the event and the various water courses or areas to be utilized by participants, officials, and spectators.

These requirements do not apply to marine parades or regattas occurring on the interior waters of a state providing certain conditions as set forth in 33 CFR 100.30 are complied with.

Rejuvenate That Casting Reel

An ounce of prevention is worth "you know what," so right now is the time to rejuvenate your casting reel. In most fly fishing the reel is subject to very little wear and needs almost no attention; a spinning reel does operate on each retrieve, but it too can be said to be idle during the cast. These two reels can go through a long life without much oiling or other care.

The case is quite different, however, with a casting reel. During each cast it works fast and furiously—spool, crank and gears whirling, level-wind mechanism racing madly back and forth. Perfect smoothness is necessary, for without it you'll have constant backlashes, short and difficult casts.

To avoid this, your casting reel needs pretty constant attention, which includes an occasional overhaul, completely. Now is the time to do it, before the fishing season. Reconditioning a casting reel is a simple and interesting job that shouldn't take over an hour. It calls for no mechanical aptitude, unless the end bearings are worn. So, before proceeding, see about those.

Check for Play
Remove the end caps. Take the spool between thumb and forefinger and shake sideways. Look, or feel, to find out if there's a very noticeable amount of side-to-side play. If there is, send the reel to its maker for new bearings; it cannot cast properly with worn ones. Let him do the whole overhaul job while he has the reel. It will cost very little, and he'll return it just like new.

But if the bearings aren't un-duty worn, and nothing is bent, you can do the job yourself. Remember when assembling the reel again, you work backward from what you did in taking it apart. If you have forgotten what some of these steps are, don't get annoyed or impatient and start forcing things; if something does not slide into place easily, you've got it wrong. Try reversing it, or try another part there.

Farmers Facing Problems With Social Security

Potato and vegetable farmers were warned this week by W. R. Goffigan, president of the Association of Virginia Potato and Vegetable Growers, to review the methods they employ of withholding social security taxes from farm employees.

Mr. Goffigan observed that many farmers were apparently still unsure of the new provisions on social security taxes which became effective on January 1 of this year. He pointed out that social security taxes must be paid on all farm employees earning $100 or more in the entire year of 1955.

Farmers with a quarterly payroll of $2,500 or more on which their tax liability would equal or exceed $100 must file quarterly returns. Farmers with a tax liability of $100 in one month are required to pay this money into a bank monthly in exchange for a receipt which can be surrendered at the time of filing the farmer's return.

W. F. McCaleb, Jr., executive vice president of the association, in commenting on the changes, stated, "the present social security law as it applies to farmers is grossly unfair and unrealistic, and places an intolerable burden of record keeping and detail on the potato and vegetable farmer. The practical difficulties involved in keeping track of the earnings of piece-work and casual farm labor are such that the average farmer simply cannot handle this additional burden."

The association, he stated, has been "bending every effort to secure the enactment of amendments to the present social security law to relieve the farmer of this intolerable burden." "Senator Byrd," he declared, "has introduced a bill in the Senate which would give considerable relief, inasmuch as it provides that agricultural workers who are not employed by the same employer for more than 60 days in a calendar year would be exempt from social security taxes."

Various bills, he continued, introduced in the House of Representatives such as H. R. 3077, which would provide that social security deductions and taxes would not become effective until a farm laborer had earned $250 or more annually from the same employer, would be an aid.

LOWER PRICES SEEN FOR VIRGINIA MELONS

Some what lower prices are foreseen for Virginia watermelons in 1955 as compared to the preceding two years.

And here are the reasons why, as explained by Dr. J. L. Maxton, agricultural economist at VPI. 8 sites in the early summer group, which market the bulk of their watermelons ahead of Virginia, are planning to increase plantings by 28,000 acres over 1954, to 460,000 acres. These states produced 108 million watermelons last year. Normally only about 20,000 acres are grown for fresh markets; sale in the late summer group of states, which includes Virginia.

South Texas planted early but lost these to January and February freezes. Some of this acreage was not replanted. As a result, early season production from these areas is expected to begin later and lap over longer into the marketing period which normally belongs to the late summer group. The important areas in watermelon production are Texas, Georgia, South Carolina, North Carolina and Oklahoma. They have the greatest effect on prices received by Virginia growers, and all have increased acreage.

Dr. Maxton advises Virginia growers to decrease their acreage 10 percent from that planted in 1954, and says this is a year when the best production and marketing practices should be carried out to the letter. Select sandy loam soil which has not had watermelons planted in it for several years. The Congo variety is most commonly recommended. Fertilize with 400 to 800 pounds of 5-10-5 per acre. Spraying or dusting is a must for insect and disease control.

Before the melons are ready to harvest, contact potential buyers and inform them of the variety, size, acreage and expected days of cutting. Harvest ripe melons when the vines are dry. Carry them along driveways and place with the ground side up for loading. Handle and load melons carefully, using adequate padding material. Weigh and sell in evenly weighed lots. Melons of US grade no. 1 and 30 lbs. or more average weight should be labeled to indicate top quality. Give the weight, area where grown, and grower's name and address.

Unless you know the buyer personally, take payment only with cash or by check on a local bank.

First combined naval maneuvers involving Japanese and American forces were held recently off Japan.

This 'n That

Dave Stephens, a Melbourne milkman who runs barefoot because he can't afford racing shoes, broke the Australian record by 23.6 seconds and came within 5.4 seconds of the world three-mile record.

Ted Williams' 1954 average of .345 was four points better than Bobby Avila's mark, but Williams was not recognized as the American League batting champion because his .386 at bat were 14 short of the required 400. Cincinnati's Ted Kluszewski is 6-2, weighs 225. In 1954 the big first baseman led both major leagues in home runs with 49, and in runs batted in with 141. Only three National Leaguers, Hack Wilson, Kiner and Johnny Mize, have hit more homers in one season. Carl Hubbell, the great Giant southpaw, was 30 years old before he attained the first of five successive 20-game campaigns. Jim Weatherall, big tackle who played at Oklahoma and then with Edmonton in the Canadian pro league last year, signed with the Philadelphia Eagles for next fall.

In most fly fishing the reel does nothing during the cast or retrieve, and is subject to little wear.

Recreational Fishing In Virginia Ranks Near Highest In The Nation

Steady increases in the numbers of hunters and anglers from year to year place a heavy responsibility upon the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries. The resources upon which these recreations depend must be safeguarded and expanded, and the individual commissioners are very mindful of their responsibilities in this regard.

While the state's game and fish management agency can't do it all alone, but seeks the help of all interested citizens, it is true that a highly efficient and businesslike organization has been set up, manned by capable personnel in all departments. The commission, in addition to carrying out its administrative duties effectively, is seeking to give intelligent leadership.

Last figures available for the various states from the United States Fish and Wildlife Service are for the year ended June 30, 1954. It is shown that, in a single year, Virginia jumped from tenth to ninth place among all the states in the number of hunting licenses sold. In a single year, 28,783 more people bought hunting licenses than in the year previous.

Increases in fishing licenses kept pace. Non-residents coming into the state to hunt and fish are growing in numbers all the time. A total of 5,909 non-residents bought licenses to hunt in the state, and non-resident fishing license sales mounted to 8,542. Duck stamp sales in Virginia were 24,269, as compared with

Fishing Most Popular

Fishing, as in past years, remained the most popular outdoor sport and, in the nation as a whole, 18,580,813 persons purchased licenses to fish. Hunters throughout the country reached the unprecedented number of 14,073,386 and they paid the fat sum of $46,047,781 just for their permits to hunt in the various states.

Michigan led the states in numbers of hunters, with 1,211,790. Rather surprisingly, New York was second with 918,047, and Pennsylvania ran third with 889,801. Minnesota led the states in fishing license sales with 1,277,917. California not far behind with 1,258,004. It should be pointed out, however, that California requires licenses for salt as well as fresh water fishing. Michigan was third with 1,159,925.

Fact is, and it is being more generally recognized throughout the country, that hunting and fishing not only constitute big business from the economic standpoint, but these recreations are rapidly growing in importance in the way of life of the American people.

Post-War Art On Display

A "first of its kind in America" exhibition will be on view at the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts tomorrow, April 8, when the newly formed Jenkins Collection of "Post War German Art" comes with a preview for members and their guests from 5 to 10 p. m.

The collection was inaugurated last year when Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Peyton Jenkins, of Palm Beach, spent the summer in West Germany. Their appreciation of the work done by the Berlin Group in particular prompted them to collect representative examples of post war art. This will be the first time such an exhibition will be displayed in America.

Lost Needlessly?

Although more than 70,000 Americans were cured of cancer last year, the tragic truth is that at least 70,000 others—who might have been saved—lost their lives because their cancers had spread and "colonized" in other parts of their bodies before proper treatment could be started.

That's why we keep reminding you that, since most early cancers can be cured, your best "insurance" is:

First: To have a thorough health check-up every year no matter how well you may feel (start a year for women over 35).

Second: To learn the 7 danger signals that may mean cancer, and go straight to your doctor at the first sign of any one of them—(1) Any sore that does not heal (2) A lump or thickening, in the breast or elsewhere (3) Unusual bleeding or discharge (4) Any change in a wart or mole (5) Persistent indigestion or difficulty in swallowing (6) Persistent hoarseness or cough (7) Any change in normal bowel habits.

For more lifesaving facts about cancer, phone the American Cancer Society office nearest you, or address your letter to "Cancer"—in care of your local Post Office.

The "studio house" designed and built by Detroit's Fred Garling, Jr., has been hailed in national publications as America's "most copied house" because it offers so many luxury housing features at a moderate price.

Open planning in the living-dining area adds to the spaciousness of the rooms. A folding divider wall opens up the den area and give you estimates in providing for you economical and satisfactory heating and air conditioning comfort. Visit the showrooms at 2715 Monticello Avenue, or call MA 5-6205 (reverse the charges) and their representative will visit your home at your convenience.

steps from the two main bedrooms. A separate hallway provides for easy accessibility between kitchen and bedrooms and to both without necessarily disturbing the living room. The back entryway is partitioned from the kitchen to provide an area for removing coats and heavy outer garments before going into the kitchen.

The studio house gets its name from the ceiling-floor picture window next to the front door. Casement-type windows made of aluminum are featured throughout the rest of the house.

The studio house sells in the Detroit area for slightly less than $11,000, a price that would seem to compare favorably with the best housing buys in other sections of the country.

Insulating Siding
Obviously, several economies have been realized in building the studio house. There's no basement, a feature which goes against the trend back to homes with basements, but which is almost universal in the Beach area. Neither is there any garage or carport, although either can be easily added at the side of the house opposite the kitchen.

Other economies have been effected without any sacrifice in quality. In fact, quality has been added in some instances. For example, the siding is insulating siding which is comparatively new to the construction field, although it has acceptance by FEA and has long been used successfully in modernizing older homes.

Five hundred of the Garling "studio house" have been erected many more will be built this year. In the Detroit area, and that

State Prospects For New Cars

An estimated 207,000 Virginia automobile owners will complete their installment payments on new and used passenger cars in 1955, according to a study by the nation's largest independent automobile financing company.

The study also disclosed that 181,125 persons in the state completely fulfilled their car-purchase contracts in 1954, according to Dwight B. Ferguson, vice-president of Universal C.I.T. Credit Corporation in this area.

"These figures are significant because they indicate the size of the state's automobile market in 1954 and 1955," he said. "Every one of these 350,000 car owners who paid off their cars in 1954 or who complete their payments this year is a prime prospect for a new car sale."

Across the nation, he explained, about 8,750,000 families and individuals who employed consumer financing to purchase their cars wound up the payments last year. In 1955, he estimated, the national total "paid in full" will be 10,000,000.

"Many of these people in the next two years will be ready, able, willing and even eager to re-enter the auto market to buy new and better cars," he said.

NEW FCDA LEAFLET TELLS FACTS ABOUT THE H-BOMB

No longer can any American avoid the responsibility for learning everything possible about personal and community survival.

This is the key admonition in an illustrated leaflet just published by the Federal Civil Defense Administration, entitled "Facts About the H-bomb."

One million of the leaflets, designed to tell Americans how they can survive a superbomb attack and the accompanying peril of radioactive fall-out, are being distributed throughout the country through regional, state and local civil defense agencies, schools, churches, industries, national organizations, and other channels. "The H-bomb," the leaflet declares, "is bigger than the A-bomb—but it is still a bomb. It has its limits, as does any other weapon. It makes the civil defense problem larger, but not different."

Demonstrating that there are practical limits to the amount of destruction that can be caused by a single bomb of any kind, the following statistics are cited:

"A bomb 1,000 times as powerful as the Hiroshima bomb will not cause damage 1,000 times as far away—only 10 times as far. It will harm an area only 100 times as large—not 1,000 times as large."

"No matter how big the size of atomic weapons," the leaflet declares, "we must concern ourselves with their effects on people and things. While the dividing lines between various damage areas of atomic blast are never sharp and clear-cut, the effects are felt generally in four different areas."

"1. The A-ring—a central area around the bullseye or 'ground zero.' In which destruction is so complete that neither people nor buildings have much chance of surviving."

"2. The B-ring—a larger belt of heavy damage around the central area. This ring is about three times as large as the A-ring. In the B-ring, injury to people and destruction of buildings would be severe but not complete."

"3. The C-ring—a still larger circular belt of lesser damage around the B-ring. Injuries to people in this area would range from moderate to light."

"4. The D-ring—where damage would be light and all the rest of the countryside beyond the limits of even light damage from the blast. However, much of this area can be affected by the fall-out of radioactive particles resulting from certain kinds of nuclear attack."

Need Well-Rehearsed Plan
The leaflet goes on to say: "If you live or work near the heart of a probable atomic effect, it will take a well-rehearsed civil defense dispersal plan and early attack warning from the Air Force to evacuate you to safety when the alert sounds."

"If you live or work within reach of a secondary blast effect, in an area where damage probably would be heavy, dispersal is still your best chance of staying alive."

"If you live so far from the center of a target area that damage probably would be light, you still need a home shelter for greater security from both blast and radioactive fall-out. And you should know how to render first aid, put out small fires, and take other civil defense measures to help yourself and others."

"If you live well beyond any likely target area, you still need to know first aid, how to feed the hungry, shelter the homeless, and aid others less fortunate than yourself. And you should plan adequate cover against radioactive fall-out."

Emphasizing that the best means of protection from the immediate effects of atomic or hydrogen bombs are distance from the center of the explosion and the protection of suitable shelter, the leaflet urges all citizens to "cooperate fully with your local civil defense authorities. They want to help you learn how to survive. If we are attacked, what you do BEFORE the explosion can save your life. What you do AFTER the explosion can also save lives, including your own."

It continues: "All 160 million Americans at home must accept an active part in civil defense preparedness. Organized civil defense is both a shield and a sword. It can reduce appreciably the loss of lives and property under enemy attack."

Nature's Best Still Found In United States

"A wilderness area may be defined as a country of solitude where Nature is at its best, a country free from destruction wrought by man and the sights and sounds of modern civilization. In few regions of the world are found such varied and priceless retreats and masterpieces of Nature as lie along the crests of the Appalachian Mountains in our East, and the Cascade, Sierra Nevada and Sierra Madre Mountains in our West."

So claims Col. Townsend Whelen, camping editor of Sports Afield magazine. "Along the trails that traverse these, the lovers of the unspoiled outdoors can wander, pitch their little camps and open up their sleeping bags under pine trees, in view of gorgeous peaks, in crisp air, in solitude and silence except for the singing of the birds, the tinkling of running water, and the swish and hum of wind through the trees."

And all this is free to all of us, with no taint of commercialism, no license, no guide's charge. Our only obligation is to keep this country clean and unharmed."

Pacific Crest Trailway
The Pacific Crest Trailway extends from Canada to Mexico for a total of about 2,150 miles, passing through many national forests and parks, and skirting the most famous mountains—Ranier, Adams, Hood, Shasta and Whitney. It passes through Sequoia and Yosemite Parks. It has been built and is maintained by the U. S. Forest Service and National Parks Service.

It is not a trail for picnic parties; it is a wilderness trailway for expert back-packers—a "true nature trail." To publicize it the Pacific Crest Trail System Conference was organized with headquarters at Pasadena, Cal. The Sierra Club, 1050 Mills Tower, San Francisco 4, has done much to bring public attention to the trail. Both public numerous bulletins and books on the trail.

The blizzard which lashed the Great Plains states the weekend of February 20 was the worst in six years, and left over 40 persons dead in its wake.

Appalachian Trail
The Appalachian Trail is a footpath extending for 2,050 miles from Mount Oxtelthorpe in Georgia to Mount Katahdin in Maine. It crosses the wilderness areas along the crests of the Great Smokey, Blue Ridge, Allegheny and Catskill Mountains, through the Berkshire Hills, the Green and White Mountains, and finally the lake and mountain country of Maine.

This trail is a volunteer recreational project. It is supervised and maintained by the Appalachian Trail Conference with offices at 1916 Sunderland Place, N. W., Washington 6, D. C. On receipt of 35 cents in coin the Conference will mail a pamphlet, "Suggestions for Appalachian Trail Users," which gives general information and lists other helpful books.

Robert Johnston Heads Assn.

Picked to head the National Paper Trade Association, distributing branch of the paper industry, which met in New York City last week, is Robert S. Johnston, chairman of the board of the Old Dominion Paper Company, of Norfolk.

Johnston, whose father founded the Norfolk firm in 1884, has been active in the national association for many years, and has been vice president for the past two years. He has also previously seen service on various committees.

Following his graduation from Davidson College, Johnston joined the Old Dominion organization. He has been active in civic affairs and is a member of the Norfolk Planning Commission, member of the board of the Norfolk Chamber of Commerce, past president of the Rotary Club and a member of the board of deacons of the First Presbyterian Church of Norfolk. He is also a member of the American Institute of Management.

Springfield, Ill., has decided that bus-bombs are preferable to starlings. Tiny, firecracker-like devices equipped with plastic propellers, the hissing gadgets reach a height of 400 feet and then explode. City fathers hope they'll scare the wits out of the noisy birds and force them to leave town.

Our Way of Life...

This nation is proud of its heritage and its achievements—proud of the highest standard of living the world has ever known.

But we are most proud of something that dwarfs our vast material gains... something that is priceless in a confused world.

In our nation of 160 million, we have 294,359 churches—and 40,947 of these have been built since the end of World War II. In nine years, our church membership has grown from 72,492,000 to 95,681,000—a gain of 23 millions.

Since World War II, the Bible has sold more than 1 million copies every year, and in 1953 sales reached about 1½ million. In countless other ways, there's evidence that the people of the United States are seeking spiritual faith in ever-growing numbers. Such spiritual growth is the necessary foundation for survival of freedom in any land.

There is comfort, reassurance and hope in this course the American Way of Life is taking.

Insect Survey Shows Damage

This is the time of year when the going begins to get rough in some continual battle against insects.

A recent survey shows: Green June beetle larvae are active in pastures in Greenville and Surry, and are causing damage to lawns in Princess Anne and Norfolk. The beetle larvae likely will cause severe damage to pasture this year.

Requests for control recommendations for the meadow spitting have been received at VPI, and are available from this office.

Bull mites are troublesome on lawns in Southampton. Control tips are available if you are having similar trouble.

The southern pine beetle was the cause of severe tree-killing in Virginia in 1954, and unless infestations are reduced by natural control factors, losses are expected to continue this year. Additional build-up of beetle populations likely will occur in trees blown down during Hurricane Hazel.

Japanese beetle populations will be up this year, if grub counts in small diggings in southeastern Virginia are any indication.

There wasn't much trouble from stored grain insects through February in the southeastern counties, but activity will soon increase. Damage probably won't be significant until the middle or last part of May.

It's time, too, to worry about termites. They will become more active as the season gets warmer. There are several references on control. They may be secured from my office. Read also the article this week on termite eradicators.

Sheep scabies are severe in the western part of the state, reports indicate.

Farms are urged to keep their county agent's office aware of insect problems, so that a clear state-wide picture may be seen.

Beware the Unsuspected Termite Extremist

This office has been advised by J. M. Amos, insect specialist at VPI, that several reports of "questionable practices" in the termite extermination business have already been received in his department this spring.

He warns home owners against "fraudulent termite exterminators," and says it pays to check on the operator hired. There are many who are honest and reliable.

Termites work slowly, but persistently, and you have time to check the exterminator's reputation before you hire him. A delay of a few weeks, or even months, will make little difference.

Amos says the VPI Agricultural Extension Service is cooperating with the Virginia State Pest Control Operators' Association, and Better Business Bureaus, regarding the reliability of persons who solicit work in termite control. If you will contact any one of these three organizations, they will be glad to help.

Here are some tips on how you can gauge the reliability of persons offering termite control service:

If you are told that termites will soon ruin or cause your house to collapse, you can definitely list the firm as questionable. Firms which charge according to the amount of chemical used likewise are questionable. Any good termite operator can estimate the cost just as a carpenter can estimate the cost of a repair job.

A reliable pest control operator should have established headquarters and a dependable local reputation. Do not depend on any "guarantees." Most of them are worthless. Rather, depend on the reputation of the operator. Do not consider price the criterion of a good job.

Home Gardening Gets Into Full Swing

Home gardening will get into full swing throughout Virginia during April.

VPI specialists suggest planting three or four varieties of corn in blocks in the garden in late April. Select the varieties so they will be ready to harvest ten days or two weeks apart. Then two plantings will be enough to supply roasting ears throughout the growing season.

Use yellow varieties, such as Spangcross (70 days to maturity); Carmel Cross (77 days); Golden Cross Bantam (84 days); Iona (86 days); Aristogold Bantam Evergreen (87 days); and Stowell's

SPRING CLEAN-UP CHORES LISTED

Don't give fires a place to start! It's spring clean-up time and the Virginia Rural Safety Council urges all housewives and farm folk generally to stop fire through clean-up.

Spring is the best time to clear out all quick-burning rubbish and to correct fire hazards around the farm. And it pays off many times over in life and property saved from fire.

The Council lists these five "chores" as important to the safety of your farm:

Get rid of rubbish — old magazines, clothing rags, mattresses, and discarded furniture. Check and double-check your attic, the closets, the basement, and other places of storage, particularly the barn.

Clean up rubbish and winter trash in the farm yard, and also the dried weeds, grass and leaves around buildings and along fences.

(If you object to this not being "woman's work," you're right, but it often takes a bit of prodding from the "lady of the house" to get the men-folk going.)

Clean up the machine shop and the work bench. Dispose of shavings, oily rags and old paints and oils.

Clean up all electrical equipment and power machinery. Have a competent electrician make any needed repairs.

Evergreen Hybrid (94 days).

Recommended varieties of snap beans are: Bush or drart — Contender, Stringless Black Valentine, Wade, and Surecrop Stringless Wax. Pole snap beans — Kentucky Wonder and Blue Lake. Include blight-resistant potato varieties, wilt-resistant tomato varieties, and yellows-resistant cabbage varieties.

Buy only graded and certified plants if you buy plants. Few plants and poor seed are expensive at any price. They will decrease the yield and the quality of the vegetable garden throughout the season.

A good fertile seedbed will add dollars to the value of the garden. Prepare the seedbed well before planting. Don't work the soil when it is too wet.

Cutworms will begin to cause trouble in April. Use 10% toxaphene or 10% DDT to control them. April will also bring many of the sucking insects, such as plant lice and leaf hoppers. Use a 4% malathion dust or a spray made from 25% malathion to control them. The Mexican bean beetle and other chewing insects can be controlled with 3/4 of 1% rotenone dust.

Clean up stoves, furnaces and chimneys in both farmhouse and outlying buildings.

INTERESTING

Forty million loaves of bread are baked and eaten in America every day. The average city person eats six slices a day, about two pounds a week. The average family of four buys 416 pounds of bread a year, and spends four cents of every food dollar for it.

HEALTH FACTS YOU SHOULD KNOW

America has a gigantic sweet tooth. VPI home economists say that it takes 8,000,000 tons of sugar per year (100 pounds per person) to satisfy it. Linking the high consumption of sweets with tooth decay, which affects more than 95% of the population, doctors explain that fermentation of sugar in the mouth produces the acids which start the trouble. Significant factors in preventing tooth decay are regular meals, no in-between-meal eating, and little candy or desert.

Heart diseases killed more people in Virginia between July 1, 1953, and June 30, 1954, than did any other single cause. Watch weight, undue worry, and over-fatigue.

Cancer, a disease which takes an increasing number of lives each year, was third among death causes in Virginia last year. The total was 3,635, a figure which includes deaths caused by leukemia commonly called cancer of the blood stream. Be sure members of your family have regular physical check-ups.

A survey on breakfast habits of children 9 to 12 years old shows the importance of two factors for good breakfasts. Breakfast scores went up when mother or an adult prepared the meal. The child who prepared his own breakfast did not eat as adequately. Also the results show that boys and girls who ate breakfast with the whole family averaged higher scores than the other children.

Hostesses Named For Garden Tour Scheduled For Tuesday, April 26

By Kay Daughle Sewell

At a meeting held at the home of Mrs. F. Alfred Van Patten at 300 50th Street on Thursday at 10:30 a. m., head hostesses for the eight homes and gardens to be open for the Virginia Beach Tour were assigned to their homes and received their instructions.

Mrs. Van Patten is hostess chairman for the tour, which is scheduled to take place on Tuesday, April 26, between 10 a. m. and 5:30 p. m. Two head hostesses have been assigned to each house, who in turn will have their assistant hostesses.

"You will need assistant hostesses," said Mrs. Van Patten, "if this year's attendance is anything like last year's. We know for a fact that on last year's tour at least 600 people visited the Gifford penthouse and the F. Sheppard Royster home."

This year the Gifford penthouse will again, by popular request, be open to the public. The other seven homes and gardens have never been open before.

Hostesses were reminded by Mrs. Van Patten that they will be visitors, be representing not only Virginia Beach but the entire State of Virginia during this nationally recognized Historic

HAVE YOU SEEN THIS BALLOON ?

Smoke, the Fire Preventer Bear, asks everyone to please be on the lookout for his large helium-filled balloon. This balloon escaped from its cord in Bristol and was last seen heading east. The balloon cost Smoke approximately $150 and he has used it in several towns and cities to remind folks to be extra careful with their cigarettes to help him prevent forest fires. Smoke's balloon measures about 10 feet long and 5 feet wide. Anyone having information should contact their district forester or chief forest warden. Smoke will appreciate your interest in this matter, and asks you to "Remember, only you can prevent forest fires."

Garden Week event.

They were told that they must have on hand information to answer readily questions both anticipated and unanticipated. Is that the original Waterford glass? Sheraton, Hepplewhite or Duncan Phyfe? How do they get that indirect lighting effect? Is that really a Ming dynasty vase? What time does the ferry leave for Newport News? The plane for New York? Why is the window blue? Can little Johnny have a glass of water, please?

The head hostesses chosen are Mrs. Harry N. Sessions, Mrs. Warfield Leake, Mr. James R. Bridges, Mrs. R. Lawson Miles, Jr., Mrs. Alfred P. Randolph, Mrs. William P. Dodson, Mrs. Robert Taylor, Mrs. Gordon Tyler, Mrs. George F. Darden, Mrs. Charles H. Slingsluff, and Mrs. Charles Dean, all members of the Virginia Beach Garden Club.

Mrs. T. N. P. Johnson, Mrs. Dawson Taylor, and Mrs. Herman Evans, members of the Junior Virginia Beach Garden Club, will also serve as head hostesses. Mrs. Ralph C. Gifford will act as her own hostess in her Mayflower penthouse apartment.

Also present at the meeting in the Van Patten home were Historic Garden Week Chairman Mrs. James H. Watters and Vice-chairman Mrs. Charles Syer, Jr.

Q's And A's On The GI Bill

To give information to post-Korea veterans and their families on eligibility for education and training under the Korean GI Bill, the Veterans Administration furnished a series of questions and answers, as follows:

Q—How should a veteran go about planning a program of study under the Korean GI Bill?

A—First, he should decide upon a specific goal he wants to reach. It may be either educational, professional or vocational. Next, he should choose the type of training that would best help him reach his goal. Finally, he should select a school or training establishment that offers the type of training he will need.

Q—What are examples of the various types of goals?

A—An educational goal would be the achievement of a diploma, degree or certificate showing scholastic achievement. A professional goal would be law, medicine or some other profession. A vocational goal would be the job the training leads to.

Q—What is a veteran who helps in deciding upon a goal?

A—VA will provide him with educational and vocational guidance, if he desires it. In such a case, he should indicate that he wants counseling in his application for GI training.

Q—May a veteran train in a school outside the U. S.?

A—Yes, provided his course is to be taken in an approved institution of higher learning.

Q—Are there any courses not permitted under the Korean GI Bill?

A—Courses in bartending, dancing or personality development are prohibited by law. Q—May a veteran take any other so-called avocational or recreational courses?

A—Only if he submits justification to VA that the course will be of bona fide use in his present or contemplated business or occupation. VA approval should be obtained before starting his course.

Q—How does a veteran go about applying for Korean GI Bill training?

A—He must obtain an application blank — VA Form 7-1990 — at any VA office; fill it out completely; attach photostatic or certified copies of both sides of his discharge or separation papers (Form DD 214), and send it to his nearest VA regional office. The application should NOT be mailed to VA headquarters in Washington, D. C.

A—What is the next step?
A—If the veteran's application is in order, VA will send him a Certificate for Education and Training — VA Form 7-1993. He presents this to his school or training establishment and arranges with the school or establishment to start his training.

Mayor Frank Dusch Expresses Endorsement of Special Edition present a true and accurate picture of the growth and development of the city and county.

Much work has already been done in compiling news stories and historical features that will be included in the special edition. The edition will be filled with pictures of individuals and landmarks of the area.

Plans call for approximately 250 pictures to appear in the edition. Pictures will include those of business and civic leaders of Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach and pictures of churches, schools, historical landmarks and pictures of the area's remarkable growth and development through the years.

There will be numerous feature stories with pictures in the special edition and special treatment. It will be devoted to the colorful history of Princess Anne County.

Of Record Size

The special edition, which is expected to contain a record number of pages, will be mailed to regular subscribers of the Sun-News and to leading businessmen all over Virginia. In addition, the edition will be mailed to all public school superintendents in the Old Dominion, to members of the Legislature, and to state office holders, to public libraries and to investment bankers throughout the United States.

In addition to those copies mailed out, several thousand copies will be printed for sale through-out the summer season with a specially designed wrapper for mailing purposes.

Mayor's Statement

Mayor Dusch made the following statement concerning the special edition:

"I know of no one proposal at the present time that offers such an opportunity to publicize our community. I sincerely believe that an edition of the scope that you are working on will be of present and lasting value to our city and county. I offer my whole-hearted cooperation. Please reserve for me fifty copies that I may send to some of my out-of-town friends."

New Accounting System in County Becomes Effective on July First

Princess Anne County's government will function under a new fiscal and accounting system commencing next July 1 as a result of action taken by the county board of supervisors. Last Wednesday after a conference with the State Auditor of Accounts.

The new system will be designed along the lines of the State system and will provide a centralized system of accounting, plus the creation of a comptroller's office.

J. Gordon Bennett, the State Auditor of Public Accounts, recommended the new system to the Board after a three-hour conference. The Board of Supervisors voted unanimously to accept the recommendation and to revitalize the present accounting and purchasing system.

To install the new accounting system will require the purchase of certain equipment and the employment of a comptroller and an assistant. It is estimated that this will require an expenditure between $15,000 and $20,000.

Bennett told the board that the new system would afford a tighter control of the budget and would give the board a clearer picture of the county's financial picture at all times.

A committee composed of Court Clerk John V. Penning, Deputy Treasurer Ben H. Oldham and a member of the planning commission was named to purchase the necessary machinery.

It was pointed out that the Board had the new plan under consideration for more than a year. It was that long ago that Board Member Floyd T. Deary and Board Secretary V. Alfred Etheridge visited the City of Washington to study that city's system of purchase and accounting. Deary pointed out that they had also investigated the accounting method employed by the City of Virginia Beach.

Almer Ames and Wrendo Godwin Enter Lists Seeking Senate Post

Two Eastern Shore men have announced for the Senate seat representing the First Senatorial District with E. Almer Ames, Accomack's Commonwealth Attorney, and Wrendo Godwin, of Parkley, in the race for the seat vacated by V. Alfred "Jack" Etheridge, of Princess Anne.

Ames announced in late January that he would make the run for the Senate post and Godwin announced last week that he would be in the campaign for the seat that will be decided in the July 12 election.

Ames, 52, has been commonwealth's attorney since 1943 when he was appointed to the office. Since then he has been re-elected twice without opposition. He is a native of the Eastern Shore and has practiced law at Onancock since he was admitted to the bar in 1924.

Godwin is a veteran of the Virginia General Assembly. He has served as a delegate from his area for five terms. Godwin is 58 years old and is a Mason and a Shiner.

Neither candidate has announced a definite platform, but both men have indicated that they would issue a formal statement setting forth their platform at a later date.

Hubbies Will be Guests at Club's Birthday Dinner

Mayor Frank A. Dusch was among those attending the opening of the American Legion Baseball Season in Washington last Monday. Mayor Dusch's attendance is an annual custom that he has carried out since his childhood days.

The Virginia Beach executive is a guest of Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington baseball club, each year. He occupies a box located just next to that of the President of the United States.

Incidentally, the Washington team won the opening game by outscoring Baltimore, 12 to 5.

Dissension Said to Plague Opposition Ranks Even as Candidates File for Primary

Stalwarts of "Anti" Group Rumored Dissatisfied With Heath and Oliver

By Walter Reglett

Overcoming what appeared to be serious differences among the candidates, the Ticket for Princess Anne has filed for the four constitutional officers in the July primary election and observers are wondering if the sharp clash of the candidates in the past can be put aside through the campaign.

Various reports have been circulating that all has not been harmonious among the four candidates, C. R. Malbon, for sheriff;

James E. Heath, for commonwealth's attorney; L. B. Walker, for treasurer, and W. W. Oliver, Jr., for commissioner of the revenue.

According to reliable reports the chief discord has developed between Malbon and Heath. It has been rumored that at a recent meeting of the candidates held at the home of Alfred T. Taylor, brother-in-law of Malbon, the group headed by Heath withdrew from the race and that he be replaced on the political ticket of the anti-organization. A source close to the group reports that Heath won a reprieve and was allowed to remain in the race.

The report of the alleged meeting also stated that some citizens from Virginia Beach, including

A list of candidates for the July Democratic primary election will be found on page four of this section of the SUN-NEWS. The list is complete as of press time at 8 p. m. on Wednesday.

A complete and official list of candidates will appear in next week's edition of the SUN-NEWS.

Clairborne R. Bryant and John H. Bell, were in attendance. The report did not state what stand Bryant or Bell took in the discussion. According to the report, W. F. "Bill" Hudgens, Princess Anne County resident and a former county clerk, attended the meeting and that he expressed the desire to have Oliver and Heath replaced on the ticket.

Walker, it is reported, also joined in the move to have Heath withdrawn and it is understood that he (Walker) claimed that Heath had been convicted several times and that people could not vote for a man for commonwealth's attorney with a record like that.

The report further indicated that Taylor refused to aid the campaign in a financial way as long as Heath remained on the ticket.

The apparent battle among the anti-organization candidates continues, according to reports, but on the surface, at least, the campaign has a final way to face the four organizational standard bearers in the July election.

The organization candidates, Robert S. "Bob" Wahab, Jr., for commonwealth's attorney; V. Alfred "Jack" Etheridge, for treasurer; Ivan D. Mayo, for commissioner of the revenue; and John E. Marr, for sheriff, filed formally several weeks ago. Thus far the organization slate has conducted a comparatively quiet campaign and have announced a definite platform.

PA Garden Club Gives to Save Historic Mansion

At the April meeting of the Princess Anne Garden Club last Monday at the home of Mrs. William R. Howard, on 54th St., Va. Beach, the Club voted to send a contribution to the Committee to save the Thorwood house, which is being headed by Mr. Henry Clay Hetherington, II, Mrs. Elizabeth Gregory Hill, the President of the Princess Anne Garden Club appealed to the members to contribute individually, as the Committee needs the backing of the public, as well as organizations.

Mrs. Henry M. Pinner of the Nansemond River Garden Club had brought many of her different and beautiful jonquils and narcissi. She told their story from the jonquilla simplica, the tiny sweet scented flowers found native in the hills of Spain, to the 15,000 varieties we have to choose from today. Her talk and her flowers were both exceptional.

The Club voted to send a child to the Nature Camp at Vesuvius, Virginia. Each member Club of the Garden Club of Virginia is asked to send a child each year. Practically every child sent in the last two years is returning this year and paying his own way.

Plans for the Thirteenth Annual Rose Show in the Panorama Room, Cavalier Beach Club, Virginia Beach on the 7th and 8th of May were discussed.

Mrs. E. C. Raquet, chairman of the Historic Garden Week Committee announced the hostesses for the six places on their tour Sunday April 24th and Monday April 25th.

PARADE OF PROGRES

New Car Parade Here Saturday

Residents of Va. Beach will witness a novel parade this year when the community's new car dealers present their first Parade of New Models on Saturday April 16. William A. Thompson, Jr., Chrysler-Vauxhall Dealer, chairman of the Spotlight on Automobiles Committee announced today that this colorful motorcade will highlight Va. The 1955 models will be assembled at 2:00 p. m. at Va. Beach High School and proceed along Atlantic Ave. In addition to the new cars, the parade committee has arranged many other features of interest.

"Spotlight on Automobiles" week has been planned to focus public attention upon the vital role automobiles play in American life. A recent survey showed that 47 percent of car usage was for work or business, 23 percent for shopping, 8 percent for church, 5 percent for school and 4 percent for health or visits to the doctor.

Local dealers are participating in the "Spotlight on Automobiles" celebration.

Buffet Supper to Precede Recital

The Concert Association was started this year by the Virginia Beach Music Club. The idea was first advanced at a meeting of the club in October, 1949, by the former Carol Simpson, now Mrs. Neal. Mrs. Richard Everett, this year's president of the Virginia Beach Music Club, has worked tirelessly towards making the series a success.

Previous concerts have been given by Sylvia Rosenberg, violinist, and Philippe Entremont, pianist. Last Sunday's New York Times carried a highly complimentary article on Mr. Entremont.

Miss Emmons, soprano, and Mr. McGrath, tenor, have appeared abroad and in this country. Miss Emmons toured Brazil in 1953 and was the first American to go to that country under an artists' exchange program. She has sung with the Robert Shaw Chorale in Carnegie Hall, with the CBS Symphony and Desoff Choir. She is a Fulbright Award winner and records for RCA-Victor and Concert Hall Society. Miss Emmons, who is Mrs. Baldwin in non-recital life, spent her honeymoon at Virginia Beach.

Mr. McGrath sang in the Verdi Requiem with the Buffalo Philharmonic Orchestra and with the Buffalo and Pittsburgh Orchestras. He has been heard on national radio programs, has sung under Toscanini and with the Chicago, Pittsburgh and Chattanooga symphonies.

One of the numbers on the program will be a playful little opera called "The Secrets of Suzanne," the part of Suzanne, the mute servant, will be taken by Miss Anne Henry, the Miss Henry of the television Romper Room program.

Buffet supper will be given at the Sir Walker Hotel at 6 p. m. preceding the concert for members of the Civic Concert Association.

Small boy in Atlantic City, N. J., called the police — said his mother wasn't back from shopping, and he wanted his lunch. Officers fixed him a snack. Complete with cokes, maybe?

"ROSE HALL" RESTORED

This is "Rose Hall" before restoration. The historic home is now restored as a fashion house of the Queen Anne period with the terrace level wing and old basement kitchen converted into smart fashion shops. Mr. and Mrs. Colin Studds are present owners of the building which is located on the Virginia Beach boulevard about six miles from Virginia Beach.

Newly Restored "Rose Hall" Opens As Smart Fashion Shop

Since September 1954 when restoration began on the old house about six miles from Virginia Beach on the south side of Virginia Beach Boulevard, passersby have been speculating as to what was going on.

From the newspapers some had learned that the old gambler roofed brick house was formerly known as the Francis Land home, that it had been purchased by Mrs. Colin Studds and that Mr. and Mrs. Studds planned to restore the old house as a manor house of the Queen Anne period.

However, many people were unaware that the restoration plans included converting the lower terrace wing and immense downstairs kitchen into smart fashion shops.

According to Mrs. Studds, when she fell in love with "Rose Hall" a year ago and purchased it, she realized that the cost of restoration was prohibitive unless it could be utilized in some way other than as a home. Today she is very proud of her inspiration to incorporate fine fashion shops. To her knowledge, no home has been restored as extensively which, at the same time, provides a setting of restyle for fashions of today.

The extensive 2500 square foot shop area of the old terrace level wing and the downstairs kitchen has been floored with hand-made paving bricks. The terrace level foyer accommodates accessories, display shadow boxes, the general office and a powder room. Down four steps is the basement or downstairs kitchen with its handwoven, whipsawed beams, and its raised fireplace with crane and utensils over 200 years old. Stemming from this fascinating fireplace foyer are the individual shops — a Beach Colony Shop of women's resort and deep country clothes, a Pre-School Shop for boys and girls, and the Pre-Teen Girls' Shop. Also on this level are dressing rooms and an alteration room.

All the fixtures and appointments of the shops are modernly functional, yet beautifully blended with the significant historic touches of paving bricks and exposed beamed ceiling.

Upstairs, on the first floor, is the "After Five Salon," where cocktail dresses are displayed. These shops will feature distinctive clothes selected for their suitability to this locale. Two of the most representative fashion buying offices in New York have been retained, Sophie Folz and Young Fashions, Inc. Through these offices resort fashions from California and from rising new American designers will be introduced to Tidewater and prices will be both moderate and exclusive.

Associated with Mrs. Studds in "Rose Hall's" fashion shops will be Mrs. Elizabeth B. Barnes of Virginia Beach, Mrs. A. B. Beasley, a well known and accomplished alteration expert, formerly with Montalvo's, will be in charge of all alterations and will be on hand at all times.

It is the Studds' intention to extend the gracious hospitality of yesterday at "Rose Hall" and in its shops, welcoming visitors from ten a.m. to six p.m., Mondays through Saturdays.

Opening April 18, "Rose Hall" will be identified by the large pointed white posts with their swooping railings. These posts mark the entrances to the U-shape oyster shell drive that leads up to the circa 1720 house, surrounded by trees over three hundred years old.

Let's Start A Craze!

Almost everybody has some special accomplishment that he feels proud about. In some cases it's a sport in which he excels—like golf or tennis. Other men pride themselves on a hobby like gardening or a home workshop. Painting, photography, even 3-dimensional tick-tac-toe, all have their enthusiasts who take pride in a special skill.

But there's one skill that all of us need practically every day and not enough of us take pride in. That's the skill behind the wheel of a car. You've probably heard men brag about the speed limits they've broken, the traffic tickets they've collected, the narrow escapes they've had while driving. But how many times have you talked to a man who took real pride in being an expert driver—in driving surely, safely and legally?

Maybe you know a man—or a woman—or even a youngster—who really qualifies as an expert driver. Why not go out of your way to praise this kind of ability in front of others? Get folks thinking about skillful driving—looking for it on the highway—talking about it. That's the way a craze gets started. First people talk in small groups and then in wider and wider circles until everybody's excited about it.

That's how the chain letter craze spread back in the Thirties. It's how the Pyramid Club craze spread in the post-war period. It's how the expert driving craze can spread right now—if you help to get the notion circulating.

By doing this you can give the cause of highway safety a big forward push. You will be helping your own business, too. For in place of the negative approach that makes people think they'll be safer if they drive less, you'll be using a practical, positive appeal. You'll be showing them that they can be safe by driving better.—Virginia Petroleum Industries Committee News.

In the laying flock, check to see that the birds are still laying. Often, birds that began laying in the fall stop by early spring. With the birds in fairly good prices for hens, it is often more profitable to market the hens that have slowed down in egg-laying. Some of the broody hens are handled properly; they get back into production and make a profit, but on most farms the profitable practice is to market the hens as soon as they go broody.

Automobiles Prove Essentiality In Modern Living In America

In connection with the observance of "Spotlight on Automobiles" Week, William O. Thompson, Jr., Chrysler-Plymouth dealer, has called attention to the following facts pinpointing the essentiality of the automobile in America:

once the chief power source on farms, now run a poor second to motorized farm vehicles, being outnumbered two to one.

The automobile and its allied industries employ 9.7 million persons — one out of every seven workers in the nation. And 700,000 people are directly dependent on franchised dealerships for their livelihood.

More than half a million school pupils are known to use private automobiles regularly to reach classes.

Automobiles are essential to public safety. The squad car gives police added mobility and the ambulance is an indispensable weapon of mercy.

Galilee Church Is Setting For Koolage-Emerick Wedding

The marriage of Miss Karol Ann Emerick, daughter of Mrs. Emerick of Oceana and Charles Emerick of Port Huron, Michigan, to Robert Newton Koolage, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Newton Koolage, of Norfolk, was solemnized Easter Sunday at Galilee Episcopal Church, Virginia Beach.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Edmund Berkeley, rector of the church. Mrs. George I. Aldridge, organist, presented a program of wedding music. The church was decorated with Easter lilies, palms and lighted candles.

The bride was given in marriage by Charles Yount, chief commissioner, United States Navy. She wore a ballerina length gown of pale pink net tiered with pink tulle. The midriff of the bodice was of pink tulle. She also wore a stole of pale pink and long pink lace gloves ending in points over the hands. Her only ornament was a single strand of pale pink pearls. Her hat was of pink straw trimmed in Sweetheart roses, and she carried a white prayer book topped with white orchids and showered with pink staphylococcus.

Mrs. Ray Penner was matron of honor. She wore a gown of navy blue with white accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Curtis Estes served as best man for Mr. Koolage. Ray Penner was usher.

Little Miss Carolyn Yount was flower girl. Her gown was of white organdy dotted with swiss and she carried a bouquet of white carnations tied with pink streamers.

The bride's mother wore a white embroidered princess style dress. Her accessories were of pale pink and her corsage of pink roses.

The mother of the bridegroom was dressed in a blue tulle gown with which she wore navy accessories. Her corsage was of pink roses.

The bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. William B. Roper of Norfolk, wore a navy print dress and a corsage of red roses.

Following the ceremony, the bride's mother entertained the wedding guests at a reception at her home, 500 Virginia Avenue, in Oceana.

The bride's table was covered with a Chinese cutwork cloth and centered with a wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and groom. A pair of silver Japanese candelabra was also used. Mrs. Penner served the wedding cake after the bridal couple had cut the first slice.

Later in the day Mr. and Mrs. Koolage left for a wedding trip to Washington, D. C., and Michigan. Upon their return they will reside at 25 1/2 Street, Virginia Beach.

For traveling the bride chose an avocado-green two-piece dress with matching accessories. She also wore a white topper.

Mr. Koolage attended Maury High School and the University of Indiana. He is now associated with Radio Station NWBOF at Virginia Beach.

Junior Women Cooperate in "Cross" Project

The Junior Woman's Club of Princess Anne County is participating with over 5,000,000 members of the General Federation of Women's Clubs in a drive to raise $3,000,000 with which to build a 500-foot cross, the world's largest, atop Bald Knob mountain in southern Illinois.

The cross, which will be visible over a 7,500 square mile area, is a project of the Bald Knob Christian Foundation, Inc., a non-denominational, no-profit, state-chartered group that has held Easter sunrise services on the mountain annually for the past two decades. The aim of the Foundation is to provide a place of worship for all denominations, with the purpose of achieving greater unity of religious thinking and effort.

In launching the drive, Mrs. Theodore S. Chapman, president of the Women's Federation, urged that all not affiliated with a club mail contributions directly to "The Cross," Cairo, Illinois.

Further information is available through Mrs. Frederick G. Trummer of Laskin Road, London Bridge, president of the local Junior Woman's Club.

Don't Let a Gleaming New Car BLIND YOU To The Essentials Of Proper Insurance And Low Cost Financing

Or blind you to the fact that in purchasing a new car, regardless of whether the transaction is cash or financed you do not have to place your insurance through either the automobile dealer or the finance company.

The law is very clear about this and makes it quite plain that you have the right to insist that it be handled by your own local Capital Stock Insurance Agent. To the average person, buying a new automobile is an exciting event and many of us, in our eagerness to acquire possession, lose sight of the extremely important need for close evaluation of our Insurance. Actually you will lose little or no time by getting exactly the type of insurance and financing you need, handled by the people you know—your nearest member of the Norfolk Association of Insurance Agents listed below.

Lincoln Bay Improvement Issue Not Decided After Mass Meeting

It may be some time before the issue of the proposed improvement of Lincoln Bay is decided, according to developments on Monday night, when a well-attended mass meeting was held in the Princess Anne Circuit Court room before the Board of Supervisors of Princess Anne County.

Both proponents and opponents of the proposed dredging operation were present — the former group comprising fishermen and yachtmen, the latter property owners in the affected area — and arguments waxed "hot and heavy" at some stages of the hearing.

The issue was whether or not it has been termed the final nail in the chain to dredge Lynnhaven Inlet and the adjacent waters would be authorized by the board. The vote depends on an appropriation of approximately $200,000 by the supervisors which would provide for the bridging of Long Creek and Broad Bay Canal.

Twenty or more persons of the more than 200 who attended the meeting got to their feet and spoke for or against the proposition. The essence of the argument was whether or not the dredging operation would cause excess damage to waterfront property. In this connection certain objectors mentioned floodable areas and backwaters and flats at low tide and general depreciation of their properties. On the other hand, it was stated that tidal waters, which now fluctuate 9.2 feet, would not exceed 9.7 feet, or a little more than six inches.

The vote depends on an opinion was Col. Robert B. Warren, USA, Norfolk district chief of the army corps of engineers.

Johnson Boord During the proceedings, W. W. Johnson, one of the property owners of the Lynnhaven area, asked Colonel Warren whether the army engineers had any assurance that their calculations would be any more correct than they had been after their study of erosion conditions at Virginia Beach. Warren admitted that he was not an expert, but Johnson was booted down and Paul S. Brown, chairman of the board and president of the meeting, told Col. Warren he was not required to answer the question.

Admiral Richard A. Radem served as chairman of the various presentations as an aid to the board, and at the conclusion of the talks requested a standing vote of the assembly. More than half of those present stood in favor of the project. Less than twenty stood in opposition.

Colonel Warren said the engineers had surveyed Lynnhaven property and estimated that under present conditions the area sustains about $16,000 damage a year from lands affected by the salt tide and other causes, while this estimated six-inch increase would increase this damage to about $30,000 to $35,000 a year.

B. B. Burroughs, co-chairman of the Lynnhaven Waterways Association, which is working in behalf of preventing the filling up of Lynnhaven River — a project they have led for about 10 years — said the government had already spent more than $150,000 on the project in research, and asked the board to make provision for the bridge across Long Creek and the canal and so "close this last link in the chain."

Various proponents of the plan pointed to the increase in fishing, the increase in boat production and other benefits which would be derived from the project. A much-increased tourist fishing business would be attracted from Florida waters, and would attract nice charter boats. The Inak Walton League of Norfolk, through Lathier M. Church, its spokesman, endorsed the project one hundred percent.

It was decided to appoint a committee to study the situation but as to when such a committee would report, no information was forthcoming.

2 Performances Of "Cinderella" On Saturday

Two performances of "Cinderella" will be presented Saturday, April 16, at the Virginia Beach High School auditorium, by the Children's Theatre of Virginia Beach. The play will be unique in that two almost completely different casts will be seen, one at the 10:30 a. m. showing, and another in the performance beginning at 1:30 p. m.

Costuming is wonderfully effective — creating the customs of the times about which the play was written. Large peaked caps for the ladies have chiffon scarves draping their shoulders and the young men will wear ermine-trimmed velvet robes and satin doublets.

Leslie Traylor will portray the part of Cinderella in one performance, while Bonnie Maher will play that honor in the other performance. "Ashes," the cast, will be played by Chuck Moore and Stewart Slagle. Others in the large cast include:

Dana Gayle Foote, stepmother; Clare Wagner and Sandy Griggs, step-sisters; Tina Burke, Godmother; Thomas Robinson, Prince; Peter Neil, King; Carol Harkelroad, Queen; Andrea Petrick, the Princess in Gold; Bobby Wilson, "Biff" the Jester; Harvey Patterson, Prime Minister; Dana Wilson, Mrs. Chancellory; Harry Bostlin, Chancellory; Stephanie Sykes and Ann Steff, Ladies-in-Waiting; and members of the Sarah Sadler School of Dance, Faries and Ballestras.

The cast is under the direction of Mrs. Carey Pennington, with Mrs. Andersen as assistant.

Admission to the performances will be 50 cents.

Armed Forces Personnel Aid in Coaching Stint

Virginia Beach's Little Leaguers opened serious baseball practice last week and soon learned to be thankful for Uncle Sam's fighting men stationed in the area.

Practice for National League players was held last Tuesday and Saturday and men from the Oceana Naval Air Station served as coaches.

On Thursday and Saturday candidates for the four American League teams turned out for practice and were greeted by coaches from the Army's Port Bory.

The same schedule of practice is on tap for this week and next. Many bright young prospects have turned up and by the time the player auction is held next month there is expected to be keen competition for the jobs.

The military men who are helping coach the youngsters include Chief D'Marco, Frank Crumack, Eugene Lovejoy, Sergeant Cecil Privatis Chander, Whitaker, Frish and Gonalles.

"Operation Minuteman" Will Test Alertness of Beach Guard Unit

Officers and men of Battery C, 615th Antiaircraft Artillery Battalion (Virginia Beach's own National Guard unit) are ready for "Operation Minuteman," the nationwide simultaneous one-day test alert of Army and Air National Guard units that will be staged any day now.

Captain W. C. Kuts, Jr., commanding the local unit, said that all unit personnel were looking forward with enthusiasm to their part in "Operation Minuteman," which will find nearly 400,000 Guardsmen in over 2,000 communities throughout the United States, the District of Columbia, Alaska and Puerto Rico, springing to arms at short notice.

"We welcome this test alert," Captain Kuts said, "because it will give us a splendid opportunity to test the speed and efficiency with which our unit can be mobilized in event of an emergency. (Local residents may recall having seen the Guardsmen in action during Hurricane 'Hazel')."

A secondary purpose, he added, is to give the people of Virginia Beach an opportunity to see how the unit trains, and the potential value of this training to community, state or nation in an emergency.

The exact time and date of the test alert will be kept secret. Battery C and other units of the Virginia National Guard will be alerted by Major General Waller, the State Adjutant General.

General Waller will put "Operation Minuteman" in motion in Virginia as soon as he receives an alert message from Major General Edgar C. Erickson, Chief of the National Guard Bureau at the Pentagon in Washington, D. C. General Erickson is acting as national coordinator of "Operation Minuteman."

Captain Kuts cautioned residents of Virginia Beach not to be alarmed when Battery C, 615th AAA Battalion, Virginia National Guard, mobilizes for this test alert soon, as it is simply a training exercise.

Garner-Forbes Store Open Here

Virginia Beach has a new hardware store with the recent opening of the Garner-Forbes Hardware store on 28th street near Pacific Avenue. The new firm is located in the quarters formerly occupied by Shelly's Five and Ten Cent Store.

The new firm carries a complete line of hardware items and is distributor for the famous line of Olden paints, among other items.

Garner-Forbes opened for business last month and has been gratified with the reception accorded the new store by Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County residents.

The firm's name bears the name of the owners, who invite the public to call on them for their hardware and paint needs.

The "City of London" is just one square mile in size.

VALUABLE PAPERS—

Just before spring cleaning is a good time to go through desk drawers or other places where you may have important business records or other papers valuable to the family. If you already have a system for keeping important documents, a few hours cleaning out and reorganizing will bring up to date the storage of those you need to keep and need to know where to put your hands on whenever they are needed. Some discarding once a year is necessary but it pays to be sure you will never need a document before you consign it to the wastebasket.

Most families safeguard insurance policies of all kinds, wills, stock certificates or bonds and other obviously important papers. These should be in a safe deposit box or a fireproof safe.

Other papers valuable enough to warrant safe storage include all records of military service, such as discharge certificates, orders to active or inactive duty, commissions, records of medical treatment or disability and papers connected with claims for benefits.

Save the duplicate copy of the federal income tax you file and attach it to your copy of the withholding receipt furnished by your employer. Keep all income tax copies at least five years. Some families keep them indefinitely and report that it has been good business to them. Stubs of social security cards also are important in case the card you carry with you for identification is lost and you need a duplicate.

Other items to keep safe are property deeds, titles, bills of sale, leases or mortgages on real property. These should include the title or bill of sale for a car. The deed to a burial plot is another valuable family document.

Birth certificates for each member of the family, naturalization papers, marriage, divorce or adoption papers also should be safely and conveniently stored.

Finally, have at least two copies of a list of these documents, telling where they are stored. Keep one list in the fireproof place but have a duplicate handy in your home.

GARDEN LEFTOVERS—

Using up leftovers is not always thrifty, home gardeners are advised by R. J. Haskell, of the Federal Extension Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture. Vegetable and flower seeds left from last year are not worth the time and effort of planting if too few will germinate to produce a good crop.

The condition of the seed depends considerably on where and how it has been kept. Seed kept in a humid, hot place during the summer is not likely to germinate well next spring. Seed stored in a cool, dry place is likely to hold its vigor longer. Some kinds of seed keep better than others. For example, bean, beet and tomato seeds keep better generally than celery, lettuce or onion seed.

The only sure way to know whether last year's seed is worth planting this year is to test it by making a trial planting in a pot of soil or a flower pot. Keep the soil moist and warm. If half the seed sprouts come up, then plant the seed in the garden twice as much as recommended.

Leftover sprays and dusts, on the other hand, should be effective for use this year if they have been kept dry. Fertilizer also may be kept from one year to the next.

NYLONS WHITE AS NEW—

Having trouble with white nylon becoming grayed or yellow with use?

When regular washing methods do not restore the "whiteness" of nylon, follow these steps in the order given:

Wash garments thoroughly with soap or synthetic detergent, by hand or washing machine, depending on the construction of the garments. Fine lace and seams which may fray should be put in a pillow slip or a special mesh laundry bag when a machine is used.

Use an enamel container. To one gallon of hot water (160°F or simmer—don't boil), add one package of color remover and add wet garments immediately. Stir gently, keeping the temperature at 160°. Temperatures above that may set wrinkles that are hard to remove by ironing. If after 30 minutes, whiteness is restored evenly, remove the garments and rinse thoroughly in hot water. If whiteness is not evenly restored, re-soak in the solution 30 minutes more.

Then if not as white as you would like, add two tablespoons of chlorine and two tablespoons of a synthetic detergent to about one gallon of warm water. Immerse and with occasional stirring let soak 30 minutes. Rinse thoroughly in warm water.

For final rinse, immerse garments in about one gallon of warm water containing a tablespoon of an optical whitener such

LINKHORN BAY

The following article, by Mrs. Emmett W. Kyle of Alantone, is the lead article in the April issue of "Nature" magazine. Mrs. Kyle is a member of the Virginia Beach Garden Club, which is sponsoring the Virginia Beach Tour, on Tuesday, April 26, during Historic Garden Week in Virginia. Last fall, Mrs. Hampton Howell, publicity chairman for the tour, asked Mrs. Kyle to write an article to bring to people outside the Tidewater area the feel and history of Linkhorn Bay, with this happy result. Four of the eight homes and gardens on this year's Virginia Beach Tour are on Linkhorn Bay—the Karl A. Wunder and J. Ross McNeil houses in Birdneck Point, and the homes of Admiral and Mrs. David H. Clark and Mr. and Mrs. Peyton May in Bay Colony. The other four are the Ralph C. Offord penthouse apartment in the Mayflower, "Pine Hill," home of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Walters, and the two ocean-front homes of Mrs. Harry N. Coates and Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Stuart on 78th and 47th Streets, respectively.

By LOUISA VENABLE KYLE

Those who visit Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach during Garden Week will find a variety in the homes and gardens that are to be opened to the public. There will be gardens built on the sea or atop sand dunes where there is salt spray and drifting sand to combat, and where top soil has to be hauled before a flower bed can be started. These gardens present more than the average challenge to the gardener. Many of the most beautiful homes in the Virginia Beach area are located on the waterways that weave through the hinterland near the seacoast.

Linkhorn Bay lies behind the beach and here on its pin-crested bluffs and beside its quiet coves are built many of the year-round residences of Norfolk Neck. It is a sheltered, grassy body of water with little visible rise and fall of tide, severe storms or hurricanes sometimes filling it with an abnormal supply of sea water. There are many fresh water springs in the bay, and their location was visible on the rare occasions when in bitter cold winters the bay has been locked in ice. Crabs, fish and oysters are plentiful. Wild geese and ducks rest on its surface during the migratory seasons. Yachting facilities are provided at the Cavalier Yacht and Country Club and there are all varieties of sail boats and motor boats tied up at private docks along the shores of this bay. Water-skiing is a popular sport.

Linkhorn Bay is rich in history and legend, for Indians once paddled around its shores and hunted and fished from dugout canoes. In the days following the landing of the Cavaliers at Cape Henry in April 1607, Captain John Smith, George Percy, Bartholomew Gosnold and other members of the party took a small skiff and explored the rivers and bays behind Cape Henry. Seeing this lovely place, with dogwood and yuccas in bloom and with yellow jessamine cascading over pine trees, and with the tender green of spring reflected in its waters, it is small wonder that the English explorers wrote home, "God man's habitat."

There is a legend that Black Beard, the pirate, used the bays behind Virginia Beach as a hide-out, but so far as is known none of his treasure has yet been uncovered. A better place for a hide-out, the name itself creates interest, and maps of the locality made during the Revolution list it as Linkhorn Bay. Some say that the name comes from the fact that it links on to another large inland bay, called Broad Bay. There is a narrow straight called "the Narrows" that connects the two bodies of water. Others look at the map and see an imaginary picture of linked horns formed by an indented peninsula that divides the southern end of this body of water into two parts. While the shore line around this land is so irregular as to cause a map picture of horns, the peninsula itself resembles a neck of a bird and bears the name Birdneck Point.

The land on the western shore of Linkhorn Bay is now being changed from farm land into residential property, but for generations it remained in the same family, being land that was originally granted to the Woodhouse family by the King in 1637. The southern part of the bay is crossed by two highway bridges on Route 164 just before it enters Virginia Beach at 31st Street.

The eastern shore of Linkhorn Bay has the most beautiful residential sections of Virginia Beach along its coves. The greens of the Princess Anne Country Club come to the water's edge at several places. Bay Colony and Linkhorn Park are sections of the beach where houses will be open during Garden Week.

Only the northern shore of Linkhorn Bay has been and will be spared the march of progress. This belongs to the Seashore State Park, and in this wilderness there are trees hung with Spanish moss, old silvered trunks of cedar and cypress. Ospreys nest in tall pines, blue herons wade sedately along the shore, and this is how the Red-man saw this beautiful inland bay.

Today—

"Where once the Norseman, once the Redman stood, The Bob Whites whistle to a stranger's tread. These, too, shall pass and yield their brief abode; Only the sea gull owns the roaring sea. Only the turtle holds the land in fee."

—From the poem, "Linkhorn Bay," by Robert McBlair.

The American Heart Association estimates that 152,000,000 man-days are lost yearly because of diseases of the circulation.

LO, THE SARDINE!

Spotting a sardine run takes all of man's ingenuity. Search planes hover along the Maine coast line watching by night for the metallic gleam on the water: seeking by day for flocks of swooping gulls whose sharp eyes have found their succulent repast. The men in the mother boats below keep a watchful eye on the radar and depth recorders while mending their nets, splicing ropes and waiting interminably for a sign. The lookout in the crow's nest peers long hours over the hypnotic waves.

The sardine raner from Labrador to Cape Cod, but are usually at their best when they invade the clear waters off the Maine coast. The watch never ceases from April to December. Hopes run highest in the dark of the moon, for this is when the little fish most often make their appearance. Some fishermen credit the sardine with enormous guile in avoiding capture by selecting this bone-chilling hour. This is an hour when a man should be asleep in his warm bed, not cruising the cold Atlantic, drinking gallons of tar-black bracing coffee.

It's nearly dawn and the fishermen are sunk in drowsy lethargy when suddenly an alert sound, "Fish ahead!" They take their posts with the swift precision of a well-trained gun crew in battle, "Full speed ahead!" The mother boat trails the fish into a cove and when their numbers are sufficiently concentrated, smaller boats swing into activity and many hands help surround the school with stop twine. The weighted net is drawn tight at once and the shimmering fish are caught in an escape-proof enclosure! Imprisoned in this pocket the sardines have their last twenty-four hours of life until the carrier comes to claim them. This waiting period is to make certain that the fish's digestive tract is completely clear.

Where the tides are strong, and other conditions are just right, the modified Indian weir smooths the operation. These are stationary traps made of stakes and brushwood jealously guarding rich coves and inlets. Weirs block the course of fish swimming near shore and entice them into a maze of passages to an oval enclosure, where they are held alive until loaded into the carrier boat.

Carriers Race to Catch
But the bulk of the year's catch is taken with purse and stop seines farther from the shore.

Over ship-to-shore radio telephone goes the summons to the packing plants and carriers race to the spot. The carriers are fast, modern craft with 20 to 60 ton capacity and they're sleekly engineered to return their perishable cargo with maximum speed and minimum reverberation.

Sometimes the catch goes to the highest-powered carrier with the first bid in, but usually the captain has contracted with one or more of the 27 packers in advance. Some catches run as high as 10 to 20,000 bushels in a good cove during one night, and then the crew celebrates in high fashion, for each man shares in the haul.

When the modern carrier arrives at the catch, it edges gently over to the seine and a huge suction pump is lowered into the pocket of sleeping, thrashing fish. The catch is drawn into the tanks of the hold and the iridescent scales removed in the process. (These are later used in manufacturing artificial pearls and other by-products.)

One pump brings the sardines into the carrier, and a second pump sucks out the water, returning it to the sea. Then a suitable amount of salt is showered into the refrigerated hold to preserve the firm flesh. The curing operation begins the minute the little fish die.

Inspector Examines Catch

When the carrier docks the authoritative figure of a State of Maine inspector, silhouetted between bow and deck, looms large indeed to the crew. On his decision rests the day's success or failure. He examines the catch by cutting off the heads of many fish to see that they conform to rigid standards. Should he find any negative sign the whole day's catch is condemned and put to other uses, such as oil, fertilizer, lobster bait, etc. This could mean a heavy loss for the fishermen.

But when the inspector gives his blessing the haul is speedily hoisted by power pumps into chutes to be conveyed by running water to the holding room tanks for the brine cure. Then they are carried by flume on slat belt conveyor to flaking machines where they are evenly deposited in layers on wire frames and steam-cooked under 100-lb. pressure. Now dried by warm air currents they are ready to be packed.

The women run this operation, the "scissors brigade." With lightning speed they snip off heads and tails and pack the tasty little fish snugly in the cans. A fast packer can do four cases an hour; that is 400 3½ ounce cans of fish!

Another Inspection

The packed cans travel by conveyor down past an ever-watchful inspector to the oiling machines where they are filled with either soybean, vegetable, peanut or olive oil. Many brands are packed in mustard or tomato sauces. This wide variety of pack explains the appeal that sardines from Maine have for every taste and every budget.

N.W. the cans are machine sealed and retort cooked. After another careful inspection they are sent to be labeled. Over 100 different brands of sardines from Maine are to be found on grocers' shelves straight across the nation.

FASHION AND WOMAN'S EDITOR

SILK SUITINGS GOOD-

Light-weight silk suitings will play the major role in the late Spring-into-Summer suit story for 1955. Rustic silk weaves, dupions and silk tweeds, some in monotone nubby effects and others in mixed colors, are regarded as the backbone of the late Spring suit styles. Cotton continues as the top suit choice for spring and past-spring and the quality styles including blends of silk and cotton, linen and cotton, broadcloth, cottons and tweedy mixtures are favorite high fashion choices.

Linen in fine silk-like weaves, linen tweeds and lightly slubbed monotone linens in sheer weights are strong considerations in designer plans for late in the Spring season.

JACKET NOTE-

The longer jacket silhouette is expected to bloom as the leading Spring-into-Summer type. In the light-weight rustic alpe, in sheer linens and polished cottons, the slim box coat and the fitted dress coat are most popular candidates for town wear as well as suburban wear. Cropped short coats, some waist length and bloused and proportioned to complement the full skirts, are popular in light-weight wools and colored cashmeres.

Today sardines from Maine are virtually the only truly "home-grown" American sardines on the market. California always had a good share of the domestic distribution but for some inexplicable reason the small fish have almost deserted the West Coast.

Budget-conscious women all over the country are trying new and delicious recipes with sardines that the delectable little fish belongs many other places besides from Maine, having discovered on a cracker. They know that the protein content equals that in a sirloin steak, so they frequently replace more costly meat courses with a tasty sardine preparation. Sardines from Maine are perfect for children's lunchboxes, for dad's knapsack on camping trips, and for that TV midnight snack.

This is one of the oldest industries in America. As far back as the country's historical beginnings sardines from Maine have constituted a staple dish for New Englanders. First the coastal Indian tribes, then successively Leif Erickson and Captain John Smith found the abundant little fish healthful and delicious. But it wasn't until 1875 that sardine fishing in Maine really came into its own as a national industry. Then it was that the first Maine sardine was placed in the first can and has been its own best self-advertiser ever since. On millions of lips every day, in thousands of subways, trains and buses, you, the consumer help to publicize your own native product, when you say you're "packed in like sardines."

I've said it dozens of times - haven't you? Bye, now.

There's no limit to the type of coat and the variety of fabrics for the next season. Camels hair blends, consistent with the luxury look, show up in a range of new bright colors. Tweeds, lightened and color hued, are receiving very strong endorsement as a fashion type. Smooth, light-weight suede wools look new in small or bold checks and make topper news for solid navy, gray or black Spring suits or dresses.

LONG TORSO IN SUMMER SPORTSWEAR-

One thing is certain, as the Beach women who appreciate the right and wrong of a fashion season will find, is that the new torso, higher bustline silhouette with the long, supple and eased body-lines will dominate the Summer sportswear. There will be more sheer wools in separates and costumes. Prominent will be the new linen-like rayons, worsted cottons and cotton tweed, Dacron and Dacron-and-wool blends have received great emphasis in the Spring-into-Summer fashions.

LONG JOHN SWEATERS-

Probably the biggest news in sweater fashions is the introduction of a long length. Summer sweaters will have more bare scoop necklines, more synthetics, cottons and other light-weight fibers. There is a new importance for the cotton knits, too, in bulky stitches, used for summer jackets.

types and contents of tank tops with higher, square-cut or shallow scoop necklines will be great summertime fashion leaders and most popular with the young folks at the Beach.

GET AT SPOTS IMMEDIATELY

If you get dirty water splashed on trousers legs or long skirts, take care of them right away, warn technicians at the American Institute of Laundering the research and educational center of the laundry industry. If spots are allowed to "set" they may permanently stain. Tackle them by brushing off the loose soil, then gently spot the stain with soap and water. Above all, A.I.L. warns, never press the spotted garment, for the heat of the iron will make the stain permanent. Do what you can to remove the spots, then send the garment to your laundry.

The Gordon Home, one of the oldest homes in Savannah, Ga., and the birthplace of Juliette Gordon Low, founder of the Girl Scouts, will be made into a national Girl Scout center.

GARDEN GUIDE

PELLETED FERTILIZER

At least two large fertilizer manufacturing companies have come out with an entirely new fertilizer this year. The most revolutionary is a product called "Nutro," manufactured locally by Smith-Douglas of Norfolk. "Nutro" comes in the form of small rounded pellets or balls instead of being simply a powder and is very handy to use. These pellets were tested for a year or two in various farming areas and proved to be quite popular. Now they are presented to the amateur gardener for his and her approval.

Advantages

From our point of view this pelleted fertilizer is causing a mild sensation throughout gardening circles and rightly so. It is handy and clean to work with, and regular home-style fertilizer spreaders will do an excellent job by distributing the pellets or they have the unique advantage (among fertilizers) of being able to be distributed evenly through a "cyclo" type grass seeder. Since the pellets are dustless they are pleasant to spread by hand by broadcasting. You can see where your fertilizer is going and easily get even distribution. Mom and the kids get a kick out of helping spread the pellets too, and since they are odorless "not even your best friend" will know you've been spreading fertilizer. Another big advantage of these pellets is the fact that they will roll off of the grass leaves and fall to the ground, thus there is no worry about burning your lawn and no need to water in the fertilizer. Since the pellets are dustless they may be applied even during days when there is a wind blowing. This is a big advantage here at the beach. The pellets last for quite a while too, and will break down gradually to give a constant feeding to your lawn over a longer period than with most fertilizers.

The fertilizer has a balanced formula for the average lawn requirements. It is homogenized so complete formula of primary plant that each pellet contains the foods and trace elements. It can be used on both new and old lawns and should be used at the rate of about two pounds per 100 square feet.

A friend of ours recently told us that even a chicken feed manufacturer is converting his entire plant over to the manufacture of pelleted chicken feed. Actually the feed should prove as economical to the farmer as the fertilizer does and will surely produce fewer frustrated chickens who cannot find the powdered type of feed on the ground.

Pellets are really catching on quickly and we venture to say that in years to come very few fertilizers will be manufactured by any other process except by pelleting.

Have you a questions about gardening? Just ask it of our Garden Guide experts, in care of the Sun-News Your answer will be forthcoming promptly.

New Fashion Fabric Appears

Unconditionally guaranteed for the life of the garment, Koret of California's revolutionary new pleated cotton skirt, "Pleaset," will cross the counter to customers along with an insurance policy that it is machine-washable and will drip dry with absolutely no ironing.

Proof that the crisp pleats will not wash out was furnished by the United States Testing Company in a series of tests which included 50 continuous hours of machine washing. Further tests revealed that the "Pleaset" skirt will not "sit out" and can be folded or rolled up for packing without altering the original pleated perfection.

Designer Stephanie Koret dramatized the "Pleaset" skirts with a choice of eight bright, colorful prints. One style features a sharp knife pleat while the other is mushroom-pleated with a hem interlining of pella. Result: the skirt flares gracefully, thus making an extra pleated unnecessary. The same "economy of time" motive that led American women to demand garbage disposals, self-polishing floor wax and quick-cooking appliances, was responsible for Koret of California's development of this time-saving innovation. This exclusive new process is the only one to permit custom pleating, where the skirt is first cut to the desired style, then pleated, and it is this custom treatment that gives the garment its better shape and fit. Paired with a classic blouse or sweater, "Pleaset" skirts will save countless hours of time and effort during the spring and summer months.

Normally during the month of March, woodchucks are mating. The same "economy of time" on the geographical location, the severity of the weather, and other reasons best known only to the woodchucks.—Sports Afield.

Merry MATRONS

By Melba

Frances Leigh Williams and Winifred Hennings have had a merry winter season, and an exciting one, running a charming apartment house, The White Heron, at Delray Beach, Florida, as well as opening their brand new restaurant there. It is called the Sea Terrace and it overlooks the ocean the same way their summer spot, the Sea Heron, overlooks the ocean here at Virginia Beach. Their cuisine is as mouth-watering at Delray as it is here in the good old summertime.

Mrs. Rachel Bell Maiden, a member of the Virginia Division, Creative Arts Committee of the American Association of University Women, is the chairman of the Creative Writing Project for the A. A. U. W. Since all residents of Virginia are eligible, and the purpose of the project is to encourage Virginia writers, both professional and amateur, merry matrons in this area, who may be interested in competing, may write to Mrs. Maiden, A. A. U. W. Creative Writing Contest, Box 64, Abingdon, Virginia. Short stories, short-short ones, children's stories, poetry, radio scripts, television scripts, plays, one-act plays and historical sketches of Virginia are eligible for judging. There must be plenty of good material within the reach of the Sun-News readers. Gals, man the typewriters and pick up your pens. Let's go!

Mrs. Edward Hoffmeister, who is probably one of "the" top flower and table arrangers in Virginia, is going to have a pretty evidence of same, you can bet, at the cocktail party which she and her husband are giving at the Cavalier tomorrow evening when they will entertain for Lieutenant Commander and Mrs. Randolph Elkins. Mrs. Hoffmeister decorated and arranged a magnificent table at your Alibee's recent 9th annual Easter Bonnet tea party at the WVEC-TV studios in Norfolk and she used the color scheme of leaf green, chartreuse, straw, gold and gold. It was an out-of-this-world sight and one that guests from all over Tidewater have been phoning and writing about ever since. She is really an artist, and so is Mrs. Walton G. Saunders whose pink and orchid table created such a furore at the 1953 party.

Mrs. Mary van der Wiel, creative hat fashioner of Washington, D. C., and Matthews, Virginia, designed and made four tiny braided straw sailor hats, complete with wee straw hat pins 'n' everything, for Mrs. Hoffmeister's green and gold table. They were so attractive that one over-enthusiastic guest made off with one of the four for a souvenir!

Mrs. Virginia Holland has been re-elected co-chairman of the new Sixth District of the Virginia Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs and was mightily handsomely gotten up in her Easter tailcoat at the annual luncheon at the Hotel Chamberlain Saturday a week ago.

Nancy Strickler, president of the local B & PW Club, gave a snappy report of the work the club has completed this year and also of awards won for various endeavors.

Mrs. Paul Earl, Mrs. Harry F. Ames and Mrs. Edward Lachman, all members of the Princess Anne African Violet Society, gave a bang-up performance on the "Madam President" edition of your Alibee's television show "displaying violet arrangements and ideas trying to whip up interest in their recent successful money raising party. Mrs. Lachman wore the prettiest lappel bouquet of pale blue violets picked right in her own back yard and Marion Ames brought along a tiny black metal teapot, for a violet arranger, which was one of the first used on one of the oldest dining cars in Virginia.

Leslie Savage is on cloud number nine over the sea-view from her beautiful new home, modernized to the teeth, at the south end of the beach. She'll be back at the Beach this Sunday with plans all completed for this season's "Treasure-Go-Round" fare for the summer months. "The Seven Year Itch" and "Picnic," two popular Broadway plays, are sure to be two of the plays offered for local and summer visitors' delight. The activities of the T-G-R players will be at the same location as last year, under the familiar blue and yellow tent, since the plans for a motel on the site didn't jell. Is Lesley happy!

Mrs. Bertie Norwalk spent the Easter weekend at the Hotel Willard in Washington with all of her sisters and members of their families in a whooper of a family reunion. Bertie's big dream of a "pink hat for Easter" came true, too.

Mrs. Lee Sawyer's friends are beating a dainty path to the Flare Shop, which she manages here at the Beach, especially for hats. The local gals are going hat-happy because of the fact that smart top pieces can be purchased, at last, at the Beach and last Thursday's turnout by the town's hat lovers for the special pre-Easter bonnet parading was the answer.

Mrs. Ashley Haycox has many charms, but perhaps one of her most pronounced is her happy manner of meeting new people. They always "take to" Margaret instantly and she treats new folks as if she'd known them forever. While serving at the punch bowl of a recent affair in Norfolk, where she was meeting many new ladies attending the event, she was superb. Women love a gracious person and what an asset it is for a merry matron to have this ability. Hubby Ashley isn't the only turn-on-the-charmer in that family!

Mrs. E. Guy Robertson's Easter hat was loaded with one of her favorite flowers, lilies of the valley. Her Women's Financial Forum, by the way, is an idea which should be copied by every woman's club throughout the area. Gals could easily take in more about the finances and banking of their families.

None of the local lady golfers is more enthusiastic about the Azalea Festival's weekend golf tourney at the Cavalier Club than Grace Hargens. Gussie Grace could live on a golf course, the day long, she loves the game that much. She's a snappy golfer, too, so why shouldn't she? As Time would put it, "No duffer she!"

Reactor Margaret Nolen and "Jappy" Johnson Chase, who sports Chamber of Commerce tidbits, will again model for the next W. G. Swartz summertime fashion show on April 30, in the store's tearoom at three in the afternoon.

Mrs. E. M. Owen, immediate past president of the Woman's Club of Princess Anne County, will always have the happy thought that the fine new choral group — composed of members of her club and the Junior Woman's Club — was organized and gave their first programs during her regime. And what a splendid performance they gave with their first television performance on March 28 over WVEC-TV. No one can look any more stunning in navy blue this spring than Mrs. E. M. Owen. In a smart navy suit with touches of pink, white and wearing a most smart small navy hat, she made a really fashionable picture when accompanying the choral group at the event just mentioned.

CHARLES FULLER GAINS PLACE IN HONOR GROUP

Charles N. Fuller, of Avenue B, Virginia Beach, a representative of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Co., has been notified that he has qualified for the company's honor organization, the "Dependables," in recognition of his outstanding record in production and quality of life insurance written during 1954. Fuller is associated with the D. Conrad Little Agency in Norfolk.

ITEMS OF INTEREST FROM Princess Anne Training School

By Shirley Hamberry

Hello there!

The Guidance Department of the school sponsored Holy Week observance, with the Rev. D. W. Mack, pastor of St. Mark's AME Church, as guest minister. His topic was "The Great Decision." He paralleled the decision Christ made to die for our sins with worthwhile present day decisions one must make if he is to succeed.

R. L. Gordon, guidance sponsor, presided. The music was furnished by the school choir. Mrs. B. A. Raspberry, director.

As a follow-up for the over-all school health program, the health committee presented its annual "Health Week" program. Dr. A. C. Pentress was guest speaker. He emphasized the importance of being physically fit, as a prerequisite to academic success. Miss R. M. Johnson, chairman of the health committee, presided.

Medical care is limited at P.A. C.T.S., but the generosity of a practicing Norfolk dentist has enabled the students of the school to receive some needed care. Co-operative and anxious parents have given their children the required fee to have their teeth cared for. Once a week a group of students is taken to Norfolk to have teeth extracted or expertly filled. The program of the health committee has been responded to wonderfully.

Counseling the students on matters of health is or has been a great factor in more parents becoming interested and concerned.

INDUCTION CEREMONIES HELD

The Princess Anne H-Y and Smith-Brockett Tri-H-Y Induction Ceremony was held in the school auditorium on April 6. The speaker, Horace Christopher, executive secretary, Hinton Branch YMCA, Norfolk, was introduced by Mr. Perkins, YMCA secretary, Norfolk. Mr. Christopher selected for his subject "What It Means to be a Christian." The following points were highlighted in his message:

1. Reverence for God
2. Thankfulness
3. Count your blessings
4. Respect for others.
5. Assuming responsibilities for the common good.

The purpose of the H-Y and Tri-H-Y is to create, maintain, and extend throughout the home, the school and the community, high standards of Christian character.

One hundred thirty-four H-Y and Tri-H-Y members were inducted. The induction ceremony was presided over by the president, Eddie Hoggard and president of the Tri-H-Y, Miss Pearl Knox. Other officers assisted. The clubs are sponsored by Mrs. M. B. Brockett and W. J. Watson.

CHOIR PREPARES FOR SPRING CONCERT

The choir and band are now making final preparations for the first Spring concert. This will be a joint affair and will take place on the evening of April 22, at 8 o'clock. This program promises to be one of the most unique musical events in the school's history.

The choir, under the direction of Mrs. B. A. Raspberry, will be at its best in rendering a variety of selections which is sure to include favorites for everyone.

PTA PLANS TO BUY BAND UNIFORMS

This month's PTA meeting was attended by a large number of parents. Oddly! Yes, the children were participants after the business session. During the brief session the group adopted a plan to sponsor a drive to uniform the choir and band. Much interest was shown in the forthcoming May Queen contest, which ends at the May PTA meeting. With everyone in accord and anticipating the show to follow, the meeting adjourned.

Parents and friends were delighted watching the children interpreting an island dance. Mesdames Rosalyn Freeman, Essie Smith and Miss Verline Hawkins instructed the children so that the imaginations wandered to the island.

Many were surprised at the performance of the children. Elementary pupils of this school are receiving their first experience in supervised physical education. Mr. Clyde I. Siler had the boys and girls dancing, performing intricate stunts.

Parents expressed their enjoyment of the program and voiced the desire to have a full-time elementary physical education instructor. The exhibition was di-

STUDENTS AND TEACHERS RAISING FUNDS FOR M-S

Students and adults, having become aware of the experience and long-time treatment involved in treating M-S, are taking on active part in seeking to secure funds with which to aid in this great cause. The cure for sick persons is too expensive for an individual to pay, and the students and adults are determined to raise a great amount of money through solicitations, in gifts and church participation. This drive is co-chaired by Miss Verline Hawkins and Miss Hattie Goodman.

FASHION SHOW PLANNED FOR TUESDAY

The program committee at the Princess Anne Training School is planning a gala fashion show for April 19. There will be shown fashions for the tiny tots, wedding scenes, street scenes, school clothes, church wear and play-time togs. We are preparing a large cast, with extra dances and other scenes.

SPELLING BEE

HAS STUDENTS BUZZING

Princess Anne County Training School is really buzzing. The 7th and 8th grades spelling champions are wondering who will be the school champion. Well, we all have our fingers crossed and are studying the whole book of words like mad. We hope the school champion will be one of the three county winners. There are just a few more days before all will have been vanquished — that is, all except the champion.

This is "so long," until time permits me to be with you again, but until that time, be sweet!

Corn Supports Based On $1.58

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has announced that minimum price support rates for the 1955-crop corn in the commercial and non-commercial corn-producing areas will be based on $1.58 per bushel, which is 87 per cent of the February 15 corn parity price.

Price support rates in the commercial corn-producing area will be at 87 per cent level, but because corn acreage allotments are in effect in the commercial areas for 1955, the law provides that rates in the non-commercial producing area will be 75 per cent of the commercial area support rates.

The 87 per cent of parity support level for 1955-crop corn is set in accordance with provisions of law providing for a variable support level on the basis of the estimated supply of corn (For 1955 this variable range is $2.10-90 per cent of parity.) The supply of corn for the 1955-56 marketing year has been estimated as of October 1 at a little more than 107 per cent of the normal supply. This indicates a support level of not less than 87 per cent of parity for 1955-crop corn.

Support rates under the 1954 program were based on $1.62 per bushel, which was 90 per cent of parity.

The price support program for the 1955 crop will be carried out through Commodity Credit Corporation loans and purchase contract agreements. These will be available from harvest time thru May 31, 1956, in most areas and will mature on July 31, 1956.

Rates by counties for price support loans and purchase agreements will be announced at a later date.

In Virginia nine counties are included in the commercial area. They are Accomack, Isle of Wight, Nansemond, Norfolk, Princess Anne, Stafford, Surry and Sussex.

The 9-foot wing spread of the California condor is larger than that of any other North American land bird. These huge birds inhabit only a narrow isolated area in the California mountains and there are only about 60 of them left.

Linda Morrison Tops in Spelling For PA High

In eliminations held March 24, Miss Linda Morrison was chosen to represent P.A. High School as its eighth grade representative in the National Spelling Contest, being sponsored by the Norfolk Ledger-Dispatch for the Tidewater area.

Miss Mary Gates, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gates of St. Brigid, won second place. She is also thirteen years of age, and in the eighth grade. William R. Britton, Jr., is her English teacher.

Miss Morrison will next enter the county contest to be held at Princess Anne Court House April 20.

WANT BLANKETS FLUFFY? DON'T STORE ON BOTTOM

Store a soiled woolen blanket under a dead weight in the spring and it won't emerge lively and fluffy in the fall. So say textile technicians. They advise homemakers to put their woolen blankets away clean and on the top, not the bottom, of the storage pile, so that the nap will not be flattened.

VEPCO Plans Power Station

Veeco will build a power station at a new location on the York River, near Yorktown, to utilize the by-product fuels to the produced by the new American Oil Company refinery. One of the very few such installations in the nation, it is a result of negotiations between the two companies to make the best possible use of by-product fuels.

Construction of the station, estimated to cost over $20,000,000, will start at once, with completion planned by July, 1957. The power station site will be conveyed to Veeco by the American Oil Company.

The first unit to be installed will be the largest steam turbine generator on the Veeco system, with a capacity of 160,000 kw, six times as large as the total capacity of the Hampton station. The boilers are being especially designed to operate at 2,000 pounds pressure, and to burn petroleum coke and refinery gas, to be supplemented by coal or oil. Ample land is available for anticipated future expansion.

In making the announcement, J. O. Holtsclaw, Veeco president, stated the site for the station was made available through the full cooperation of the American Oil Company, which has acquired a large tract of land at Goodwin's Neck for its refinery. The close proximity of power station and refinery makes the use of the coke and by-product gas possible at minimum handling costs. Located on a deep water channel, the largest size ocean-going tankers can supply the refinery directly from both domestic and foreign oil fields.

WHITE GLOVES? KEEP SPARE PAIR

If you are wearing white gloves this spring, keeping them in a plastic freezer bag will keep them clean, fresh and ready for use in your purse. They'll retain their shape, whiteness and new appearance lots longer! It's also wise, say technicians at the American Institute of Laundering, to wear them only once, then send to the laundry. Keep a spare pair so that it will be easier to have both pairs neat and clean.

National Guard Status At Beach Is Clarified

Captain William C. Kuts, Jr., Commanding Officer of Battery C, 615th AAA Gun Battalion, Virginia Beach National Guard, in a letter last week to Mayor Frank Dusch, writes to explain the status of the National Guard in relation to the City of Virginia Beach. Captain Kuts declares that "since the primary purpose of a local National Guard unit is to furnish assistance in the event of a civil emergency, it is felt best that the record should be clear for all to understand and for reference in the future."

He states: "On 27 January 1955, your local National Guard unit became the first organization in the Tidewater to take over and assume full responsibility for an anti-aircraft site located in Norfolk. We thus have relieved an Army unit from this undertaking in order that they may take over the duties of a Nike site located elsewhere."

"In making the move to Norfolk to take over the AAA site, a cloud has appeared on the overall situation in relation to our position with respect to Virginia Beach. Briefly, we are still and will remain a Virginia Beach National Guard unit both in name and responsibility to duty. We have had to move our big guns and related equipment to Norfolk since this ties in with the over all defense of the Tidewater area. We also must hold our regular weekly Monday night drills, at the Norfolk location."

"We will still retain our possession of several buildings in Jump Pond in order that these may be put to use should the occasion demand. Our men will still receive their pay checks at their home addresses, thus the money will still be spent in and for Virginia Beach."

"It should be pointed out that the need for an armory at Virginia Beach is still as great as previously. While the men would not drill weekly in the armory, since they are on site, this would be the case whether or not we were located at the Beach or in Norfolk."

Suffolk Legion Horse Show Set For June 11-12

Committee chairmen have been named for the horse show sponsored by the Suffolk American Legion Post 57 and its Auxiliary to be held Saturday and Sunday, June 11-12, at Pines Park. The Saturday afternoon performance of the show will begin at 1 o'clock and the Saturday night performance is scheduled for 1:30.

Colonel R. E. Barrett, Jr., of Branchville, will again serve as horse show manager. The chairmen for the show are:

General chairman, Paul T. Cochran, Jr.; Sponsorship, E. C. Ferguson, Jr.; Program, Mrs. W. Mason Jones, Jr.; Grounds, Raleigh Martin; Tickets, Raymond Boyer and Mrs. Charles T. Lowin; Concessions, Harry L. Cross; Publicity, Mrs. John R. Bright; Ring master, Howard Mast.

Norfolk, since the men must train wherever the big guns are located. The men would use the armory continually for practice in small arms fire and related subjects."

Captain Kuts goes on to say that the major use of an armory would be in the event of an emergency when the men could be housed and fed under much better conditions than now exist at Pendleton. He also cites the fact that an armory could be used for city officials, rescue squad, emergency hospital and morgue, in addition to the uses already outlined for the National Guard.

News For Veterans

GI loans granted or insured by Veterans Administration for World War II and Korean Conflict veterans have passed the four million mark, VA announced. More than $3,600 GI loans were closed during February, 1955, bringing the total made since the beginning of the GI loan program in 1944 to 4,004,922 loans, amounting to nearly $28 billion. Of the total loans, 3,717,806 were home loans amounting to nearly $27 billion. 218,997 were business loans totaling nearly $600 million, and 67,319 were farm loans for more than $360 million.

VA also reported that 26 percent of the four million loans, or 808,804 amounting to nearly $4 billion, have been repaid in full. More than 620,000 were farm loans, 30,000 were farm loans, and nearly 150,000 were business loans.

VA has paid claims on only 35,377 loans, proving that veterans have turned out to be good credit risks, the agency said.

The net amount of the claims paid to date by VA is $28,200,000 or about one dollar for every $1,000 borrowed by veterans.

The money this agency makes stays in our town, and because it stays here and circulates, some of it eventually winds up in your pocket again. As you know, the more money circulating in a town, the healthier will be the financial status of every person in that town.

Pungo Club Women Prepare To Build New Community Center

Members of the Pungo Home Demonstration Club are undaunted by the trees and underbrush on their building site as with their willing minds and hard work they see visions of a community center in the not too distant future.

At their meeting last Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Norman Faust, plans were made for various fund-raising projects to the construction under way. Land for the community center was donated by Mrs. J. Henry McCannan over a year ago. It is located approximately one and one-half miles west of Sandbridge Beach, facing the George A. Wilson home.

Two of the many fund-raising projects underway at this time are a luncheon to be served at Sandbridge Beach to members of the Virginia Society of Ornithology on April 30. The other is a county-wide barbecue which will be served at the Princess Anne Court House Agricultural Building between the hours of 5 and 8 p.m. on Saturday, May 14.

Officer Candidate School Schedule Announced By CG

The Coast Guard Reserve Officer Candidate School schedule for the coming years was announced this week by the United States Coast Guard in Norfolk.

Three classes will be scheduled — to start on June 22nd, 1955, October 12th, 1955, and February 29, 1956. The classes are open to men who have reached their 21st birthday but not their 28th birthday.

Applicants shall pass a physical examination, have good vision and have at least 17 teeth of which 14 are serviceable; 4 sets of opposing molars and 3 sets of opposing incisors, and not more than 3 carious teeth.

All applicants must hold a baccalaureate degree (4 year course) and must pass a one-hour officer qualification test.

A prospective college graduate may make application for the program within 120 days of his date of graduation.

Those who make application must submit the following supporting papers: Photostatic or certified copy of birth certificate; two recent unmounted photographs not smaller than two and one-half inches by four inches, and not larger than four inches by five inches — one a profile of Coast Guard officers, and one a full face; three letters of recommendation; an official obtained by writing to the Commandant of college credits; and a discharge certificate if a veteran, or a conditional discharge or other form of contingent release if a member of any of the armed forces or reserve components.

Required for a college student graduating shortly is a letter from his dean stating that he is a member in good standing, indicating his present schedule, and the date on which he anticipates being awarded a degree.

All applicants will be given a personal interview before a board by Germany during World War II.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Learn How to Pull Together

Saw a kid go by the Clarion office on a brand-new counter wagon yesterday—and it reminded me of when my brother and I were about forty years younger.

Our folks weren't poor, but there wasn't enough to buy two wagons for Christmas. We got one between us. Dad made a rule that we each could have it for a week—but the boy with the wagon was responsible for keeping the kitchen wood-box filled.

Seemed a bargain to Bud and me—at first. But soon we discovered it was no more fun playing alone than working alone. It wasn't long before we were sharing the wagon in return for sharing the chores.

From where I sit, you can't enjoy a privilege yourself if you're going to deny it to others. There are some folks who want the right to enjoy their favorite beverage—but would deny me my right to an occasional glass of beer. I doubt if such people get their full "share" of happiness, though.

Virginia Beach Tour To Show Variety Of Ways Of Living At Virginia Beach

Eight Private Homes To Be Opened On April 26.

By KAY DOUGHTIE SEWELL

(Mrs. Hampton Sewell is a chairman of the Historic Garden Week Committee of the Virginia Beach Garden Club, which is sponsoring the Virginia Beach Tour on Tuesday, April 26. Hours will be 10 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. Tickets will be available at the Cavalier Club or the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce. Block tickets, $2.50; individual tickets, 50c.)

We all live at Virginia Beach—but how much do you really know of the diversified "ways of living" here at the beach? Some like it formal, some like it casual; some like it traditional; others like it modern. The Virginia Beach Tour, as planned by the Virginia Beach Garden Club, will start with Birdneck Point, and end with the ultra-modern Cootes house on 78th Street and Oceanfront. The order of the Tour can, of course, be reversed. But assuming that you start with Birdneck Point, where would you go, and what would you see?

The Wunder Home
You would turn from Laskin Road into Birdneck Point, into Cardinal Road and then Bobolink, where the Karl A. Wunder house would immediately present itself. On its own private peninsula, its grounds shaded with tall native pines and oaks, this hospitable white house opens to a terraced garden at the rear, embraced by twin lagoons.

Only one lagoon is natural. Its twin is a work of combined art and engineering skill, for its basin as an overwise drainage ditch separating the Wunder grounds from the Cavalier golf course.

Mr. Wunder is a construction man. His know-how manifests itself in other ways. In his use of retaining walls, varied slopes and levels, which not only add interest to the contours of the garden, but also successfully combat the difficulties of soil erosion and excess shade in this artfully maintained woodland setting. Ascleas, camellias and hundreds of bulbs should be in bloom during Historic Garden Week. It is a pity that Mrs. Wunder's 100-foot gardenia hedge will only be a bank of thick, glossy leaves instead of the hedge of snow it becomes in summer, when thousands of gardenias are in bloom in spite of the fact that it lives entirely in filtered sunlight except for the hour of high noon.

Rancher Establishment

Arrows lead next to Kingfisher Court and the bachelor establishment of J. Ross McNeal. Anyone who has ever been to Bermuda will get a strong sense of nostalgia, for here is a pure Bermuda-style house of white painted brick against blue sky. The roof tiles, cunningly molded of white concrete in irregular shapes, have the very look of the dawning white coral roofs of Bermuda.

There is a surprise in store for visitors who come up the garden path and through the front door for the first time. It is like stepping aboard a yacht. Part of the amphibious feeling is due to the way the house backs plumb on to Linkhorn Bay.

One does not expect the sudden view of water through all the windows, nor the way the terrace off the living room looks sharply over the two-story drop to the waters below. There is also something ship-shape and masculine about the general architecture and furnishings of the interior.

Well-appointed and charming, completely comfortable, the McNeal house will be an illuminating experience to those who have hitherto harbored the belief that it takes a woman's touch to make a better home and garden.

The Gifford Penthouse

Next stop is on Virginia Beach's Atlantic Avenue—the Gifford penthouse on top of the Mayflower, said to be the tallest apartment building in Virginia.

Though a modern penthouse—actually two penthouses converted into one—it is furnished in a thoroughly unmodern manner. There is beautiful Sheraton and Hepplewhite; much old silver, china and Waterford glass; countless examples of fine needlepoint, a hobby of Mrs. Gifford's.

The clue to its furnishings may be found in the fact that Mr. and Mrs. Gifford were, until 1951, owners of Oak Grove Plantation on the Eastern Shore. They have made the transition from plantation to penthouse in a style that is highly individual.

"Pink House" Exciting

Although Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Stuart of Washington steadfastly maintain that their big new stucco house on the ocean just off 47th Street is Indian coral in color, it is already locally famous as "The Pink House."

Entering the foyer, one finds oneself in an air-conditioned, coolly planned, coolly coordinated interior, which gives the impression of a sweep of rooms, yet one room. Living room, dining room, sun porch, merger, huge windows give an immediate view of the ocean, through what appears to be a wall of glass.

Materials in furniture, textiles and construction are interesting. Six different woods have been used in wall panelling, with many chests built to match: birch, cherry, juniper, cypress, pine, and—in the upstairs hall and master bedroom—white Philippine mahogany.

"This house is my idea of what you should have on the beach," says Mrs. Stuart, who did most of the designing and much of the supervision of the building. "No wallpapers, wood floors, rugs or Venetian blinds. It's almost completely dustproof, sootproof and glareproof."

In the living room, the fireplace is part of an entire wall of Tennessee crab-apple stone. Hard Tennessee pink marble makes the sunporch floor. The latest thing in plastic tile gives a marble effect to other floors. The floors of the two children's rooms are cork—and sound-proof.

Color is important to the Stuarths, too. "My favorites are ice-blue, purple, yellow-flax, yellow and white," says Mrs. Stuart. The big curving sofa in the living room is upholstered in pale blue linen, two chairs in purple. Purple African violets flourish under the glass of two white wrought-iron tables in the dining room.

The Peyton May Home

From "The Pink House" it's a big change to the Georgian-type home of Mr. and Mrs. Peyton May in Bay Colony.

Set in an oak grove on a piney bluff above Linkhorn Bay, it looks and is traditional. Mrs. May likes wallpaper, antiques, old china, altar of roses, Chinese dower boxes and Pennsylvania milk pane.

House and grounds look mellow and formal, but there is a pioneer spirit behind it. When the Mays built, way back in 1936, Bay Colony was a wilderness, an outpost of Virginia Beach.

"We had to buy our property from a boat," says Mrs. May, "and hack our way through the underbrush."

Women on tour will look longingly at the Studio, Mrs. May's own big sunny room on the water. Added to the house when her interest was portrait-painting, it now serves primarily as a workshop for herself, her friends and their hobbies.

Admiral Clark's Home

If the May house is one of the oldest in Bay Colony, that of Rear Admiral and Mrs. David H. Clark is one of the newest.

Visitors will recognize it at once by the graceful white balcony on the second floor. This gives out from two bedrooms, provides a pleasant and private outdoor sitting room, as well as shading both bedrooms and living room from the heat of the westerly sun.

Built of beaded white clapboard and old brick, the Clarks like to describe their architecture as "Monterey—with a dash of Williamsburg." Exterior and interior have serenity and charm. There are facets of unexpected gaiety, as when the grey-green walls of the living room open up to display on one side of the fireplace a concealed bar, on the other a recessed TV, record-player and tape recorder—for the Admiral likes to sing.

The Clark house kitchen, very modern, very livable, with pale pink walls and white woodwork, will also be on view, another aspect of the formal-informal Clark life.

Pine Hill

Back to Virginia Beach, in the heart of the residential section, we come to Pine Hill.

This handsome, many-windowed white house, the home of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Walters, at 301 54th Street, looks out over two blocks of roof-tops leading to the beach. It is living proof of how spaciousness and privacy can be achieved in a closely built-up neighborhood by careful planning—and planting—on a judicious site.

The Walters have made the most of their elevated, formal setting. Dark green pines—tall or small, depending on their placement—accentuate the dark green shutters and black iron grillwork, which in turn accentuate the white clapboard of the house.

Inside the big high-ceilinged rooms are distinguished by balance and harmony. Muted tones predominate, except on the jalousied sunporch. Everyone has a sunporch at Virginia Beach.

Casual Living

On The Oceanfront
At North Virginia Beach, near Fort Barry and historic Cape Henry, where the first English settlers landed in April, 1607, is a complete beach cottage in the most modern sense—the ocean-front house of Mrs. Harry N. Cootes of Washington.

Built on property that once belonged to her Norfolk grandmother, the family wanted to "pretend to be living outdoors," while still having ample protection from the elements. Now, set in sand and sea grasses at such an angle as to take full advantage of its closeness to the sea, this brownish-grey house seems almost part of the landscape.

Every room looks out on the ocean. The top floor living room and second-story dining room jut out in such ways that their views literally box the compass.

In decorating, the Chinese influence is predominant. Chinese

Auxiliary Will Serve Luncheon

The Woman's Auxiliary of the Eastern Shore Chapel, London Bridge, will serve a home-cooked hot plate lunch on Monday and will panels set the color scheme of the living room. Bamboo is used extensively, in vertical blinds and in furniture. There is little clutter.

Visitors will probably get lost, finding bedrooms and living rooms where least expected. But they won't be bored.

Tuesday, April 25 and 26, of Garden Week.

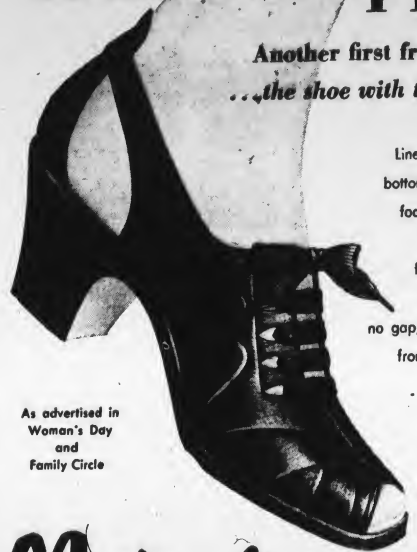

Luncheon will be served in the Parish House located on Laskin Road just beyond the new Virginia Beach Boulevard overpass. The hours for serving are from 11:30 in the morning until 2:30 p. m. Visitors are welcome to have lunch and spend a few moments of relaxation in the Chapel.

The Chapel is convenient to many of the homes and gardens that will be open during Garden Week. Directions on how to locate the Parish House can be had at the homes and gardens.

Naturally, they're pleased about it—it's their first bank-book. This is something they've managed together. They've saved for the things they want, and also for that "rainy day."

It's wise to save for a rainy day. But it's also wise to remember that drought can be just as devastating as rain... particularly spiritual drought.

Faith is the balance you'll find in your spiritual bank-book. It is something that you can renew, something that you can add to, and something that will pay you immeasurable dividends. Where else can such faith be renewed and developed than in the House of the Lord—your Church!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

THE SHOE AND THE FOOT

Both theologians and skeptics used to consider it a great matter to "prove" the resurrection of Jesus. Many fine-spun arguments were adduced. But times have changed. Today the shoe is really on the other foot. Today those who doubt the resurrection are in the position of having to disprove it. The resurrection is a fact long since established in the conscience of Christendom. The resurrection has by now proved itself. The burden of proof is squarely upon those who would disprove it.

Actually, the traditional objections to the resurrection were never too potent. We know that when Christ died He was suffering from five major wounds involving steady loss of blood. How could one so seriously injured awake from a coma, push away a huge boulder, remove the tightly bound grave clothes, procure other clothing, escape a heavy guard, round up his followers and persuade them he was risen from the dead? A person so badly injured would have required a long con-valence before he could have been active again.

But how did the resurrection happen? I don't know. Nobody knows. But that doesn't mean it didn't happen. Christ's rising from the dead is, of course, quite possible. Many things that happen are incomprehensible to us, but they happen anyway. Life itself is for example. It doesn't make sense that life should be here on this globe. We don't know, and can't imagine, how it came to be here. But it is here; it is a fact. All we can say is that God did it. How He did it we do not know. Why He did it we often wonder. Anyway, He did it. And if He did that — a thing obviously impossible — who is to say He could not raise from the dead His dearly beloved Son?

Too Good Not to be True
The resurrection is "wishful thinking," someone argues. But what's that? If my child should fall ill I should wish with all my heart that he might get well. Would that wish make it impossible for him to get well? Would that wish hinder him from getting well? Certainly not. Just because I wish a thing doesn't mean it can't happen or won't happen. Likely enough the disciples did want Jesus to rise from the dead. That does not prove He did not rise from the dead. "It is too good to be true," someone says. No; there are some things that are not good enough to be true. But nothing is ever too good to be true if God is in charge. Indeed, there are some things too good not to be true. The resurrection of Jesus is one of them.

He Knows

Christ says to us: "He who loves and believes in me shall never die." How do we "know" that this is true? We know because He said it and He is the authority. His triumph over death is our assurance of His right to speak. When Robert Oppenheimer speaks of nuclear energy we listen. He built the atom bomb. When Albert Einstein speaks of relativity, we listen. He fathered the theory. When Michelangelo speaks of sculpture, we listen. He is among the half dozen greatest in this field. When Toscanini speaks of music, we listen. He is one of the greatest directors of all time.

Who is a comparable authority in the area with which Easter is concerned? Who can tell us surely of the life beyond? Jesus Christ. If He does not know, nobody knows. But He does know. He did not say to the thief on that other cross: "Who knows? Perhaps this is a small universe and we shall meet again." No; He said to him: "Today thou shalt be with me in paradise." He was sharing with him.

That's good enough for us. "To as many as received Him He gave power to become the sons of God."

MILDEW STAIN DIFFICULT TO REMOVE

It's easier to prevent mildew than remove its stains, beside being easier on the fabric. This is a statement from the textile experts at the American Institute of Laundering, Joliet, Ill., who say no magic formula has yet been devised for removal of the grayish stains caused by the mildew parasite that feeds on warm, damp fabrics. Since damage usually results from even scientific efforts to remove mildew stains, they advise homemakers to store clean fabrics away dry. That "dry" advice applies, too, to soiled items tossed into the laundry bag in warm weather.

By REV. ERNEST K. EMURIAN

IN THE CROSS OF CHRIST I GLORY

It is hard to believe that the author of this hymn was called "the most unpopular governor Hong Kong ever had." It is well nigh incredible that he, Sir John Bowring (1792-1872) by his high-handed and insolent policies in that crown colony actually was responsible for the second Opium War between Great Britain and China, 1856-1858. But the facts of history cannot be denied. The explanation may lie in the change wrought in an idealistic youth who wrote his splendid hymns before he was 35, and then, corrupted by power, became the hard-hearted politician, "full of conceit, without any very clear idea of political principles on a large scale."

He was so hated that an attempt was made to kill him and the entire British garrison at Hong Kong by putting arsenic in the bread. While his health was seriously impaired by this act, Lady Bowring died from its effects. To his credit let it be remembered that he was one of the most brilliant and versatile men England has ever produced. He could speak fluently in 22 languages and converse in almost 2 hundred more; he served his King as "minister plenipotentiary and envoy extraordinary" in posts all over the world. Deserved honors were heaped upon him in his old age, although the facts of his life and influence could not be discounted.

Wanted to Preach
During his youthful days, he felt the call to preach and had a strong desire to enter the ministry of the Unitarian Church, but was dissuaded from this course by his father who had "higher ambitions for his son." He wrote in 1820, "It will be the height of my ambition to do something which may connect my work with the literature of this age." This was realized when, at 33, in 1825, inspired by the words of St. Paul in Galatians 6: 14, "Far be it from me to glory save in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ," he wrote a hymn which began:

In the Cross of Christ I glory,
Towerin' o'er the wrecks of time;
All the light of sacred story,
Gathers round its head sublime.

It was not until 24 years later that he saw the ruins of a cathedral in Macao in China, over which a cross was still standing, which some claimed as the inspiration for his hymn. But that same year, 1825, he wrote, "God is love. His mercy brightens and the stirring missionary hymn, 'Watchman, tell us of the night.' Author of more than 36 volumes, a distinguished member of Parliament, knighted by Queen Victoria, he died in Exeter, England, in 1872, his 80th year.

His words may never have achieved their deserved popularity had it not been for a rainy Sunday morning in 1849. Elham Conkey was organist and choir director at the Central Baptist Church, Norwich, Conn., that year, and his minister the Rev. Dr. Hiscox was preaching a series of sermons on "The Words on the Cross." The 34-year-old musician was grieved when he went to the choir loft to rehearse the anthem that particular Sunday just before the morning worship service. To his dismay only one soprano showed up. As if that were not bad enough, not a single alto, tenor or bass put in an appearance. He was so disgusted and discouraged that after he played the prelude that morning he cut off the organ motor, closed the console, locked it, and went home, leaving the minister to carry on as best he could under the circumstances. Since the organ and choir loft were in the balcony at the rear of the church, he could leave without attracting the attention of the congregation.

That afternoon he tried to raise his spirits by playing the piano. As he sat at the keyboard, he thought of his minister and the series of sermons he was delivering on Jesus' seven last words. The stanzas of "In the cross of Christ I glory" which the pastor had quoted, came into his mind, and right then and there he composed the hymn tune to which they are now universally sung. He confessed later that "the inspiration that came to me at that moment was a vivid contrast to my feelings at the morning service."

Mrs. B. H. Rathbun, his 24-year-old leading soprano was, with her husband, a faithful member of the choir. As a complement to her, since she was the only singer who had showed up that rainy Sunday morning, he named his new tune "Rathbun." She died five years later, at 29. Mr. Conkey moved to New York City and served as bass soloist and conductor of the quartet-choir at the Madison Avenue Baptist Church until his death in 1887.

So, from the pen of a disillusioned politician and a disappointed organist and choir-master, the stirring strains of "In the cross of Christ I glory," which breathe the air of confidence and conviction, and spread the message of joy and hope to all the world.

The best time to hunt predators with a cat is late in the afternoon or early morning, unless you want to try it during the night.

'Actress' Large Milk Producer

A registered Guernsey cow, Sportman's Daisy Actress, owned by Bayville Farms, Inc., Norfolk, put 15,659 pounds of milk and 768 pounds of fat into the country's breadbasket. This production represents approximately 7447 quarts of high-quality milk. This is according to the official Advanced Registry record released by the American Guernsey Cattle Club. "Actress" was a six year old and was milked three times daily for 365 days, and met calving requirements.

Guernsey cows on official test have steadily increased production over the years. The average cow in the United States produces only about one-half as much as the average pure-bred Guernsey on official test.

The sire of "Actress" is Fawcett's Peerless Actor, winner and tested descendant of the sire are listed in the Performance Register of the American Guernsey Cattle Club.
This record was supervised by Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

Joint Recital Will Bring First Beach Civic Concert Season To End

The first season of the Virginia Beach Civic Concert season will come to a conclusion tomorrow evening when the Virginia Beach Civic Concert Association presents a joint concert featuring Shirlee Emmons, soprano, and William McGrath, tenor, at the local High School.

Two previous concerts, the first by Sylvia Rosenberg, violinist, and another by Philippe Entremont, pianist, were most successful. The concert series is sponsored by the Virginia Beach Music Club.

A native of Wisconsin, Miss Emmons won the gold medal of the National Music Festival held in Minnesota, while yet a student in high school. She was awarded three scholarships and chose to study at Lawrence Conservatory in her native Appleton for her degree. She did graduate study at Curtis Institute under Elisabeth Schumann, and was tutored under famous masters while in Italy on a Fulbright award. She has appeared frequently as soloist with the Robert Shaw Choral, in New York and on tour; sung with the CBS Symphony and for RCA-Victor and Concert Hall recordings. She toured Brazil on an artists' exchange project and has won the $1,000 Marian Anderson Award.

William McGrath was born in Medina, N. Y., and his singing career is said to have started as an accident. He was directing a Christmas opera in his home town when a violent snowstorm prevented the appearance of the tenor. McGrath filled in and was so successful that he began studying vocal music seriously. He won the "Voice of Tomorrow" contest sponsored by the Buffalo Evening News just two years later and studied on a scholarship at the Juilliard School of Music under the late Quenna Mario. He sang in the Verdi Requiem with the Buffalo Philharmonic Orchestra under William Steinberg, and 30 times more under the same conductor's baton, both with the Buffalo and Pittsburgh orchestras. He has been heard on national radio programs, with many symphony orchestras, at the Lindbergh, Kan., Centennial Festival, and with the Robert Shaw Choral. He made his Town Hall debut last spring as winner of the JUGG Award. He has toured abroad during the last two seasons.

Friday night's joint recital will begin at 8:15 o'clock.

Lt. Brooks Now Commands 2151 Service Unit

First Lieutenant Thomas L. Brooks, of Virginia Beach, recently became the commanding officer of the 2151st Service Unit, Headquarters Detachment, at the Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Maryland.

Lieutenant Brooks is a graduate of Oceana High School and Virginia Military Institute at Lexington, where he received his BS Degree in Biology. While a student at VMI he was active in the ROTC program and upon graduation in 1949 was commissioned a second lieutenant in the U. S. Army Reserves. He then enrolled in Virginia Polytechnic Institute at Blacksburg, where he was majoring in biochemistry.

In January, 1951, Brooks was called to active duty as a second lieutenant and reported to Fort Knox, Ky., for duty, and was promoted to first lieutenant in February, 1952. He was ordered overseas in January 1951 and was assigned to the tank company of the 15th Infantry Regiment, 2nd Infantry Division in Korea. Returning to the United States a year later, he drew assignments at Camp Pickett, Va., and Fort George G. Meade, Maryland. In March of this year he was assigned to his present duties at Aberdeen.

Lieutenant Brooks has been the recipient of the Combat Infantry Badge, Korean Service Medal with three bronze stars, National Defense and United Nations Service Medals.

His parents, Dr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Brooks, Jr., reside in Virginia Beach. He is married to the former Miss Rachel McCormick of Fayetteville, N. C., and they have one son, Thomas L. Brooks, IV, age six months. Lt. Brooks and his family are presently residing at 317-C Augusta Street, Chesapeake Gardens, Aberdeen, Maryland.

Water and not enough sunlight will turn ivory piano keys yellow. To clean these yellowed keys, use a soft flannel dampened with wood or denatured alcohol. Then be sure your piano keyboard is uncovered part of the time. On some new pianos, plastic keys are being used. They may be cleaned with a damp cloth.

Gifford Penthouse Will Afford Treat For Garden Tour Visitors

by Elizabeth Taylor Little
A penthouse on top of the Mayflower Apartment at Virginia Beach will be one of the local attractions of Garden Week on the Virginia Beach Tour Tuesday, April 26.

Belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Gifford, formerly of Louisville, Kentucky, and Oak Grove Plantation on the Eastern Shore of Virginia, it is a varied, colorful combination of the old and the new, containing an interesting and evocative collection of furniture from far and near.

The fine Sheraton hutchboard in the dining room was brought from Scotland, and the Sheraton dining table is inlaid with ebony and satinwood. There is much handsome silver, including a George II epergne with four arms, and the original Waterford glass, and two rare ironstone china tureens with a black design.

Much of the upholstered furniture is done in needlepoint, largely by Mrs. Gifford, and there is a charming sampler on a wall adjoining us: "Let us possess what never shall fade, the treasures of the mind," wreathed with flowers.

One of the bedrooms is furnished in Colonial style and has an atmosphere of great comfort and dignity with its heavy hangings and substantial mahogany pieces.

A part of the penthouse terrace was enclosed by Mr. and Mrs. Gifford to make a large sun room, comfortably furnished in early American maple and pine. Interesting and exotic is a vase from King Tut's tomb, containing a string of Egyptian beads. There is also a clock which, on striking one, "a mouse runs down." On the open portion of the terrace Mr. Gifford, an ardent woodworker, has a tool house.

The view from the terrace and windows is magnificent, giving a panorama of Virginia Beach and its environs not to be had from any other vantage point. On clear days one can see as far north as Kiptopeke and as far south as North Carolina.

Last year, on the one-day Historic Garden Week tour at Virginia Beach, the Gifford penthouse attracted 600 visitors. This year, an equal number are expected. This is the only showplace on this year's tour which has hitherto been open to the public.

The seven other homes and gardens on the tour will be described in this paper next week. They include the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Karl A. Wunder and Mr. J. Ross McNeal in Birdneck Point; of Mr. and Mrs. Peyton May and Admiral and Mrs. David H. Clark in Bay Colony; "The Hill," residence of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Watters at 103 - 54th street; and, on the ocean front, the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Stuart at 47th street and of Mrs. Harry N. Coates at 78th. Both Mr. and Mrs. Stuart and Mrs. Coates are residents of Washington, D. C.

Block tickets will be $2.50; individual tickets 50c. All proceeds go toward the restoration of Woodlawn Plantation, George Washington's wedding present to his adopted daughter, Nelly Custis on her marriage to his nephew.

Two Housing Projects Will Add 445 Homes

Pointing out the rapid development of building in Princess Anne County, the recent announcement of two housing projects with a total of 445 home units, shows one already under construction and another about to get under way.

Bromley Homes, a 245 unit project on the Military Highway across from the Lakeland Apartments, is already under construction. Abe Pfeiffer, Norfolk realtor, revealed. There are three bedroom homes, of partial brick construction, with attached garage, and of the split-level type.

A 65-acre tract, on Route 646 just off Virginia Beach Boulevard is the site for the second development, which is owned by El Pfeiffer and Phil Abrams and associates.

The sale of this property, which faces Willis Wayside and which will contain 200 home sites, was handled by the Paul W. Brown Realty Corporation and the land was owned by J. E. Marr.

Sales Managers "Do It Up Right" For Work Staff

When the sales managers for the "See-Z-See" company arrived in Virginia Beach and put up at the Prince Charles Hotel, they went about doing it up right for their sales staff. The managers, Laura Castelli, Noel Cox, Arthur Elliott and Roland Webb, set up a large room for recreation, which includes a ping-pong table, television and radio sets, a huge record collection and space for dancing, games, and other activities.

To maintain the "home" atmosphere, the sales managers, at Virginia Beach or any other center where the staff may work, celebrate holidays with banquets and parties, take in fights and baseball games, go in for horseback riding, swimming, golf and tennis, or whatever sports available at the place or season.

The group arrived here recently after spending the winter season in Florida.

WORLD'S TOP GOLFERS TEE OFF THIS MORNING AT CAVALIER CLUB

The finest professional golfers in the world tee off today at the Cavalier Yacht and Country Club in the third annual $17,500 Virginia Beach Open Golf Tournament and late next Sunday afternoon a champion will be crowned.

This year's event has attracted one of the finest fields in the short history of the tourney. The year's leading money winner, young Mike Souchak, of Durham, N. C., is on hand to try for the $2400 first place prize. Souchak has been the talk of the winter tour which concludes with the Beach Open. He capped the Texas Open, the Houston Open and the Seminole Pro-Am events.

Besides attracting most of the rising young stars this year, the tournament has an added attraction in that it is the only one offering a Seniors Division. The colorful veteran, Gene Sarazen is here for the event. He won the first Senior's title year before last.

Sarazen is one of golf's Old Guard and has won practically every major title in the world. He is a past Masters, U. S. Open and British Open champion. Furgol, Thompson, the young Australian, who last year won the British Open Crown, is also included in the field. Last year's runner-up, tempestuous Tommy Bolt, entered.

Others listed as certain starters today are Johnny Palmer, of Charlotte, a consistent money winner; Art Wall, Jr., who was second at Greensboro last week; Marty Furgo, winner of the World Series of Golf last year; Little Bob Toski, winner of the rich Tam-O-Shanter meet in Chicago; Ed Furgol, of Witherspoon fame, the present national open title.

Another favorite in this year's field is Tidewater's own Chandler Harper. The veteran Portsmouth pro fired a three under par 60 in a practice round at the Cavalier this week.

The schedule calls for 18 holes each day through Sunday. The field will be reduced to the low sixty pros and 20 amateurs after the first 36 holes. Tickets to the events are available at the Chamber of Commerce and at the Cavalier Yacht and Country Club grounds.

IKE SENDS REGRETS

President Eisenhower — the country's number one golfer — wrote a letter recently to officials of the Virginia Beach Open Golf tournament expressing his regrets that he could not visit Virginia Beach for the golf event.

The President had been extended an invitation by B. M. Stanton, the tourney's general chairman, and in his reply the Chief Executive wrote: "I assure you of my interest and I hope that the tournament will be a great success."

Atomic Bombing Today is Only "Make Believe" Say Army, Navy

Four non-nuclear "make-believe" atomic bombs will be detonated at Camp Pendleton this afternoon as part of Exercise "High Tide," a joint Army-Navy amphibious maneuver being held in the Pendleton area this week.

Residents of the Camp Pendleton - Virginia Beach area are being alerted to the fact that the explosions are harmless and are being used for the primary purpose of demonstrating to Army-Navy troops what an atomic bomb will look like.

The device is chemically composed and has been used several times in the past. A bright flash cloud will rise to a height of 500 feet in the air. This cloud, which will be visible for a distance of approximately three miles, will disperse in three minutes.

ROADS CLOSED

Three roads running through the Camp Pendleton area, were blocked off yesterday and will remain closed today, during a part of the exercise.

The roads are closed by an agreement, reached between Army military police, state and highway police, and officials of the Virginia Beach City Manager's office. The following are the routes affected:

DISCUSS CANCER CRUSADE

Brig. Gen. Frank Camm, USA, ret., of Amherst County, who is leading the Virginia Cancer Crusade this April, outlines plans for the fund-raising and educational campaign to Governor Thomas B. Stanley. The governor has proclaimed April as Cancer Month in Virginia, where 3,200 persons died of cancer in 1954 and where estimates indicate 2,800 were saved from death by cancer in the same time. More than 15,000 volunteers in better than 100 local units of the Virginia Division, American Cancer Society, are working in the campaign to raise $10,000, which is Virginia's share in the national cancer program of education, service and research.

Severe Weather Forces Cancellation Of Thirteenth Annual Rose Show

The thirteenth annual rose show of the Princess Anne Garden Club, which was to have been on May 7th and 8th at the Panoram Room of the Cavalier Hotel at Virginia Beach has been cancelled. Miss Evelyn Collins Hill, General Chairman of the Rose Show and her Co-Chairmen, Mrs. Halle Carlisle Old, Mrs. Oscar Smith, Mrs. Gustav S. Friess and Mrs. B. L. Doggett, Chairman of Arrangements have announced with regret. The severe winter and the bad weather have made a rose show impossible.

HS Glee Club at Kecoughtan to Entertain Vets

The Virginia Beach High School Glee club under the direction of Mr. William Miller entertained the veterans at Kecoughtan Veterans Hospital on Sunday afternoon April 17th with a concert. Mr. Miller's program was varied, the entire glee club sang several numbers, then a male quartet rendered two numbers, then everyone joined in a little community singing. Mr. Miller closed his program with several religious numbers.

The concert was sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary Post No. 7168 Veterans of Foreign Wars. The Auxiliary was represented by several of its members headed by its President, Mrs. Russell and hospital chairman Mrs. Ruth Manages. Members attending were Mrs. Etta Wells, Mrs. Aber Steinlein, Mrs. Glenn Dill and Mrs. Alton Haggard and Mrs. Alfred Scott. The Post was represented by Adjutant Quartermaster Frank Wells and Walter Wells.

After the concert the ladies of the Auxiliary and the Post members visited the Blind Therapy Hall, under the direction of Mr. Berthshaw. The Auxiliary brought back a variety of articles made by the blind veterans which they will have for sale and place to be decided at a later date.

Seniors to Present "Blackouts" on Friday Night at 8

The Virginia Beach High School Seniors will present their annual "Senior Blackout" Friday April 22 in the high school auditorium at eight o'clock. The proceeds from this show will be used toward the purchase of a gift for the school.

As customary these "Blackouts" remain a secret till opening night, however, the news seems to have leaked out that they will be the best yet.

The "Blackouts" are a fast moving conglomeration of skits, dance routines, pantomimes, and songs, combined to display the long hidden talent of the 1955 Senior Class. They feature a special finale song, written by Capt. A. P. Randolph.

Five Candidates Withdraw From Primary Race

At least five individuals who were listed as anti-organization candidates as Democratic committeemen in a Norfolk newspaper last week have formally withdrawn from those races in the Princess Anne primary election to be held in July. It was learned Wednesday.

Three of the withdrawals are in the Kempsville Magisterial District and one each in the Lynnhaven and Pungo Districts. No reason for the withdrawals were given.

Of the announced slate in the Kempsville District the following have withdrawn: J. M. Brownlee, J. L. Tignor and G. B. Sivills. William D. Nagb has withdrawn in the Lynnhaven race and Garland Fentress in the Pungo district.

All five of the announced candidates were listed on slates offered by the anti-organization and their withdrawal leaves doubt as to the authenticity of the label that appeared opposite their names in the Norfolk newspaper.

WRITTEN ESPECIALLY FOR HISTORIC GARDEN WEEK

I think the sun shines brighter,
I think the air is lighter
In a garden.
I think the jonquil's gold is fairer,
The fragrance of a rose is rarer,
In a garden.
God pity eyes that look and see
No beauty in simplicity,
No beauty in a garden plot,
Of iris and forget-me-not.
O give us eyes, dear Lord, to see,
The radiant, lasting beauty
In a garden.

2nd Lt. Don Campbell on Carpet... Red, That Is

Two thunder-browed Army Colonels at Fort Story had a junior officer on the carpet Monday. Their menacing expressions were enough to tell the poor guy that his number was up.

Second Lt. Don Campbell got jittery as soon as he put down the phone. There was no mistaking the ominous tone of Fort Story's deputy commander, Lt. Col. Frederick G. Ward. His order: "Get up here and get up here fast!" had the crack of a gavel's whip.

Campbell, who is Fort Story's Special Service Officer, obeyed on the double. At post headquarters he felt the deep-frees atmosphere the minute he walked in. Even his friends rave him wide berth. But one was bold enough to whisper nervously, "What's up? The Old Man is blowing his top?" Campbell's knees played "Chopsticks." He knew that Fort Story's commanding officer, Col. Edwin A. Deagle, is a master of icy military invective when his subordinates get off the track. As the lieutenant headed for the deputy commander's office, someone in the corridor whistled that grand old Irish air, "They're Hangin' Donny Campbell in the Mornin'."

From Colonel Ward the lieutenant got only silence and a long stare of disgust. "Sir," Campbell quivered, "I ask what this is all about?"

No answer. The colonel's lips curled more eloquently than words. At last he snapped out a curt, "Report to the Old Man!" and turned away with a snort.

The Old Man was waiting for Campbell. Colonel Deagle's fists were clenched so tightly that the knuckles showed white. His eyes were two smouldering holes in a mask of suppressed fury.

"Campbell," he said in a low voice, clipping off each word. "I'm the commanding officer of this post. Who and what do you think you are?"

Campbell was speechless. When the colonel approached him he stood at rigid attention. Colonel Deagle thrust his face close and barked: "Are you deaf? I said, what do you think you are?"

But Campbell was mute. The colonel's eyes blazed. He snatched the gold bars from the lieutenant's shoulders. "Well," he spat, "I'll tell you what you are! He shook his fist in Campbell's terrified face.

The first opened, revealing two silver bars.

"You're a first lieutenant," the colonel roared. Behind them Colonel Ward broke into a guffaw.

And that is how they broke the news of his promotion to First Lt. Don Campbell.

CITY COUNCIL WILL MAKE EVERY EFFORT TO GET ARMORY HERE

Progress Edition Endorsed by CofC President

James L. Kitchin, president of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce, is the most recent voice leader to place his endorsement on the forthcoming "progress edition" of the Virginia Beach Sun-News.

The Chamber head was enthusiastic over the prospects afforded by a large anniversary and progress edition such as is planned by this newspaper. Kitchin expressed the thought that such an edition offered this area a wonderful opportunity to publicize its assets.

Kitchin's formal announcement stated: "I have noted with keen interest your announcement of the Progress edition in which you propose to cover the history and progress of our great community. I am sure that you will be adding our city and county by sending out several thousand copies. I wish for you every success in this undertaking."

Last week Mayor Frank A. Dusch placed his endorsement on the progress edition, which is being planned for publication in early July. The edition will be filled with pictures and stories depicting the progress and growth of Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach.

The edition is expected to contain a record number of pages and the newspaper's management is planning to print several thousand additional copies of the edition for mailing to all parts of the United States. A specially designed mailing wrapper has been designed for the special edition.

Art Association Announces Final Lecture of Season

The Virginia Beach Art Association will have at its last lecture of the season, Friday evening, Miss Lucy Cherry Crisp, Director of the North Carolina State Museum, who will talk on "The Artist and his Community Today."

Miss Lucy Crisp is an outstanding figure in North Carolina as well as in the Country. She was born in Falkland, North Carolina and attended the Woman's College in Greensboro where she received her BS in Music. For several years she taught music in the N. C. Public schools and became Supervisor of Music. Somewhat later she returned to her native Falkland and there devoted her time to freetime writing mainly for the Greenville and Raleigh newspapers. She then turned to Church work and became Counselor of Religion at the Woman's College in Greensboro and later headed the Pilgrim Foundation at the University of Illinois. During World War II she served as USO Director for three years. In 1947 she went to Raleigh as assistant director at the North Carolina State Art Museum. She is now and has been for some time its Director. With all her commitments, she is one of the State's busiest authorities and lecturers Mrs. Crisp has found time for writing poetry. She has published a book of dialect verse, "Spring Fever" and a volume of lyrics, "Brief Testament."

Miss Crisp has chosen her subject "The Artist and his Community Today" as one of interest (Continued on Page Eight)

The Virginia Beach City Council this week voted to hire a specialist to make a preliminary survey in connection with the possible establishment of an armory on Laskin Road.

The site is just outside the city limits and the overall project would entail a boat basin on the north side of the artery and the dredged material would be dumped on the south side to create a foundation for the proposed building. At the same time the project would tend to eliminate a mosquito breeding area of low, marsh land.

While the proposed building project has not been approved in Richmond, city officials have expressed confidence that approval will be given.

In other action, city council members agreed to go on record opposing the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company's petition to the State Corporation Commission to permit any city license required if it is to customers in the community. The council agreed to go along with the Virginia League of Women's Policies in opposing the request of the company.

The council's other deliberations concerned zoning problems and how the body will answer requests for cutting through alleys that were plotted when the town was incorporated.

Councilman John McCann suggested that the city should develop a policy on the cutting down of alleys, and suggested that property owners who would be benefited bear part of the expense.

The council will check into the possibility of a local bus service along Atlantic Avenue at the mouth and asked that such service be rendered below 17th Street. Councilman also was needed all along Atlantic Avenue and that the Transportation Department be given authority to grant a franchise with the city, drawing big buses which are not financially profitable for short runs.

The council voted to condemn property on Norfolk and Mediterranean avenues described as dangerous. The body also will investigate the installation of traffic light at the city limits at the entrance from the Cavalier Park-Bay Colony area. The light has been urged by civic leagues for some years.

Annual Safety Check Urged For Automobiles

The traditional May safety check for automobiles is becoming increasingly important with improvements to highways and vehicles accelerating average driving speeds. W. B. Rice, director of portation, said today. Rice has service of Plymouth Motor Company more than 10,000 Plymouth dealers to assist drivers in a nation-wide safety campaign during the month by reducing the mechanical hazard element of driving.

Rice pointed out that the recent development of superhighways and one-way traffic streets, although necessary to expedite raise average speeds throughout the flow of traffic, has tended to the nation. Improvements to cars such as power brakes, automatic transmissions, and power steering have added to their safety value through ease of handling. However, the maintenance of cars in top driving condition is still a vital problem, he said.

Rice said Plymouth's 300 sales and service field representatives are making a special effort to encourage dealer participation in the safety program which is sponsored by leaders in the auto industry and national safety authorities.

"An automobile is not a perpetual motion machine," Rice said. "American-made cars are the world's best, but they still require regular inspection to assure safe operation."

During the campaign Plymouth dealers and the public are being urged to pay special attention to checking brakes, lights, steering, tires, exhaust system, windshield wipers, rear view mirror and horn.

AFTER MAKING HER CUSTOMARY "SHAKEDOWN CRUISE" SHE BECAME FLAGSHIP FOR ADMIRAL BYRD ON HIS POLAR EXPEDITION INTO THE ANTARCTIC.

RETURNING TO THE CARIBBEAN, SHE ACTED AS DEMONSTRATION SHIP TO FAMILIARIZE NAVAL OFFICERS WITH CARRIER OPERATIONS. ATLANTIC FLEET SAILORS QUICKLY DUBBED HER "THE SHOWBOAT."

THEN... KOREA. THE PHIL SEA WAS ORDERED WEST AT FULL SPEED. PILOTS OF AIR GROUP 11 CLIMBED THEMSELVES FOR ONE OF THE FIERCEST BATTLES OF MODERN HISTORY.

HER PANTHER JETS AND COCKADES HIT NAVAL COMMUNICATION CENTERS FROM SEOUL TO WONAN. IN THE YELLOW SEA THEY SOFTENED UP INCHON FOR THE U.S. FIRST OFFENSIVE THROU.

BUT TWO MONTHS LATER, CHINESE COMMUNISTS MADE A SURPRISE DRIVE IN THE CHOSIN RESERVE AREA. THE PHIL SEA AND SISTER SHIPS THREW UP ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE TO COVER RETREATING MARINES.

MILL AFTER MILL WAS CLEARED ALL THE WAY DOWN TO HANGNAM, WHERE MORE THAN 150,000 TROOPS AND CIVILIANS CONVERGED FOR EVACUATION.

AFTER NEARLY A YEAR OF COMBAT DUTY IN KOREA, THE PHILIPPINE SEA RETURNED TO THE U.S. FOR OVERHAUL. BUT FIVE MONTHS LATER SHE WAS BACK AGAIN TO BALANCE THE COMMUNIST OFF-BALANCE.

HER MOST IMPORTANT MISSION CAME WHEN SHE TEAMED UP WITH THREE OTHER CARRIERS TO BRICK OUT VITOL HYDROELECTRIC PLANTS IN MANCHURIA AND CRIP 60% OF THEIR POWER OUTPUT TO THE RED CROSS.

WHEN THIRD TOUR THE PHIL SEA DISPATCHED "ROUND THE CLOCK" SORTIES AND AT ONE TIME MAINTAINED CONTINUOUS OPERATIONS, DAY AND NIGHT, FOR FIVE DAYS.

THE TAG OF "SHOWBOAT" DID NOT LAST LONG WITH THIS VETERAN OF 22 1/2 MONTHS OF COMBAT DUTY. . . . SHE IS NOW KNOWN TO ALL AS THE FIGHTING PHIL, A GREAT FIGHTING SHIP.

Mastitis in Dairy Cattle Robs Nation's Farmers of $200 Million

The nation's dairy farmers are being robbed of 200 million dollars this year. The thief is a stubborn, puzzling disease called bovine mastitis.

An inflammation of the udder, mastitis is commonly caused by the same type of germ responsible for "strep" throat in humans. The disease is usually classified as either acute or chronic. In acute mastitis, the animal will run a high temperature, lose her appetite and may stop giving milk. Chronic mastitis is hard to diagnose and may flare up at intervals. It is frequently spread in secret to other herd animals.

Some bruise or damage to the udder generally precedes an outbreak.

Old Point Comfort this week. Mrs. C. H. Fay was chosen as an alternate for Mrs. Holloman, who is the club delegate.

Mrs. Holloman named a budget committee consisting of Mrs. D. W. Jones, Mrs. C. J. Hiller, and Mrs. J. D. Mapp. They will report at the May meeting.

Speaker for the meeting was A. M. Stenzel, who is the director of the Tidewater Area School for Mentally Retarded Children and the Cerebral Palsy Center. Mr. Stenzel spoke on "Pioneering in Training the Handicapped Child."

break, although sudden change in weather or feed may also play a part. If allowed to go unchecked, mastitis may be fatal or it may do permanent damage to the udder, leaving scar tissue in place of productive milk tissue.

May Be Prevented

Careful sanitary practices and good farm management reduce the chances of an outbreak. Dairy cattle, if kept well bedded and out of dampness and drafts, are less apt to contract the infection. Immediate attention to minor injuries also serves to prevent mastitis.

Terramycin, if administered in time, generally destroys the infection and leaves the infected quarter undamaged. The antibiotic is suspended in a water base and packaged for easy udder infusion. Although antibiotics have been prepared in oil or jelly base material, recent experiments by scientists at the Pfizer Experimental Farm in Terre Haute, Indiana, proved that water infusions yielded the best results.

Terramycin, in many cases, cleared up mastitis infections in 12 to 24 hours. The scientists say that it can be milked out sooner than an oil or jelly base antibiotic, returning the cow to perfect health and normal production.

Pea Aphids Hold Farm Spotlight

Pea aphids are currently holding the limelight in the insect world in Virginia.

As far as Mr. Morris, associate entomologist at VPI, says pea aphids are increasing in alfalfa fields all over the state and likely will be the cause of economic damage within one or two weeks. He advises that alfalfa fields before treatment. Control materials are one-half pound of technical grade malathion, or one-fourth pound of technical grade parathion per acre.

These materials are used, wait one week or two more, before harvesting or feeding alfalfa.

Controls given in the bulletin "Control of the Pea Aphid in the East" are applicable to the aphid on alfalfa.

Orchards in Danger
Orchards, already heavily damaged by the freeze, are in for some insect injury too. Spring broods of codling moth are expected to be heavier than usual in central and south-side Virginia. Plum curculios are probably emerging from hibernation. Red-banded leaf roller adults are beginning to emerge in orchards, and damage by the first brood is likely in some areas.

House flies are becoming active over the state. Two references on fly control are VPI circular 619, "Fly Control with Poisoned Bait," and USDA leaflet 182, "House Fly Control."

Copies are available at no cost from county agents.

DAVIS UNOPPOSED

It has been some time since a man has been voted the confidence by the people that has been given to Delegate Harry B. Davis, of Princess Anne County.

The veteran legislator announced several weeks ago that he would seek another term in the Virginia General Assembly and when the deadline for filing came last Wednesday night there appeared no opposition to the man who has ably represented this county for the past 22 years. Davis has been declared elected and his name will not even appear on the ballot in the July 12th primary election.

Delegate Davis has established an enviable legislative record in the General Assembly and by his ability and seniority holds the chairmanships of many important committees. His re-election assures us of able representation in Richmond.

It was interesting to note the endorsement given Davis by the anti-organization group, who waited until the deadline to make the endorsement. Davis has been in the General Assembly for the past 22 years and apparently the anti-organization group does not think that is too long to be in office. They have been saying that the present organization has been in office too long, but yet they do not feel that Delegate Davis has been in too long. It appears that their thinking is a bit inconsistent.

Apparently the antiis think one way one minute and another way the next minute. They seem to be confused among themselves and are trying to confuse the voter. Such inconsistency and confusion can only reflect weakness in any political group. It would seem to us that if 20 years is too long then 22 years must be too long. But, not so with the anti-organization group who seem to play a different tune for each occasion.

DREAM NEARS REALITY

A development at this week's City Council meeting seems to be a step nearer fulfilling what was a dream a few years ago by a member of the same council at that time. The discussion and ultimate authorization for a preliminary survey to be made of the property on Laskin Road to be utilized, it is hoped, for the site of an armory-convention hall is in keeping with the thought and idea expressed by Fred A. Haycox when he was a member of the council some few years ago.

The site, as proposed, would serve a three-fold purpose. The low area on the north side of Laskin Road would be dredged creating a boat basin and the fill would be used on the south side of the road for the site of the building. At the same time, the filling operation would be beneficial to mosquito control since it would eliminate an area of low, marsh land that has constantly been a great source for breeding the pests.

The armory project has not been approved in Richmond as yet but city officials are highly optimistic that it will be. Thus, after a span of about ten years since the idea was first broached it looks as though the dream of one civic leader will eventually become a reality, and to the benefit of everyone in this area.

The convention hall is badly needed in this resort community and the location proposed is ideally situated and will afford sufficient space to provide ample parking facilities to go along with the building.

★ AUTHOR OF "HOW TO STOP WORRYING AND START LIVING" ★

Audrey Clegg, 608 15th Street, Bedford, Ind., was once afraid of the hypodermic needle. It was necessary for her to have a very serious operation and after the operation she had to take so many shots she says she is a nurse. She said the needle shot was the one that caused her the most trouble. A large, blonde nurse gave her a shot at first and when she entered the room Audrey said she would tense her muscles, and that caused the nurse to bend over her. She would cry for 15 minutes after the nurse had left the room.

One day a small girl came to see her, so Audrey wondered how she could help her. She took her to the bed and said, "I know what you are terribly afraid of, honey." Then she began smooth-neck and back. All the time she kept talking about a patient down the hall who was so beautiful she should be in the movies and she added that Audrey must see this patient shot. The next time she came in she gave the same treatment and asked Audrey to keep an eye on the little old lady, just across the hall who had a heart condition and could not get out of bed. Two hours later she came back and asked how the woman was getting along. Thus keeping her mind on other things Audrey relaxed and finally came to take the shots without too much distress.

She says she has wondered so many times why there is so much difference in people, and particularly in nurses who receive the same training.

SHERIFF ENFORCING THE LAW

AROUND

The Cracker Barrel

Willie Dunn continues to call the plays for the "Dunn Machine" candidates and while he wants it to appear that everything is rosy among the candidates, reports persist that none of the Dunn men get along with one another. It seems there is just too much signal calling by Boss Dunn thru his chief aide, "Bustle" Heath, who is his candidate for commonwealth's attorney.

A rumor that is as yet unconfirmed but is very persistent is that Boss Dunn and Heath are plotting with J. Hugh Barnes, the announced independent candidate for sheriff, to join their ticket. It is said that if Barnes will agree to run on the "Dunn Ticket" then both Boss Dunn and Heath will feel better since then they could get rid of Roger Malbon. The rumor has it that Boss Dunn and his boy, Heath, have been trying for a long time to get Malbon off the ticket.

It is reported that one of Malbon's deputies visited city hall recently and was bragging about staging raids for the amusement of his girl friends. When Malbon heard about this even the Sheriff realized how damaging such talk could be, even though it might be true. We understand the deputy in question was severely reprimanded for his loose tongue, not for making raids for amusement.

The Cracker Barrel read a letter from a reader this week that certainly makes sense. The writer points out that with Heath's convictions and Malbon's past behavior these men should not even offer for public office. The writer states that neither man has denied anything and since they haven't he assumes it is true. Cracker Barrel doesn't have to assume that these things are true about Heath and Malbon or neither do a lot of other people.

If "Bustle" Heath's record of convictions is correct it will take up all of Roger Malbon's time arresting Heath and then on the other hand it would take up Heath's time prosecuting Malbon for his misdeeds. It is said that Heath has a record as long as your arm.

It is also understood that Malbon has made a lengthy apology to Boss Dunn to regain the Boss' favor. It seems that Malbon has claimed several times that he does not see Dunn, nor does he take orders from him. However, the reported apology seems to change the situation and Malbon is now taking his orders from Boss Dunn once again.

MY PET PEEVE

Somewhat with regret, I read a piece the other day which said that Mexico City, since it is becoming such a great big city, is gradually getting out of the habit of indulging in that world-famous "siesta."

I have always envied South Americans this custom of shutting out the cares of the work-day world for a few hours of slumber time beneath a wide sombrero that shades the afternoon sun. Inasmuch as another South American neighbor's most fond dream is with a revolution on his hands when even suggested delays away with the siestas, I always looked upon them as an ancient custom that would prove always invaluable to the demanding approaches of modern times.

Mexico City has become so grand on the "Cienfuegos" workers just don't have the time to get home for a comfortable relaxation period and, to say they aren't enough transportation facilities to handle the rush there would be if everyone tried to rush home at the same time, anyhow. Before I fully resign myself to the tragic conclusion that nothing is inviolate within the shadow of man's eternal progress, I will for some time cling to the hope that inventive South Americans will refuse to let the siesta custom slowly die away. If this should happen, a number of more recent, shall we call them fads, concessions to man's pleasure will also be in danger — maybe even the coffee break will be abolished. I don't think our fellow friends to the south will give up so easily. If they have public bath houses in J. C. an, why not public siesta houses in the Americas, señor?

Malbon has conducted himself in a respectable manner and has not imbedded, and has not wrecked automobiles belonging to others, and has not had someone else take the blame for an auto mishap, he should tell the public. Suspicion surrounds these two candidates and it should be removed, or they should not offer for public office if this suspicion is well founded. Unless they deny these things, we must assume they are true.

Sincerely,
P. M. Smith

UNIQUE EXPERIENCE

Editor, SUN-NEWS
 I had an experience on Friday as I passed by "Pine Hill" which you may not believe. You know the retaining wall on the north side of the Waters' lawn? As I approached the intersection of Holly Road and 54th Street, I saw a blue squirrel leaning against the wall.

A blue squirrel? — no, a gray squirrel, but he was wearing a fine blue sweater. When he was fixed me with a cold, calculating eye and said, "I like to talk; I can tell you things; you are going to visit Mr. and Mrs. James H. Waters."

I was stunned, for I had never had a squirrel bother to speak to me before. I could not remember where I had been going or why. He ignored my speechless condition, and continued with what he had to say.

"You know the Waters are going to open this place for the Virginia Beach Tour. It's a grand big house with more windows than you can probably count. I particularly like the red front door. And there is nothing more beautiful than the lamps in the living room at night, and that crystal chandelier in the dining room."

Irritation at this smart character released me from shock. I found I could speak, and I told him he was a rank outsider. Everything he had mentioned he could only see from the road.

SQUIRREL IS MISSED

He was miffed, all right. He twitched his nose and stroked his whiskers. However, with that no-kiss oblige air of his, he dismissed the interruption. He said that he liked the garden, where he spent much of his time roaming around and basking in the weather permitting, in the sun. Then he began to mutter, "You're just jealous," I said, "Because you'll never get inside that house — not even on a Virginia Beach Tour."

What he would have replied, I'll never know. For just at that moment the red front door at "Pine Hill" swung open and out pranced a beautiful black French poodle.

Snarling took one look and made for the sandhills. I've never seen him since.

 The Editor, Virginia Beach Sun-News, Virginia Beach, Va.
 Dear Sir:

I have read at times in Willie Dunn's paper stirring remarks about a man whom I hold in high regard. That man is Clarence E. Hoback.

Mr. Hoback has been one of the most civic minded citizens through the years and is a good, a sound business man. He is a happy family man who has always provided well for his family.

I think it is high time that something be done about a man like Willie Dunn, who is always insulting or maligning the character of someone. When he tries this in the case of C. E. Hoback he is stating absolute falsehoods as anyone who knows Mr. Hoback will agree.

It is a shame when a man like Dunn is able to speak so disparagingly about men of the type of C. E. Hoback. We wonder if Willie Dunn scratched his conscience (if he has one) if he could be classed with Mr. Hoback relative to providing for his family and enjoying a well rounded family life, or as a civic worker and one who has always contributed to the betterment of his community.

When Mr. Hoback is attacked by this ruthless individual he is picking on the wrong man and Dunn well knows this, too. Very truly yours,

 Dear Mr. Editor:

I have read a lot about two candidates on the Princess Anne Ticket, Heath and Malbon. I have read many statements and inferences as to their past records and their actions as individuals.

It is obvious to this writer and should be to anyone who has read as I have that these statements and facts, if true, would rule out these men as worthy candidates for any office.

The things that I have read about Heath and Malbon have not been denied or admitted by either of these men, and that makes it most difficult for a voter to consider casting his vote for men with this stigma and suspicion.

As a qualified voter and one who will be at the polls on July 12, I would like to prevail upon both Heath and Malbon to answer the questions that have been raised about them and to either admit or deny the things they have been charged with.

For instance, if Heath has really been convicted seven times, as I have read, or if he has ever been convicted of any law violations then he should admit it and at the same time withdraw from

Defense Coordinator Urges That Virginians Secure CD Ident Tags

State Civil Defense Coordinator J. H. Wyse this week urged all Virginians to secure their CD identification tags, which are now available to the public.

Wyse said his office already has received hundreds of requests for the tags, which were put on sale only a few days ago. Public response, he stated, has been "very encouraging."

The stainless steel, necklaced-type tag and chain which conform to federal CD specifications, can be obtained by sending the necessary information, along with 25 cents, to the Office of Civil Defense, Room 20, State Capitol, Richmond.

The tags, which are available to each man, woman and child in the state, would be invaluable in time of an accident or disaster, Wyse pointed out. He said requests received by his office will be processed as rapidly as possible.

Wyse also noted that with each 620 tags sold through the State CD Office, a tag imprinter for use in first aid stations, evacuation areas, etc., will be furnished local civil defense organizations. The 25 cent charge is necessary to cover the cost of preparing the tags.

Each request must be accompanied by the following information:

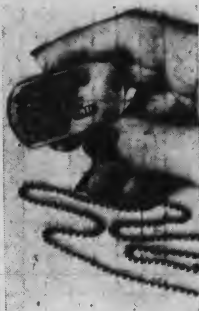

First line: Print your name plainly. Example: JOHN DOE. If full name contains more than 14 letters, use initial or abbreviation for first name.

Second line: Print name of person to be notified in an emergency. Example: JOHN DOE, SR.

Third line: Print street address or rural route number of person named in line two. Example: 145 MAIN STREET.

Fourth line: Print city and state of person named in second line. Example: NORFOLK, VA.

Fifth line: Print your birth date (month, day and year).

blood type (if available); and religious preference (P for Protestant, C for Catholic, J for Jewish, Y for all other religions). Example: 3-31-34, O, P.

FT. STORY TELLINGS

Eight DUKWs of the 461st Transportation Company helped salvage a ditched jet plane from the waters of Linkhorn Bay, near Fort Story, after its engine failed at 300 feet. The operation brought high praise from Comdr. Harold E. Vita, CO of Fighter Squadron 83 at Oceana Naval Air Station. Pilot of the PTJ-3 Cutlass, Lt. William E. Brewer, was unhurt after bringing the jet down in about 15 feet of water.

Story was host to 36 Naval Reserve chaplains who are attending a two-week seminar at the Norfolk Naval Base. Following luncheon at the Officers Club, the group visited the beach area where the round-the-clock exercise LOTIS SUMEC 1 was in progress with Lt. Col. James F. Wolaver, CO of the 5th Transportation Battalion, as Far Shore Commander. Briefing officer and guide for the visiting chaplains was First Lt. Joseph G. Farrell, Assistant S-3 of the 5th Battalion.

An award of merit from the American Red Cross goes to the 344th DUKW Company, a 5th T Battalion unit, for its showing in the 1955 fund campaign. The 344th, commanded by First Lt. Jack J. Schwartz, was the highest unit contributor at Fort Story, both in percentage per man and total contributions. A letter accompanying the Certificate of Merit read in part: "The effort put forth by the officers and men of the 344th to make this campaign successful... gives us the inspiration and desire to be of service to you at all times."

Latest Garrison review on the Post Parade Ground again had senior non-commissioned officers filling all command and staff positions. Reviewing officer was M/Sgt. Douglas C. Mahoney with a staff composed of M/Sgt. George W. Gurganus, M-Sgt. Jesse W. Beddingfield and SFC William L. Gies. Commander of Troops was M-Sgt. Albert Cato Jr. with a staff of M-Sgt. David J. Davies, M-Sgt. Raffaele Jagull and SFC Gene A. Ross. Commanding the 5th and 54th Transportation Battalions were, respectively, M-Sgt. Howard J. Baek and M-Sgt. Jesus R. Saenz.

Judged the best marching unit at the review was Headquarters Company, 5th Transportation Terminal Command B, which was commanded by its first sergeant, M-Sgt. Melvin J. Rush. Although no Fort Story officers took part in the review, it was the occasion for the post's deputy commander, Lt. Col. Frederick G. Ward, to present the Best Marching Unit streamer to the 344th DUKW Company of the 5th T Battalion. The 344th won the distinction at the last review.

Make a wonderfully tasty garnish for lamb or ham by stuffing sweet potatoes with mashed, seasoned sweet potatoes. Bake the potatoes around the roast from 30 to 40 minutes until the fruit is tender.

Add a dash of curry powder to beef gravy and heat left-over pieces of beef roast in it. Serve over a bed of rice which has been buttered and mixed with snips of parsley.

Deviled eggs au gratin are a tempting dish for luncheon or Sunday night supper. Devild the eggs in your favorite fashion, put in buttered casserole and cover with medium white sauce, grated American cheese and buttered crumbs. Heat through in a moderate oven.

Mixed green onions or scallions and parsley added to melted butter give a wonderful flavor to broiled chicken, steaks or chops. A good topping for broiled fish uses 1 cup mayonnaise, 3 tablespoons vinegar, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 2 teaspoons pickle relish and 1-2 cup chopped ripe olives. Broil a minute or two, until the topping is browned slightly.

Soil Conditioning Plant Begun By Firm At Resort

Virginia Beach is the home of a brand new industry which is being set up in an announcement by two men who have set up an outdoor soil conditioning plant in south Virginia Beach.

The product to be produced by this plant is a mixture to be used for revitalizing, soil and conditioning soil to a completely new fertile state.

Operators of the new company are Dr. William H. Eyster, Ph. D., and Albert E. Turner, Dr. Eyster is creator of the product, which has been eight years in development. Dr. Eyster is well known among devotees of the soil and is listed in "Who's Who in America."

He is a noted botanist and has a record all over the world. The product of the new company is at present without a brand name. The primary effect of the new product has on the soil is to improve its structure and thereby permit air and moisture to move freely about the plant roots.

The product is valuable as a plant food, but one of its most important functions seems to be to break down inactive soil compounds in such a manner that they become valuable sources of plant nutrients.

According to Dr. Eyster, developed soil can be greatly improved by working the product into the soil in a 10 to 15 lb. per acre rate. The product is used in developing and in the early stages of the plant.

It is believed that the product will prove popular not only on large, farm tracts but will be valuable in lawns, flower beds, gardens, lawns and golf greens.

Among the applicants three persons who, in his opinion, possess the financial ability, coupled with the greatest financial need.

PROSPECTS GOOD FOR TROUT FISHING

According to G. W. Fuller, of the Fish Division of the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries, recent inspections have revealed the cheering fact that the torrential rains in southwest Virginia a few weeks ago were not as destructive of trout as it was first feared.

When you buy insurance . . .

. . . buy from an agent . . .

. . . who will represent your interests whenever—and if ever—there is a difference of opinion between you and the insurance company.

When you buy insurance direct from an insurance company or from an employee of a company, you have no one to represent your interests. When you buy from this agency, it's our job to represent you. This factor alone may mean much to you financially.

GOD at home

God is everywhere! And yet we speak of a church as God's House.

Well, man is everywhere. His planes soar above the clouds, his mines tunnel through the earth, his rails span mountains and plains, his ships ply the seven seas.

And yet, every man cherishes the one place he calls home. He cherishes it not for its location or appearance, but for the love and companionship he has experienced there.

In similar spirit man has thought it no blasphemy to call each church the House of God. For He Who made man in His own image must feel the same compelling attraction for the scene of His communion with those He loves.

The greatest honor you can bestow on a friend is to invite him into your home. Each hour of worship God invites you into His.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

EVERYDAY RELIGION

COMPENSATION TO PAY PAUL

Compensation is a basic law. We are constantly giving up something to get something. We should not resent it therefore, when Christ makes our finding Him contingent on our losing other things. When Christ comes in it is only to be expected that other things must go.

In "Pilgrim's Progress" Christian is determined to seek his salvation, cost what it may. As he starts his quest his wife and children follow him, pleading with him not to leave them behind. But Christian thrusts his fingers in his ears and runs from them crying, "Life, Life, Eternal Life!" The story offends our conventional mentality, but it is soundly based in the Gospel. Christ demands not part of what one has, but all.

The Principle at Work

The soundness of this principle is repeatedly demonstrated. One cannot be a polygamist, officially or unofficially, and expect to enjoy the wonders and privileges of home. What is shared with many cannot really be given to any. The married couple give up others in order that they may have each other. If you have children you give up a measure of your freedom and your leisure for the sake of the greater joy.

Internationally, a process something like this has been going on. We've been giving up some of the prerogatives of absolute sovereignty for the sake of alliances in a world where even the greatest power dare not go it alone. We need allies just as much as they need us. But if we are to have them we must give them some consideration.

We need at Virginia Beach people who are willing to give up a little something for the sake of the community. If you're been sent here and don't like it, you should be realistic. You are here, so you are here. Don't whine; put something into the place. Give up the luxury of complaint for the satisfaction of making the community better.

Too Much Is Too Much

The principle of compensation, like any other principle, can be abused. The German people gave up butter for guns. They ended up without either butter or guns. The Communists are arising just to give up freedom for bread. If precedent can be trusted, those who attempt this tour de force will end up without freedom or bread, either one.

We are justified in sacrificing for the sake of security. But here again, too much can be given away. Slavery is too great a price to pay for security. Men have given up being men in order to survive as slaves. Might it not have been better that they perished as men?

This Above All

There is one thing of supreme worth, one thing that man must have above all. This is a sense of meaning and purpose. It is not enough to fill the stomach, or to make life outwardly secure. We must live for something great. That something must be greater than all men and worthy of all men. Man cannot live by bread alone. He must live by a word of God.

To what end is it all? A man goes to work early. He works long, hard hours — perhaps ten or twelve of them each day. For he is an executive and there is no union to set merciful limits to his industry. He drives grimly ahead. But in an unguarded moment a nasty question breaks through — Why? "For the family," he mutters. But why the family? What is it all for? "It is all for me," Christ replies. "For my sake and the gospel's." Of course He means by that His whole redemptive mission — how He came from the Father and revealed the Father's intention to seek and save the lost. To lose oneself in that — to give oneself to that — this is what He means. And He pushes it to the limit.

STORIES OF BEST-LOVED HYMNS

AMAZING GRACE

Most Christians who sing "Amazing grace, how sweet the sound, that saved a wretch like me," don't feel like wretches at all. But the author of the hymn, John Newton, did. And if ever there was a wretch who was miraculously saved by the grace of God, it was the man who penned those autobiographical lines.

London-born John Newton, only child of a respectable sea-captain father, was early dedicated to the Christian ministry by his devout, consumptive mother. His religious training began almost at once, and, by the time he was four, he could recite passages from the Westminster Catechism and the children's hymns of Isaac Watts. At eleven he was sailing the Mediterranean with his father, but at seventeen he laid aside every religious principle and abandoned himself to the service of the devil. Only his love for Mary Callett, with whom he fell in love in 1742 but did not marry until 1750, kept a few sparks of decency aglow within his heart.

He deserted his ship, was captured and brought back like a common felon. So severe was his punishment that he plotted suicide. His great love for Mary being the restraining influence that preserved his life. After his imprisonment, he embarked on a career of such wickedness that his friends despaired of his sanity.

Living for a time among the cruel slaves of Sierra Leone, he was mistreated by his Portuguese master's black wife. Of these days he said, "Had you seen me go so pensive and solitary in the dead

Houses and lands, prestige and power, brothers and sisters, mother and father, wife and children — all must be thrown in. We are pushed to the edge, then required to jump off. Life itself must be included. Then, having given up all for Him, he winds that we have all.

of night to wash my one shirt upon the rocks and afterward to put it on wet that it might dry on my back while I slept; had you seen me so poor a figure that when a ship's boat came to the island, shame often constrained me to hide myself in the woods from the sight of strangers; had you known that my conduct, principles and heart were still darker than my outward condition — how little would you have imagined that such a one was reserved to be so peculiar an instance of the providential care and exuberant goodness of God."

Later he added, "The only good desire I had left was to get back to England and Mary Mary."

Thought He Was "Jonest"

After further humiliation and suffering, he boarded a vessel for England, spending several quiet days at sea reading "Imitation of Christ." When a violent storm arose, he regarded himself as the Jonah who was the cause and blamed his wicked life for the raging wind and mountainous seas that threatened to engulf the vessel. Suddenly a storm as violent as nature's broke over his soul. With awakened conscience he regarded that day, March 10, 1748, as his "spiritual birthday."

"I cried to the Lord with a cry like that of the ravens which yet the Lord does not disdain to hear," he said. "And I remembered Jesus whom I had so often derided."

But the change that took place was only the reformation of an unconverted man. During the next six years he made several voyages as captain of his own ship, even carrying cargoes of slaves on some occasions. Not until he reached Liverpool in August, 1754, did he consider himself a regenerated Christian. But even then he did not feel the call to the ministry to which his godly mother had so early set him apart.

Appointed Minister

Gradually he came to concentrate everything to Christ, in the hope that he might be deemed worthy of being called into His service. After two miraculous escapes from death, and several years of hard study and training, he was appointed a minister of the Church of England on December 16, 1758. Six years later he went to Olney, where he was ordained a deacon, and priest. His fellowship with William Cowper resulted in the publication of their "Olney Hymns." Number forty-one, of Book I contained Newton's life story in this form: "Amazing grace, how sweet the sound."

That saved a wretch like me; I once was lost but now am found.

Was blind but now I see. 'Twas grace that taught my heart to fear,

And grace my fears relieved; How precious did that grace appear,

The hour I first believed. Through many dangers, toils and snares,

I have already come; 'Tis grace hath brought me safe thus far.

And grace will lead me home. He made his last move in 1779, going to serve two churches in London. There he labored faithfully until his death, December 21, 1807, at the age of 59. His epitaph, which he wrote himself, reads as follows:

JOHN NEWTON, Clerk, once an infidel and Eberline, was, by the rich mercy of our Lord and Saviour, JESUS CHRIST, preserved, restored, pardoned and appointed to preach the faith he had long labored to destroy; may continue years at Olney in England and twenty-eight years in this Church.

Later he added, "And I earnestly desire that no other monument, and no inscription put to this purpose, may be attempted for me."

An Intermediate Fellowship will begin its activities at the Virginia Beach Methodist Church on Sunday evening, April 24, according to an announcement by the pastor, the Rev. C. Stanley Leavelle. Counselors for the group will be Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Owens, members of the church. The Intermediate Fellowship will plan its program for fifth, sixth and seventh grade children. Worship will be held in cooperation with the Senior M.Y.F. with the group having its own study and recreation programs to follow.

"We feel that this program for intermediates will substantially strengthen our work at the Methodist Church," the Rev. M. L. Leavelle stated. "We are developing, step by step, a complete youth program at the church, and this is a most important step. The first step will be a group for Young Adult Singles, plans for which are now being formulated." Assisting actively in the formation of the Intermediate Fellowship were Roy Jackson, chairman of the church's Commission on Education, and Aubrey Holmes, church school superintendent.

Governor Urges More Planting Of Pulpwood

Governor Thomas B. Stanley has issued a statement endorsing this week, April 18 - 23, as "Grow Pulpwood Week" in Virginia. The commonwealth is one of the leading pulpwood producers of the nation. "This record cannot be maintained unless we learn to manage our forest land wisely," said State Forester Dean.

"The people of Virginia cooperated 100 per cent with the tree planting program this past winter," remarked Dean. "Over 14 million seedlings were distributed from the Virginia Forest Service nurseries for planting during the 1954-55 planting season. In the not too distant future some of these seedlings will be large enough to be cut for pulpwood, while others will be left for sawtimber. Governor Stanley's statement endorsing "Grow Pulpwood Week" is of importance to everyone—be he butcher, baker, merchant, farmer or professional man, the State Forester said.

"LE-STAR GAME NETS $259,344.61

The All-Star baseball game in Cleveland last summer netted a new high of $259,344.61 in net receipts. Gross receipts were $292,678. Other new records at the All-Star game included: 31 hits by both teams; 17 hits by the American League; 20 runs by both teams; 13 pitchers used by the American League. The game marked the American circuit's 13th All-Star success. The Nationals have won 8.

Better Law Enforcement Credited With Decrease in Traffic Deaths

Virginia completed the first three months of 1956 with 26 less traffic deaths than for the comparable period of 1955, Colonel C. W. Woodson, Jr., superintendent of State Police and chairman of the Governor's Highway Safety Committee, announces.

Despite the fact that traffic volumes were up some three per cent, the drop in fatalities continued a favorable trend which began in 1952 when the 1951 toll of 999 was bettered to the extent of 900. In 1953, deaths were 994 and last year they fell to 910. For 1955's first quarter, pedestrian deaths were 29 as compared to 34 for the same period and deaths of service men fell from 23 to 2.

However, Colonel Woodson revealed that much ground was lost during the latter part of March, as on the 18th of the month the reduction stood at 42, with pedestrian deaths for the entire month rising from the 8 of March to 13. He pointed out further that State Police arrests for traffic offenses were up approximately 7.7 per cent for the period and said he was of the belief that this was due to increased trooper personnel, radar (which did not come into use until July, 1954), and increased traffic volumes.

"As much as we deplore the necessity of citing increased arrests and punishments," Colonel Woodson said, "your State Police are going to continue their policy of firm, impartial enforcement, using every means at their disposal, with the hope of eliminating the habitually reckless driver and discouraging those who violate occasionally from carelessness or justification. Yet the optimum is always to secure voluntary compliance with our laws through improved public attitude and a realization of the sheer uselessness of the waste and suffering caused by improper driving and walking."

HOW TO TURN $5 INTO FIVE THOUSAND

Oceana PTA Plans To Hold Father's Night

The meeting to be held on the night of Tuesday, April 26, at 8 o'clock by the Oceana Parent-Teacher Association in the Oceana School auditorium should be of interest to every parent.

The program will open with a group of Girl and Boy Scouts showing their organizations' programs in action. Commander E. A. Bonner, chaplain at the Oceana Naval Air Station, will lead the devotionals.

"What's wrong with comic books?" "What's wrong with some of our TV programs?" "If something is wrong, how can it be improved?" "What worthwhile opportunities do our youth organizations offer and how are they helping to protect our children?" These and other vital questions will be discussed at the meeting by a distinguished panel composed of fathers and citizens.

Moderator of the panel discussion will be F. M. Williams, Jr., member of the PTA. Panel members will be Joel Carlson, public relations director of WTAR-TV; Boyd Harrier, public service director of WTAR-TV; John Letcher, associate juvenile court judge of Princess Anne County and treasurer of the Princess Anne Youth Bureau; Dick Cockrell, county agent of services to needy victims.

ANGELUS, SOLD FOR $2500 BY ARTIST, NOW PRICELESS

Jean Francois Millet, the artist, sold "The Angelus" for $250. Shortly afterward the picture changed hands several times, and reached a price of $7,500. After Millet's death, says Malcolm Vaughan in the current Reader's Digest, this famous work brought $160,000 and might have gone higher, except that the last purchaser took it off the market by giving it to the Louvre.

In the same issue, Leslie A. Miller states that despite fears of those who believe in the Malthusian theory, American farmers have learned to grow far more food than we can consume. Miller says that the government now owns or holds in stock $6 billion worth of surplus farm products. The storage bill is $790,000 a day.

Princess Anne Tour Will Take Visitors Back to Days of "Once-Upon-a-Time" in Colonial History; Plus Modern Days

OLD CHURCHES FEATURE OF GARDEN TOUR IN COUNTY

By Katherine Fontaine Syer

"Once upon a time" seems the proper way to begin the story of Princess Anne County. Three hundred and forty-eight years ago the story starts with the landing at Cape Henry of the Englishmen who were to establish themselves at Jamestown.

In 1639 there are two references to a Parish Church in the records of our county. This church was at Church Point, near Bayville Farm, and according to legend, was abandoned when the Lynnhaven River mouth was altered and the water level rose. OLD DONATION CHURCH was built in 1736 and is a beautiful Colonial church, which has a large modern congregation. The Rev. Beverly D. Tucker, Jr., is their rector.

EASTERN SHORE CHAPEL was built as a Chapel of Ease before 1689. Here the service could be heard on Sunday and Saints' Days by the people on the eastern shore of the Lynnhaven River. In those days the people were obliged to go to church by law, and were fined for absence. This church made attendance easier for the people on the fast-developing eastern side of Lynnhaven River. Eastern Shore Chapel has been re-built recently on Laskin Road, because of the enlargement of the Oceana Air Base. The Rev. Henry C. Barton is rector of this fast-growing congregation.

One the western side of the river on the Glebe land of Lynnhaven Parish the first colonial court was held in 1637. Today this land is called SEA BREEZE FARM, and has been made into a fairyland of gardens by the Misses Hill. Leading nurserymen of the United States have recognized the horticultural pre-eminence of the Misses Hill by the award of many gold and silver medals for their exhibits in the New York flower shows.

Also on the western side of the river is the THOROWGOOD HOUSE. The Thorowgoods were people whose personalities and sense of values seem very real to us today. This house is a majestic memorial to the builders and craftsmen of three hundred years ago. The proportions of this home are so classic it has been copied by builders all over the United States.

Across the river, on the eastern shore of the Lynnhaven River,

ADAM KEELING built his house. The Flemish bond is used throughout and in the end of the house is laid a pattern to form an inverted chevron design. Master craftsmen built this house, for it stands today with few signs of the wear of three centuries. It has been lived in constantly. Adam's father, Thomas, is thought to have been one of the settlers brought from England by the first Adam Thorowgood. Adam Keeling was god-son to this Adam Thorowgood. We can easily imagine the families being friends and sharing the pleasures and responsibilities of life in a very new world.

These old houses, with their age and serenity and strength can give us perspective of our own time that is reassuring.

One of the principal projects of the Princess Anne Garden Club is the WILDFLOWER PRESERVE—a natural garden on a part of the 5000-acre crown grant to Anthony Lawson, who was another important person in 17th century Virginia. The ladies of the Conservation Committee of the Princess Anne Garden Club will guide visitors through the Preserve and will have a collection of pressed wild flowers as well as the latest wildflower books to show.

This is the tour which the Princess Anne Garden Club is sponsoring during Historic Garden Week. A fifty cent admission charge at Sea Breeze Farm and the Thorowgood and Keeling houses will be used by the Garden Club of Virginia to further restore the garden of Woodlawn Plantation, which was a wedding present from George Washington to his adopted daughter, Nelly Custis. On April 24th the hours will be from 2 o'clock until five-thirty, and on April 25th from ten o'clock in the morning until five-thirty in the afternoon.

On Sunday, April 24th, the Old Donation Auxiliary is serving tea in the afternoon, and on Monday they are serving lunch for the visitors on the Historic Garden Week Tour.

Eastern Shore Chapel Auxiliary is serving lunch on Monday, April 25, for the Princess Anne Garden Club Tour, and on Tuesday, April 26, lunch will be served for visitors on the Virginia Beach Garden Club tour.

Details To Watch Out For On Your Virginia Beach Tour

By K. Doughtie Sewell

Here are some particularly interesting features to keep your weather eye open for on your journey through the eight homes and gardens to be open on the Virginia Beach Tour, Tuesday, April 26.

LOOK OUT FOR . . .
The exquisite craftsman hip in the silver service in the CLARK HOUSE dining room. Those elaborate whorls and garlands have a history . . . this service won first Prize in the Paris Exposition.

The side table on top of which this silver service rests. Originally an old rosewood spinet, the Clarks first converted it into a desk before it became the interesting side table it now is.

The Clark chairs . . . Duncan Thorne in the dining room, the Queen Anne walnut in the living room.

At the MAY HOUSE, the old Chinese copper handwarmer. "The principle was," says Mrs. May, "first to warm your hands, then your feet."

On the mantel of the living room in the McNEAL HOUSE, the model of an old New England whaler . . . a sea-going man made it.

Two superb chandeliers, both with the original Waterford glass, both of finely-worked silver . . . one is in the dining room in PINE HILL, home of the Watters, the other in the GIFFORD penthouse.

Keep Evil Spirits Out
The pair of Chinese Wu dogs on either side of the steps leading from the WUNDER HOUSE entrance hall into the living room. "Wu dogs are meant to keep evil spirits out," says Mrs. Wunder.

The Ming tree on the chest in PINE HILL's living room . . . also the russet lamp, converted by the Watters from one of a pair of Ming Dynasty vases.

The vase from King Tut's tomb, tucked away in the corner cupboard on the sun porch of the GIFFORD penthouse.

The old clock hanging on the wall nearby the cupboard . . . a very tall clock with a little mouse on it which at one o'clock "rings down."

The Shearson huntboard and the white chairs in the GIFFORD dining room.

And at the COOTES HOUSE many interesting features. Chinese wall panels in the living room . . . a really gigantic lamp with a straw shade . . . the lamp base is a huge green wine jar picked up in Italy; it must have shed gallons; and the shade is made from the straw it came wrapped in.

Look out for the bamboo sconces on some of the walls . . . and the interesting ruse made of square of charcoal hemp . . . an ultra-modern house for casual, care-free living.

And To Remind You . . .
Admiral and Mrs. David H. Clark's house is in Bay Colony, on Bay Shore Drive. Mr. and Mrs. Peyton May's, Mr. and Mrs. Karl A. Wunder and J. Ross McNeal live in Birdneck Point.

"Amphibious" Bachelor Apartment

One of the most fascinating houses on the Virginia Beach Tour Tuesday, April 26, is the bachelor establishment of J. Ross McNeal in Birdneck Point. A pure Bermuda-style house, its rear set plumb on Linnhorn Bay, it has an "amphibious" quality, in more than a yacht than a house. Here, Mrs. Hampton Sewell and her host, J. Ross McNeal, are served afternoon tea by his butler, Horace, while making arrangements for Tuesday's tour.

Board of Directors Organized For State Beef Cattle Program

The initial "BCIA" may not mean much to most farmers these days. But there's a group of men who hope that some day soon they will be familiar to every beef cattle producer.

For those not yet in the know, BCIA stands for Beef Cattle Improvement Association. The association is now full-fledged, with a board of directors, and ready to go full speed ahead with Virginia's beef cattle "record of performance program."

It is believed to be the first such organization formed in the United States.

The record of performance program has been in existence on a limited scale in Virginia for two years, and cooperating breeders find it is proving a profitable measure to total production and quality of production for each sire and dam in the beef herds. The program provides a sound basis for selecting good producers and culling losers.

In brief, it points the way to cheaper, quicker and better beef production. Someday, it is hoped, it will mean as much to the beef cattle producer as dairy herd improvement associations have meant to the dairymen.

All breeds are now included in the steadily expanding program. Interested cattlemen should contact the County Agent's Office here at Princess Anne.

Officers of the association's board of directors are: W. L. Clover, Charlottesville, chairman; A. W. Frame, Waynesboro; James A. Tison, Lexington; A. K. Randolph, Keene; Fred W. Scott, North Garden; Ralph H. Matteson, Hume; D. W. Mason, Pearisburg; and Curtis Mast, animal husbandman at VPI.

Clover and Frame represent the Virginia Aberdeen-Angus Association; Tison, Randolph and Scott, the Virginia Beef Cattle Producers Association; Matteson and Mason, the Virginia Hereford Breeders Association. A member will be selected by the Shorthorn Breeders Association.

Among the policies set forth by the board are these:

- 1—Any bull entered by a breeder in the program must include the enrollment of all his calves.
- 2—Farm identities will be kept secret in the annual reports of the program.
- 3—A list of the top ten per cent of the bulls for each breed, based on the index values of their calves, will be made available to BCIA members.

Herds which are creep fed and where nurse cows are used will be listed in a separate group from those herds in which no creep-feeding and no nurse cows are used.

Night Pastures Important, Too

Cattle graze heavily after each milking — which means night pastures are as important as day pastures.

This fact is pointed up in research at VPI Agricultural Experiment Station, where observations were made during certain days in July, August, and September for 2- to 10-rotational grazing systems. The percent of all cows grazing hit a high peak immediately after both the morning and night milkings.

For steers the heaviest grazing periods occurred from 4 to 8 a. m. and from 6 to 8 p. m. They grazed only lightly during mid-day, and very little after dark.

Hormone Implants In Lambs Tested

The effects of implants of pellets containing estrone (female sex hormone) on growth rates and carcass quality of suckling lambs on grass will be studied this summer at the VPI Agricultural Experiment Station.

The use of similar hormone pellets in weaned lambs fed in the dry lot has been found by several experiment stations in the Midwest to increase the rate and efficiency of gain, but to distinctly lower quality of the carcasses.

Very little information is available on the effects of such treatment on suckling lambs.

The present VPI test is designed to measure the value of two kinds of hormone pellets, implanted at 35 pounds and at 50 pounds, on the growth rates, carcass quality and profits from spring lambs.

Currently, the researchers say, there is not enough information available to make recommendation of the use of the implants by Virginia sheepmen.

The tests will be conducted by W. S. Wilkinson, J. S. Copenhaver and R. C. Carter.

New Lawn Grasses Adapted to Area

A. G. Smith, Jr., associate horticulturist at VPI, notes that Japanese lawn grass (Zoysia) is being planted in many sections of Virginia. Its creeping habit and resistance to heat and drought are qualities which should extend its use. Zoysia may be mowed close to the ground without killing the roots.

Some of its disadvantages are: (1) Initial cost of planting plugs or sprigs. (2) Brown color during cold weather. (3) Coarseness of stubble when cut close.

Three varieties of zoysia are being tested in the VPI lawn plots, and at Warsaw. Present indications are that zoysia matrella is the best type for Virginia.

Bermuda U-3 is one of the new types of wire grass which may find wide use on playgrounds, on athletic fields and on lawns. It may be started with plugs.

Seed may be available after a few years. Like common Bermuda grass, the new varieties require perfect soil drainage, high fertility and sunlight. Bermuda is brown in winter. However, it may be used with bluegrass and other grasses. The Bermuda will provide summer grass in hot weather while the bluegrass will grow best when it is cloudy and cool.

Where a quick cover is needed on the lawn or playground, seeds of such grasses as rye grass and red top should be added to the mixture. Rye grass makes a very coarse cover and tends to develop mats. Its use should be limited to steep banks and to athletic fields for quick use. Red top may be used with bluegrass and other grasses. Red top seed may germinate in a week and provide cover before the other grasses come up. The texture and color of red top is pleasing and does not detract from the appearance of the permanent grasses.

Late summer to early fall is the best season to sow lawn grass seed but if the planting must be made in spring there are several ways of meeting the problem. Temporary grasses may be used until fall; the area might be covered with legumes during the summer, or a very heavy seeding of both temporary and permanent grasses could be used to crowd out the summer weed crop. Write for the VPI Lawn Bulletin or see this office if you need help in the matter of lawn cover.

Soap and Water Suggested for Stain Removal

Scap and water alone remove many common stains from washable materials, if tackled while fresh. Some stains need a two-part treatment — loosening and laundering. Here are detailed directions:

Blood: Soak or rub in cold water, then wash in soapsuds. If stain persists, soak washables, then re-laundry promptly.

Chocolate or Cocoa: Wash in warm soapsuds. If brown stains remain, treat with hydrogen peroxide and re-laundry promptly.

Cod liver oil: Sponge with glycerine or carbon tetrachloride. Launder.

Coffee or tea: Four boiling water from a 3-foot height through stained fabric stretched taut over a bowl, then launder.

Egg: Scrape off excess, soak in cool water, then wash in warm soapsuds.

Fruit and berry: Rub with glycerine, then treat like coffee.

Grass: Rub in hot soapsuds; if necessary use a bleaching solution and re-laundry.

Grease, oil and tar: Pure fats and oils usually come out in soapy water. For tar-like or heavy grease, rub spots with lard, then wash in very hot soapsuds.

Ice cream: Sponge with cool water, then wash in hot soapsuds.

Iodine: If fresh, launder in warm soapsuds. If set, moisten and dry in sunlight. Or apply a paste of starch and allow to dry. Brush it off and launder.

Lipstick and rouge: Soften with glycerine and launder in hot soapsuds.

Meat juices: Soak in cool water, then wash in hot soapsuds.

Milk or cream: Soak in cool water, then wash in hot soapsuds.

Paint: If fresh, use lots of hot soapsuds. If not, apply turpentine, kerosene or lard, and wash in hot suds.

Scotch: If light, launder in hot suds; if deep, rub with soap and

370 Marine Reservists Will Gain Promotion

Almost 400 residents of Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, the District of Columbia and Kentucky will be rewarded for their interest in the nation's defense program.

Marine Colonel John R. Langgan, director of the 5th Marine Corps Reserve and Recruiting District, announces the promotion of 370 Marine reservists who live in this area. They will be informed officially of their advancement this week.

The promotions are unique in that none of whom participate in or receive pay. Affiliation with the Marine Corps is mainly through correspondence course membership in voluntary training units.

Colonel Langgan said that the men in Princess Anne County included Sgt. Wayne L. Morris of Box 280, Route 1, Bayside, and Cpl. Kenneth R. Melson of Ocean.

Few businesses are more at the mercy of chance than farming. That's why it's so good for the farm family to have a reserve in U. S. Savings Bonds.

By MRS. ELIZABETH D. DEAL, Home Demonstration Agent

DEMONSTRATION MEETINGS SCHEDULED

This spring's schedule of district meetings of the Virginia Federation of Home Demonstration Clubs has been announced by Miss Maude E. Wallace, assistant director of the VPI Agricultural Extension Service.

They are being held as part of Virginia's observance of National Home Demonstration Week, May 1 - 7, although all of the meetings do not fall within that time. One meeting was held last Thursday in Manchester, Chesterfield County, and another yesterday in Luray. A meeting is being held today at Staunton, and others are scheduled as follows: Arlington, April 26; Halifax, April 27; Franklin, Narrows and Bowling Green, April 28; Abingdon, April 29; Rocky Mount and Tappahannock, May 5, and Farmville, May 11.

Miss Wallace was the principal speaker at Staunton and Luray, and will be again at Arlington, Miss Iris Davenport, Nashville, Tenn., home editor, Farm and Ranch Magazine, will speak at Narrows and Abingdon, as will Mrs. F. P. Carr, Appomattox, Federation president.

At Rocky Mount, guest speakers will be Parke C. Brinkley, commissioner of agriculture, Richmond, and Jack Thomas, Brunswick, International Farm Youth Exchange delegate recently returned from Ecuador. Also to appear are Mrs. Malcolm Peck, Pinecastle, who will accept the district's "Pennies for Friendship," and Mrs. J. T. Lucas, Christiansburg, vice president of the Federation.

Miss Mena Hogan, southern states field agent, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., will speak at Tappahannock; and Mrs. Theodore Adams, wife of Dr. Adams, minister of the First Baptist Church, Richmond, will speak at Bowling Green.

On several of the programs, county goal chairman and presidents are scheduled to appear. Complete programs are not yet available.

CHILLED ORANGE JUICE

Juice pressed from oranges in Florida, shipped rapidly to northern cities under refrigeration and sold in quart paper cartons has had considerable success this past winter. A million boxes of oranges have been marketed this way from the time the Florida orange season started last fall to March of this year. That is enough to make 4 to 5 million gallons of juice (single strength).

This "chilled" (not frozen) juice generally is marketed in fresh dairy products, either in refrigerated cases at food stores or delivered to homes by the milkman. It follows the current trend toward time and labor-saving food products, needing only to be poured from the carton for use. Some processors ship the juice in cartons; others ship in refrigerated tanks for distributors to put into cartons.

Processors in California have prepared juice this way on order for hotels and restaurants for years, and in Florida it has been prepared for local sale. But last year was the first time it was tried out for long distance shipment. This past season's reception by consumers in many of the larger northern cities has added interest to its possibilities.

YOUR OWN SAUSAGE?

Making sausage is one of the old-time arts of farm homemakers. But it may be a surprise to modern city and suburban wives to know that they may easily make up a small batch of fresh sausage as a treat to their families now while pork is so plentiful and generally such a good buy. Make up a pound, for example, on a Saturday for Sunday breakfast. Equipment needed is only a sharp trimming knife and a food chopper.

Individual tastes in sausage seasonings differ greatly. Some people may like two or three times as much seasoning as others. Some like more of one seasoning and less of another. So it pays to start with a small batch, see how the recipe suits the family, then adjust the seasoning in the next batch as desired. Here's how:

Buy a rib-end pork loin roast—a cut that has about the right proportion of fat and lean for good sausage. (Generally, this is about one-third fat and two-thirds lean.) Trim the meat from the bone except for the leanest portion which may be saved for pork chops if desired. Cut the meat in pieces small enough to go into the food chopper conveniently and then weigh it. If you like high seasoning, here's a mixture for one pound of meat: Mix thoroughly 2 1/2 teaspoons salt, 3/4 teaspoon black pepper, 2 1/2 teaspoons rubbed sage, 1-2 teaspoon sugar. For milder seasoning, use half this mixture. Some people like to add a little clove, nutmeg or mace. One caution in varying seasonings: Never taste raw sausage. Wait until thoroughly cooked.

Mix meat and seasonings well. Put through the food chopper

4-H Club Dairy Winners Will be Given Awards

Top ranking 4-Hers among the 135,000 taking part in the 4-H dairy project will receive recognition in the 1955 national 4-H dairy award program.

A new national 4-H awards donor, the Larro Sure Feed Division of General Mills, will provide the awards on the county, state and national levels. State winners will receive a trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago next fall, and six national winners will be presented $300 college scholarships each. Medals will be made available to the four top members in each county.

In Virginia, some 22,000 club members are enrolled in dairy projects. They work with their own animals, feeding and caring for them while learning modern dairy production methods. They take part in demonstrations, in judging, tours, exhibits, public speaking, and other related activities which give them a better understanding of the dairy industry.

Often, 4-H club participation has led to profitable father-son partnerships in the family farming operation, and many of today's successful dairymen got a start with 4-H dairy projects.

Twice, using the medium-fine blade, cover and let stand in the refrigerator over night for the seasonings and meat to "blend" form into patties.

To cook, place patties in a cold fry pan with no added fat and cook over low heat until thoroughly done so that the meat has no trace of pinkish color.

Multiple Sclerosis Society Active In Searching Out, Aiding Victims

No organized program for the seeking out and aiding of Tidewater victims of multiple sclerosis was known prior to April, 1954, when the Tidewater Multiple Sclerosis Society was formed.

The society was formed by a relatively small group of people, who take pride in the rapid expansion of their program, and point to the progress made in aiding patients who are suffering from this thus-far incurable disease.

At mid-1953, only 27 patients were known in the Tidewater area. As of today the society has a patient list of 75 and is sure that there is an equal number of patients not listed by the group. A program to aid these patients has been underway since the inception of the Tidewater society, which is affiliated with the National Multiple Sclerosis Society, of which Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower is honorary chairman.

At present 31 patients are receiving various kinds of treatment and 17 more are scheduled to begin treatment this year.

More than 50 examinations and follow-up by the chapter medical team have been made, and twelve doctors are on the medical advisory board. Seven of these doctors now serve on the medical evaluation team.

The medical program is being carried forward at Norfolk General Hospital and DePaul Hospital in Norfolk, at Maryview Hospital in Portsmouth, and at Riverdale Hospital in Newport News. There is a home physio-therapy program for in-patients. Occupational therapy is being used. Speech therapy to those needing it.

Since the Tidewater society was founded, much equipment has been supplied to benefit MS patients. These include respirators, wheel chairs, relaxation chairs, portable therapy tables, crutches, parallel bars, various drugs and medicines.

Goal Set at $12,500

Very important progress was made in the educational field which has enabled the society to keep Tidewater physicians supplied with current MS medical literature and information. This has been of great benefit to MS patients and their families.

In addition to all this, the society devoted $4,000 to research last year and plan to set aside $5,000 for research this year. The Tidewater goal is $12,500 and contributions should be addressed to:

More Abundant Homes Wanted By Most Americans, Editor Says

Americans, whose daily life is becoming, are not going to want to live in tiny box houses, Miss Mervin Gordon, editor of House Beautiful, told leading national lumbermen recently in a Washington address.

The minimum house has been made, artificially, the hero of the past decade, Miss Gordon declared, and this is contrary to the actual needs and tastes of potential home buyers.

Abundant, not minimum, living, she said, is the American philosophy. The expanding American market means an expanding American home and, this does not apply only to size.

Americans want graceful living, she observed, consistent with their productive labor. There has been almost unbelievable upsurge in spiritual, cultural and physical progress, she said, but housing patterns have not kept pace.

Miss Gordon urged wider use of wood in home building to escape from the box concept of design. The American style house uses the wood structure itself to endow the building with pattern and design.

Designers today are rediscovering the beauty, texture, grain and characteristics of such popular lumber as Douglas fir and western red cedar for exterior finish and both of these plus west coast hemlock for exteriors and interiors that are different.

TIPS ON SAVING CASH FOR HOME BUILDERS

Question: How can I reduce the cost of my new home without sacrificing quality?

Answer: You can save several hundred dollars alone by using the right grade of lumber for each construction use. Study of No. 3 Douglas fir or west coast hemlock are more than strong enough for one-story homes. It is useless to insist on clear lumber when appearance is not the purpose, only stiffness and strength. Lower grades are adequate for sheathing, roofing and sub-floors. For years the American people have used better grades of lumber than actually needed.

Money may not be everything, but try doing without it! There's nothing like regular saving in U. S. Saving Bonds to keep your future comfortable.

Outdoors Moves Into Modern Living Room

Nature, like a 20th century gypsy, is on the move. And her ultimate destination is your living room and your home itself, say housing authorities.

Moving nature into the home, says Mrs. Elsie Doty Sopp, A. I. D. home decorating authority, is just another expression of man's attraction for the outdoors and his affinity with nature.

"The large glass windows in today's homes," Mrs. Sopp observes, "bring the living, green, natural outdoors right into your home. What then is easier to live with than the lush colors and interesting surfaces of nature? Wood walls, floors and furniture mate instinctively with the garden separated only by a glass partition, and stone and brick give striking dimensional effects as natural as any native scene. All this makes decorating schemes easy and practically limitless for any room in the home."

To create this needed support between outdoors and home interior, Mrs. Sopp recommends careful selection of basic materials for the large color areas—walls and floors—with heavy emphasis on wood.

GAME COMMISSION LAUDS WATER CONTROL BOARD

I. T. Quinn, executive director of the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries, has addressed a letter to the State Water Control Board expressing the commission's appreciation for the action taken during the past week in regard to the waters of a segment of the James River immediately below Boshers' Dam.

Quinn states that this section of the James is one of the finest smallmouth bass waters in the state.

Sight-Seers Set Record at Ford Plant

With production humming at an all-time high, the Norfolk Ford assembly plant is currently setting another record—this time for sight-seers who want to watch Ford cars and trucks being built.

On a recent week 271 persons toured the Norfolk facility, G. L. Lemone, plant manager, said. It was the most visitors on routine plant tours for any week since the plant opened in 1925.

Last year, 2565 visitors toured the plant. Regular trips through the huge factory are conducted at 9:30 a. m. and 1:30 p. m. daily, Monday through Friday.

Mr. Lemone said that school children, civic groups and clubs from a wide area in Virginia and North Carolina are visiting the plant. Tourists also include military personnel and passengers or crew members from many foreign ships in port at Norfolk.

Visitors are given an escorted tour along the many build-up lines which feed into the final assembly lines. They watch a car or truck emerge every 90 seconds from a maze of parts and accessories.

What seems to impress them most is the "kl-autograph" system which routes wheels to the exact point on the final line where they will be attached to a Ford of the same color and style.

The Norfolk plant is the only automobile assembly operation in Virginia, and employs 1,750 people.

Housing, Home Finance Agency Plans to Spend $98,000,000

Very little has been published about it, but the Eisenhower administration has set up a huge lending agency under an amendment to the Housing Act of 1949, public law 560, passed by the 83rd Congress last year.

The act contemplates the spending of approximately 98 billion dollars during the next ten years for the rehabilitation of cities, and a new administration within the Housing and Home Finance Agency has been set up. It's called the Urban Renewal Administration under the direction of James W. Pollin, a long time official of the Federal Housing Administration, designated as commissioner.

The original act provided for lending authority of a billion dollars, plus some 4500 millions for capital grants for slum clearance and urban rehabilitation, and the

Vets May Make Extra Payments On GI Mortgages

Veterans having GI loans on their homes, farms or businesses can make extra payments to the lenders at any time, or can pay off the entire loan without a penalty charge, Veterans Administration has announced in response to numerous inquiries.

The minimum extra payment a veteran may make on his VA loan is at least the amount of one month's payment, or a flat $100.

If a veteran who makes extra payments in accordance with this provision wishes to, he may have the extra principal re-applied later to regular payments, provided the lender agrees. The purpose of this arrangement would be to prevent the loan going by default at some future time, should the veteran later become hard pressed for money to meet future struction over a ten year period, and about $60 billion for school construction, all outside the budget. These, plus the ordinary expenses of the government, including defense, would amount to more than the national debt, now approximately $236 billion, and expected to go higher.

Private automobile ownership has risen phenomenally during the last ten years, with 15.5 million more cars on the road in 1953 than in 1941. Approximately two-thirds of all American families own at least one car, and 8 per cent own two or more.

U. S. DEFENSES STRENGTHENED

The budget allowed the Defense Department for the fiscal year beginning July 1 last year of 29.5 billion dollars was 5 billion dollars less than the preceding year and 12 billion below the last budget request submitted by the Truman administration. Defense Department officials said that despite the reduced appropriation, the nation's defenses actually were stronger than ever before due to the elimination of waste and duplication.

Musical Show Much Enjoyed

The musical variety show at the Kempsville School was enthusiastically received April 15 and 16. A large crowd both nights were entertained by the three scenes that were filled to the brim with dancing, songs and band music. About 75 children made up the cast.

The first scene was "On the Waterfront," showing sailors and their families waiting for their departure.

Scene two was a western motif, employing typical costumes and songs.

Scene three was "The Blue Room of the Kempsville Hotel." The Elementary Band, led by Miss Rita Pillar, played for the songs and dances. They call themselves the "High Hatters," and were cleverly costumed with top hats and both songs and costumes carried out the idea.

These performances marked the debut of the new maroon velvet curtains and draperies in the auditorium.

SCOUT TROOP HAS EASTER PARTY

Boy Scout Troop 66 held an Easter party and dance at the Kempsville Community House on April 7, with about 40 Scouts and friends present.

Musical games were enjoyed and Grace Bemforth and Bobby Andrews won prizes. The program was planned by the Explorer group, assisted by H. F. Tyler, advisor, and Assistant Scoutmaster Werner.

The boys themselves made the cookies for serving. The party was chaperoned by several parents and troop committeemen.

PERSONAL MENTION

Commander and Mrs. Ralph Garratt and sons, Dickie and Michael, left Friday of last week for a two-week stay with relatives in Kentucky.

Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Newman and family will return to the parsonage in Acredale on Friday, after a brief vacation.

Of the total quantity of potatoes used for human consumption in this country, about 15 per cent are now sold as a prepared or partially prepared food product.

Bugs Bothering Your Crops? Take These Tips From Experts

Yes, here's what the experts advise for Tidewater farmers when bugs threaten their cash crops. Strawberry Spider Mites

Dr. Greenwood and Hofmanster, entomologists, say in strawberry spider mite control use:

DUST—

3 per cent Aaramite or 1 per cent Parathion or 4 per cent Malathion at 35-40 pounds per acre.

Dusting sulphur 50-60 pounds per acre in early spring; 20-40 pounds per acre in hot weather.

SPRAY—

Aaramite 15 per cent wettable powder at manufacturer's directions.

1-2 pounds 15 per cent Parathion wettable powder or 1 pint Parathion emulsion per 75 gallons water per acre.

2 pounds 25 per cent Malathion wettable powder or 1-2 pints 50 per cent Malathion emulsion per 75 gallons water per acre.

EMULSION at manufacturer's directions for treatment prior to or during harvest.

When the method for applying insecticides to strawberries is optional, dusts will generally give better control than sprays (especially if a cloth trailer is used behind the duster) because of the difficulties inherent in covering the lower leaf surfaces, where the mites feed, with spray particles. This factor is less important when herbicidal sprays are used in winter.

Cutworms
For the control of cutworms use:

DUST—
10 per cent Toxaphene or 2-3 pounds Aldrin at 20 pounds per acre. Repeat if necessary.

SPRAY—
Toxaphene, 2 pounds actual toxicant, or Aldrin, 1-2 pounds actual toxicant per acre in sufficient water to cover.

Cutworms generally work in the row and applications are more effective if made to cover this area.

A six-inch strip on each side of the crop row is sufficient for adequate protection. Low gallonage equipment may be used for this operation.

Maggots
In using seed treatment for maggot control the following is recommended:

For the protection of lima beans, snap beans or sweet corn the seed should be treated in advance of planting by any of the following combinations.

The amounts given are for a bushel of seed and both insecticide and fungicide should be used together.

INSECTICIDES—
One ounce 25 per cent wettable powder of any of the following: Aldrin, Dieldrin, Heptachlor or Lindane, or 1 ounce 50 per cent wettable powder Chlordane.

FUNGICIDES—
Once ounce Aaraan SF-X or Captan.

Many commercial sources treat seed before sale. If growers wish to treat their own seed, proprietary mixtures are available which need only to be put in cold water for treating seed. The important thing is that a sticker (Methocel) is required to hold the insecticide and fungicide on the seed. If no commercial preparations are at hand, consult the Experiment Station for details of making home mixes. The sticker solution requirements are 1-2 pint per bushel of beans and 2-3 pint per bushel of corn.

Foliate Pests
For the control of potato foliage pests (flea beetles and Colorado potato beetles) use:

DUST—
1-2 Dieldrin or 5 per cent DDT at 30-35 pounds per acre. One or more applications.

SPRAY—

1 pound 25 per cent Dieldrin wettable powder or 1 to 1-2 pints 15 per cent Dieldrin emulsion per 100 gallons water per acre, one or more applications.

NOTE—

Where soil applications have been made for wireworm control, flea beetle injury to potato foliage tends to be considerably reduced and foliage treatments as indicated above may not be necessary. Conversely, if several foliar applications are made with Dieldrin for beetle control, soil applications for wireworm control may not be necessary in the future.

*Exempts, same treatments except no Dieldrin recommended.

Wireworms
For the control of wireworms affecting Irish potatoes, sweet potatoes, cucumbers, tomatoes, sweet corn, etc., use:

Two to three pounds of either Heptachlor or Aldrin per acre, applied broadcast and worked into top 4 or 5 inches of soil after plowing. Fertilizer-insecticide mixtures not yet recommended (studies incomplete). The material can be applied as emulsifiable concentrates, wettable powders, dilute dusts (not without some difficulties) or granular powders. Proper calculations must be made to provide for the full dosage required. Wettable powders should not be used in low gallonage sprayers because of nozzle clogging associated with their use.

See reference above to foliage treatments and wireworm control.

Weeds
Dr. L. L. Danielson, plant physiologist, says: To control weeds which emerge at the same time snap beans and lima beans emerge use:

CHEMICAL— Dow Premerge Weedkiller or Sinox F. E. Weedkiller. Spray mixture: One gallon to 50 gallons of water. Amount of spray per acre: 50 gallons. Time of application: Immediately after planting if possible, or at least before beans break through the soil.

CAUTION: Spray only one time. For the control of grass and broadleaf weeds during germination and early growth of sweet corn before it can be cultivated, use:

Preferred pre-emergence spray application:

CHEMICAL— 2-4-D Amine Salt Weedkiller (4 pounds per gallon). Spray mixture: 3 pints to 50 gallons of water. Amount of spray per acre: 50 gallons. Time of application: Spray immediately after planting. CAUTION: Plant corn at normal depth. Avoid use of very sandy soils or try one-half of suggested amount of the chemical. Use only one 2-4-D spray per season. Do not, under any circumstances, use this rate of application after corn is up.

The low volatile esters of 2-4-D may be used in place of the above if desired.

CHEMICAL— 2-4-D Low Volatile Ester Weedkiller (4 pounds per gallon). Spray mixture: 1-2 pints in 50 gallons water. Amount spray per acre: 50 gallons. Time of application: Immediately after planting. CAUTION: Plant corn at normal depth. Avoid use of very sandy soils or try one-half of suggested amount of chemical.

Use only one 2-4-D spray per season. Do not, under any circumstances, use this rate of application after the corn is up.

Pre-emergence dry application:

CHEMICAL— Aero Cyanamid. Rate per acre: 300 pounds. Time of application: Apply broadcast by hand or use cyanamid distributor immediately after planting or just before corn comes up. General fertilizer used may be a low nitrogen analysis material as Aero Cyanamid at the rate suggested will provide about 60 lbs. of nitrogen. CAUTION: Use only one application.

Broadleaf Weed Problem
Problem: Killing of growing broadleaf weeds in growing corn.

CHEMICAL— 2-4-D Amine Salt Weedkiller (4 pounds per gallon). Spray mixture: 1-2 pint in 10 gallons. Time of application: After corn is up and until lay-by time. CAUTION: Use only one spray per season. Drop pines should be used when corn is above 12 inches high to prevent spray from hitting crown of corn plant. Cultivate soil over brace root area of corn before spraying when corn is over 12 inches high. Whenever possible, spraying should be avoided after corn is 15 inches high.

Wilt
Dr. R. S. Mullin, plant pathologist, says: Tomatoes are attacked by several wilt diseases, two of which are important in Tidewater Virginia.

FUSARIUM WILT is a soil-borne disease probably caused more by 1-2 tomato growers in eastern Virginia than any other single disease. Symptoms of the disease consist of gradual wilting, then confined at first to one branch or one side of the plant, and subsequent yellowing, browning and death to the plant.

Control of Fusarium wilt is best accomplished by rotation, healthy transplants and resistant varieties. Among the resistant varieties are the commonly used Rutgers and Marglobe.

SOUTHERN WILT symptoms are rapid wilting of a plant and the presence of a white cottony growth around the stem at or just under the ground line. Often in this cottony growth are found round bodies, white to dark brown, about the size of mustard seed.

Since this disease is also soil borne, rotation, preferably with corn or small grains, is important. Buy certified in order to be as safe as possible against introduced infection.

Data compiled by A. Vernon Watts, associate Extension horticulturist.

Fort Story Men Take Top Places in Training Command Pistol Match

A Fort Story officer took top place among 100 contestants in the Transportation Training Command's Pistol Match recently ending at Fort Eustis.

He is 2nd Lt. Whitman Cross, II, recent member of the all-Army team that competed in the National Mid-Winter Pistol Championships at Tampa, Fla. In the .45 caliber shooting at Fort Eustis, Cross fired 267 for a possible 300 points.

The number two high scorer, who fired 229, was also a Fort Story soldier, M-Sgt. Jack Carpenter of Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 5th Transportation Terminal Command B.

Both Cross and Carpenter represent TTC in the Second Army Pistol Matches to be held at Fort George G. Meade, Md., early next month.

If their shooting skill holds and they score high in the Second Army meet, they will be eligible to proceed to Fort Benning, Ga., for the all-Army Tournament. It was at Fort Benning that Cross competed several weeks ago to win a coveted place in the U. S. Army squad that fired in the Tampa championships.

Ideas for the Modern Homemaker

By Mrs. Elizabeth D. Deal

Clean Up Fire Hazards

Though Spring has been around for several weeks now, possibly some of you have not done your Spring cleaning yet. Here are some points to check for fire prevention while cleaning:

Inspect your attic, closets and basement rooms and remove the things that burn fast.

Dispose of discarded clothing, draperies, rags, furniture, magazines and papers, linoleum and other materials that burn rapidly.

Watch especially for oily rags, old paint brushes, and open containers of flammable paint, thinners or cleaning fluids.

Clean, replace or repair defective, sooty, and rusty stoves, pipes, and cracked or poorly constructed chimneys.

Repair broken and damaged lightning rods, and poor ground connections.

Overhaul and clean or replace faulty or defective heating systems.

Avoid improper storage and use of gasoline, kerosene, other flammable liquids and explosives. Never use glass containers for any flammable liquid.

Prevent spontaneous ignition of hay. Do not store wet hay in barns. Make frequent examinations or cured hay after storage.

Check the use of unsafe wiring, overloaded electrical circuits, and worn or frayed cords. Check for defective electrical appliances.

Remove dry brush, weeds, grass and other trash along roadsides and around buildings. Remove dead trees that may be standing, and limbs that may cause accidents or fires.

Do not burn debris, trash and other hazardous waste materials outdoors on dry or windy days, or close to buildings.

Stop Taking Fire Risks

SMOKING: Careless smoking habits and the misuse of matches are by far the leading causes of fires. Cultivate careful smoking habits. Do not smoke in the barn, in bed, or near flammable liquids. Post "No Smoking" signs in appropriate places.

QUICKENING FIRES: Hastening stove fires with kerosene or gasoline takes a heavy toll of farm lives and farm property. Do not use kerosene, gasoline or other flammable liquid to start or boost fires in stoves, ranges or fireplaces.

STORAGE OF FUEL: See that gasoline, kerosene and other liquids of flammable nature are stored 50 feet or more from major buildings. Such material ought to be stored underground or in a locked building. Mark such places with warning signs. Remember — gasoline vapors are highly explosive! And they settle to the ground where you may not smell them.

BURNING TRASH: If you must burn brush, grass or trash, select a still, damp day, preferably after 4 p. m. Have help and fire tools handy. Be sure fire is "dead out" before leaving area. Consult your state fire laws.

Freeze control from carelessness. Inspection is the first step in fire prevention.

Removal of fire hazards pays dividends. Enlist the cooperation of your neighbors in a clean-up campaign.

New Method of Cooling Lettuce

Whereas heretofore lettuce has been packed in ice and the crate closed with a hydraulic press, a new advancement is now being employed which cuts down waste caused by this way of packing. Now the lettuce is packed in the crates and cooled by passing thru large vacuum tubes to 32 degrees. There is some loss by evaporation but nothing to compare to the loss by ice crushing and cutting the lettuce under the old method.

This is a saving to the grower, the retailer and the consumer. The grower does not have to purchase ice, which is expensive, the retailer can sell almost all the lettuce he buys as less is lost through waste, and the consumer can eat more of the lettuce he buys.

Demonstration Club Notes

The T-O-P-S celebrated the close of their intensive effort to learn proper eating habits by having a luncheon at the Pine Tree Inn on Friday, April 15.

I have told him repeatedly he made a mistake and got on the wrong track. Apparently, he has made another and more grave mistake this time. This county doesn't want a Treasurer who makes such mistakes. My family has been in this county since it was taken over from the Indians. It takes an organization of some kind to run things — a business, a ship, a football game, or a political movement. Princess Anne County is today the foremost growing county in the entire United States. The present organization in charge put it there, and should be given credit where credit is due, not blackmailed and wire tapped in an effort to discredit. The group around the so-called "Ticket for Princess Anne" have reached a new low. Let's see how much lower they can go.

MORE DUCK PONDS FOR HOG ISLAND

According to Charles Gikhrst, marshland specialist of the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries, three new duck ponds will be constructed at Hog Island during this coming summer, barring hurricanes. H-bombs or continuous wet weather.

The two duck ponds destroyed by Hurricane Hazel last autumn have been repaired.

WHAT ABOUT THE PAST 24 YEARS, MR. HEATH?

"With tears in his eyes and visibly shaken with emotion, James E. Heath, candidate for Commonwealth's Attorney in Princess Anne County, Friday night laid bare the events of his wild youth and arrests," and so goes the newspaper account of a meeting of the "Dunn Machine" crowd held last week.

According to newspaper reports Heath's strongest accusers have been his two running mates, Roger Malbon and Lit Walker, who, according to reports, have consistently tried to get him (Heath) to withdraw from the race because of his past record pointing out that no one would support a man for commonwealth's attorney with a past record such as his. According to the newspaper reports Heath has indicated that these arrests took place twenty-five years ago.

This newspaper, throughout this entire campaign, has stated repeatedly that the candidates should seek election on their own qualifications and that they should be willing to reveal these qualifications or lack of qualifications to the public. Now, Mr. Heath suggests that his record of convictions took place twenty-five years ago. This newspaper is willing to have this campaign judged on Mr. Heath's qualifications based on his record starting just 24 years ago since he has suggested that he has worn a halo since that time.

We now call on Mr. Heath to state to the public his record starting 24 years ago and bringing it up to date and let us see what the facts reveal.

Although Mr. Heath was asking his accusers to forgive him for things he himself did, at the same meeting he tried to get the public to condemn John E. Marr, V. Alfred Etheridge, Ivan D. Mapp and Robert S. Wahab, Jr., the Democratic organization candidates, because during the war which ended in 1945 people in business in this area, as he puts it, made a lot of money off service personnel. It should be pointed out that none of the above candidates were in office at that time and most of them were not in politics. This seems to be another case of where Mr. Heath is attempting to keep the spotlight from being turned on himself by attempting to accuse someone else.

It should be remembered that Mr. Heath was born with all the luxuries of life. His father took care of him and apparently it was he who secured for his son, "Butsie," the job of assistant Commonwealth's Attorney for Norfolk City. So, what the public would be interested in is what is Mr. Heath's record for the past 24 years? Has there been any effort made on the part of his running mates or anyone else to get him to withdraw from the race for commonwealth's attorney and, if so, was there any tape recording made of it and where is THAT tape recording? He should ask Mr. Walker for this tape recording and play it back for the benefit of the public since that seems to be Mr. Walker's way of doing business.

ENTRAPMENT BY TAPE, A NEW POLITICAL "LOW"

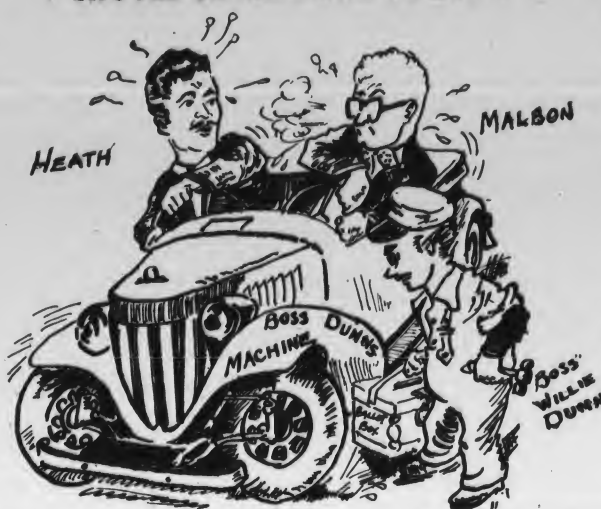

Littleton B. Walker, candidate for treasurer on the "Dunn Machine" ticket, apparently hit a new low in politics when last December, nearly five months ago he says he made a tape recording of a telephone conversation between himself and a personal friend of long standing, Thomas F. Little, whose services he had sought in trying to get him on a friendly basis with the Democratic organization.

Last December when Walker announced for treasurer no other candidate was in the field. D. J. Vaughan, the present treasurer, had not made his intention known not to run although it was general talk that because of his health he would not seek reelection and V. A. Etheridge had not as yet become a candidate. Walker was apparently trying to secure the spot as candidate for treasurer on the organization ticket and approached his friend, Little, to see if he could arrange it for him. In what was an apparent attempt to use as leverage in securing this spot he claims he made a tape recording of a conversation between him and Little. We assume he made tape recordings of every conversation that took place between him and Little. If he did he should reveal what took place in every conversation. If he did not it is quite clear that he lured his good friend, Mr. Little, unbeknowning to him, into a trap.

If a man would do this to a friend in order to gain a point in politics who would have any confidence in him if he were elected county treasurer. There are certain records in the treasurer's office that are confidential and who would be willing to call the Treasurer's office and discuss with the Treasurer or one of his deputies any confidential information if a tape recording of the entire conversation was being made. And, who would have any confidence in a man who would enter the sacred confines of his friend's home and stab him in the back for a mere political plumb.

Yes, we say Lit Walker hit a new low in politics

"WITH OUR PAST RECORDS NEITHER OF US SHOULD BE ALLOWED TO DRIVE"

The Cracker Barrel

It seems that old Willie Dunn had better be careful who and how he invites people to political meetings of his "Dunn Machine." It seems he issued an invitation to Princess Anne Sanitation Officer Cecil Land the other day while the Board of Supervisors were in session, and Land told Willie off in no uncertain terms. According to the report Old Willie grabbed Land's coat lapel in a manner unbecoming a friend and a gentleman. Land naturally showed his dislike for such tactics.

Words were exchanged by both Land and Willie and Old Willie was seen slowly backing away when he saw that Land was a bit unhappy. Land gave him a few words and Willie backed further away. Then, Willie was observed saying "no hard feelings, let's smile and all be happy." Old Willie seems adept at backing off when he is cornered. Brave soul is he.

Sheriff Malbon must be very proud of one of his former deputies, who it is reported he admires very much. This particular ex-deputy sheriff under Malbon recently had a warrant sworn out against him for contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Malbon is a man of many problems. He is kept busy trying to keep his deputies out of trouble and now he has to try to keep his running mate, "Butsie" Heath, out of trouble. It is strange company the Sheriff keeps. That old saying might apply here, "birds of a feather flock together."

Another of Sheriff Malbon's present deputies, it is reported, entered an East Ocean View restaurant the other day and demanded that the proprietor serve him a drink of whiskey. If Sheriff Malbon really wants to enforce the law he should investigate this deputy who apparently was trying to violate the law. That is a fine example for a sheriff's deputy to set.

"Butsie" Heath and W. W. Oliver, Jr., were reported seeing the other day in what appeared to be a confidential huddle with J. Hugh Barnes, the independent candidate for sheriff. It would appear that Heath and Oliver are trying to ditch Roger Malbon and would like to have Barnes get on the ticket with them. At least, the observer who saw them surmises as much. It's a logical conclusion, since it is well known that Malbon and Heath don't get along too well, and for that matter, none of the Princess Anne ticket candidates are too friendly with one another.

make definite plans for fumigation for the control of weevils and other insects. Responsibility for meeting sanitation requirements on wheat stored in public warehouses for loan purposes will be assigned to the warehouseman.

Two Guernseys Complete Tests

Two registered Guernsey cows, owned by Bayville Farms, Inc., of Norfolk, have completed official Advanced Register records that were supervised by Virginia Polytechnic Institute and reported to the American Guernsey Cattle Club for approval and publication.

On three times daily milking for 365 days, Bayville's Cross De-nobla, a six year old, produced 11,795 pounds of milk and 694 pounds of fat. This production represents approximately 5,581 quarts of high quality milk. She is the daughter of the outstanding Guernsey sire, Clear Springs Cynthia's Major, that has 12 tested daughters in the Performance Register.

Bayville Nobles Lassie, produced 14,995 pounds of milk and 784 pounds of fat, milked three times a day for 365 days, as a senior four year old. This production represents approximately 6,979 quarts of high quality milk. Lassie is the daughter of the outstanding Guernsey sire, Noble's Ben, that has 18 tested daughters in the Performance Register of the American Guernsey Cattle Club.

STRIKE BACK AT CANCER

and we never dreamed this would take place in a country such as ours. And, this is the man who is asking the public to have confidence in him and elect him county treasurer. If he would do this to a friend what would he do to those with whom he is not on friendly terms.

Lit Walker should hang his head in shame.

Wheat Growers Over Allotments

As reporters from the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office approach the finish of measuring the 1955 wheat crop, ASC Chairman W. F. Hunter reported there is a substantial number of farms in the county with wheat seeded in excess of the farm allotment.

These farmers are reminded that they must bring the farm wheat acreage within the allotment to be eligible for ACP payments and price support, and that this must be accomplished by June 1, 1955. Furthermore, if the farm wheat acreage is in excess of 15 acres and the farm allotment, the producer may not receive a marketing card to sell his wheat until he has paid a penalty on all wheat in excess of the farm marketing quota.

A producer, irrespective of the size of the wheat allotment, may produce up to 15 acres of wheat and not be subject to a marketing quota penalty. In this case he would not get price support or ACP payments if he exceeded his allotment. Farmers who wish to dispose of excess wheat acreage may turn it under as a green manure crop or cut it for hay or silage, provided the acreage is so utilized by June 1. The ASC county office is asking these wheat farmers who dispose of excess wheat acreage to report it to the county office. This is required so that arrangements may be made to send a reporter on a second visit to the farm to check the disposition of the excess.

5-Year Program

of anticipated Highway funds during the five year period.

In adopting the program, the Commission took note of the fact that "the current trend in highway development is, changing rapidly" and that the public "is becoming extremely impatient with the slow pace of highway construction." The five year planning program represents an effort by the Commission to adopt a plan which would enable it "to prepare and to put underway the best possible type of highway program with the least amount of public inconvenience and friction."

The plan will make it possible for the Commission to say specifically what highway projects it intends to begin during a five-year period. The program will be a continuing one and as allocations are made each year for the primary system, another year of "tentative projects" will be added to the end of the five-year plan.

The Commission also adopted a policy designed to bring before the public plans for projects on the Interstate highway system and for by-passes and other extraordinary projects on state highways, where control of access is involved.

Here's the way the plan would work.

The local member of the Highway Commission and highway engineers would meet with local officials and citizens and inform them of the location of proposed projects in their area and obtain their reactions and suggestions.

2. Next, proposed lines and alternate locations would be drawn on aerial photographs or maps; right of way, construction and utility costs would be estimated, and a report would be prepared. The report would be reviewed by the chief engineer and his staff and then submitted to the Commission with recommendations. The Commission could either approve the recommendations or require a public hearing.

3. If a public hearing were necessary, the chief engineer would make the necessary arrangements for public notices and other details. The meeting would be presided over by the Highway Commissioner or a member of the Commission.

4. Final action on the location of the project would be taken by the Commission after it had considered these recommendations.

We have been engaged in a membership drive, the leaders of which will have to wash dishes at the annual banquet on May 29. As for recreation, the Couples Class has given us two ping pong tables by the way, there will be a tournament between the Couples Class and the Fellowship in the near future and we will soon have a dart board. But what is most important, we are trying to give the youth a fuller understanding of the teachings of Christ and how religion concerns us in everything we do every day.

Even if you are not member of the Methodist Church, we invite you to visit our Fellowship at any time and hope you will enjoy it as much as we do.

Notes from YOUR COUNTY AGENT By DICK COCKRELL County Agricultural Agent

Why Settle For Low Yields of Corn?

There are many trucks of the trade in producing high yields of corn — but whatever else, the stalks have to be on the land.

Here are some suggestions for getting good stands of corn. Prepare a good seedbed. It should be free of clods, compact underneath and loose on top. A poor seedbed is a short-cut to a poor stand.

Plant at the right depth — about one inch deep in a well-prepared seedbed. Three inches is considered deep. As the soil dries and warms up from the surface downward, late planting may be a little deeper than one inch. Check conditions of the runner on your planter and replace if needed.

Use the correct planter plate. Hybrid corn is graded. Be sure to use the right plate for the grade you are planting. This will help to get proper dropping of corn.

Plant thick. Plant full-season hybrids at the rate of 14,000 to 16,000 kernels per acre. Plant early varieties at the rate of 16,000 to 20,000 kernels per acre. In 42-inch rows a kernel every 9 1/2 inches will give 16,000 kernels per acre, while a kernel every 8 1/2 inches will give 18,000 kernels per acre.

Don't run your tractor too fast. For proper planting, the planter speed should not be over three miles per hour.

Fertilizer Important In Corn Production

The correct amount and analysis of fertilizer is of prime importance when it comes to producing high yields of corn.

The increased cost of applying a little more fertilizer, buying more seed, and following the other practices recommended for high corn yields, is more than offset in the dollars you pocket at harvest time.

In 1,000 pounds of 10-10-10 fertilizer or its equivalent there is about enough plant food to produce 80 bushels of corn. If you apply this amount and analysis of fertilizer, any yield of corn above 80 bushels per acre must be produced on fertility from other sources. A soil test will indicate the level of fertility, particularly phosphorus and potassium, and will serve as a guide for applying the proper amount and analysis. As a general rule, nitrogen will need to be added as a side-dressing in addition to the regular fertilizer application for high yields and efficient production.

Low fertility soils need more nutrients than do high fertility soils. High fertility soils will give

Broadcasts Mark "Loyalty Day"

The largest statewide coverage in Virginia radio history will carry the American Legion's "Loyalty Day" program to every section of Virginia and adjoining states, according to John J. Wierker, Jr., of Richmond, the Legion's Radio and TV Chairman.

In addition to patriotic music, the broadcast will include brief addresses by Governor Thomas B. Stanley, United States Senators Harry Flood Byrd and A. Willis Robertson, and the Virginia Legion Commander L. Eldon James.

The Legion program will be broadcast on various times at 47 radio stations on next Sunday, May 1, which has been officially designated by recent Congressional resolution as the American "Loyalty Day," in contrast to the communist international celebration of "May Day."

good response from relatively small applications, but be sure to fertilize enough to prevent lowering the fertility level. On poor, coarse-textured soils, better results can be obtained with very frequent applications spread through the season than when all fertilizer is applied at once.

The yield and quality of previous crops is also an indication of fertility needs.

Winter Supplements For Calves Studied At Experiment Station

The various sources of protein, and the value of different supplements to hay and corn silage in the wintering ration of growing calves, have been the subject of an extensive study at VPI Agricultural Experiment Station. Now, after a four-year period, animal husbandmen at the station have several observations to make about their tests.

Average daily gains have been from 3-4 to 4 pound per day with 400 pound heifer calves receiving 3 pounds of supplement, 4 pounds of hay, and 8 pounds of corn silage per day.

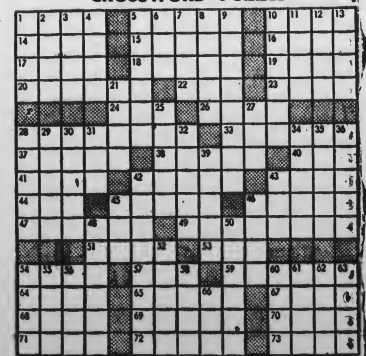

When the hay was a legume, corn and cob meal produced as much gain approximately as grain mixtures with 20 per cent or more protein.

When the hay was grass or mixed hay, gains were increased by grain mixtures that provided one pound of oil meal or its equivalent per head per day; but gains were not increased by upping the oil meal to 1-2 pounds or more per day.

Purdue cattle supplement A and another complex supplement with vitamins and minerals showed no advantage over ordinary oil meals.

Feather meal appears to be a satisfactory source of protein for beef cattle, provided it is fed in a grain mixture containing no more than 25 per cent feather meal. In these tests, 1-2 pound of 80 per cent feather meal and 2-3 pounds of corn and cob meal were equivalent to 1 pound of 40 per cent oil meal and 2 pounds of corn and cob meal per day. There were indications that mixtures with 1-3 feather meal were unpalatable to some calves.

Trick Shot Golf Wizard Will "Do His Stuff" Here on May 14

treat at four o'clock on May 14 with the personal appearance of Paul Hahn, trick shot wizard and an outstanding personality in golf today. Lyle B. Ramsey, announced this week that Hahn will appear at the Pine Acre Golf Range here at that time.

Travelling pro from the Ellinor Village Country Club at Ormond Beach, Fla., Hahn has a repertoire of more than 40 incredible trick shots. He combines a serious golf clinic (sane) and his trick shot exhibition (insane) with a hilarious series of fast-moving acts in a comedy routine put together for him by Hollywood gag writers.

Some of Hahn's recent appearances are at the Yankee Stadium, National Celebrities Tournament, the Augusta Masters, National P. G. A. Championship, International Four-Ball in Miami, Bing Crosby's event in California, the Havana Invitational, Panama Open, Western Open and Western Amateur Championships, Broadmoor Invitational, and top golf clubs in the nation, Pinehurst, Oakmont, Pebble Beach, etc.

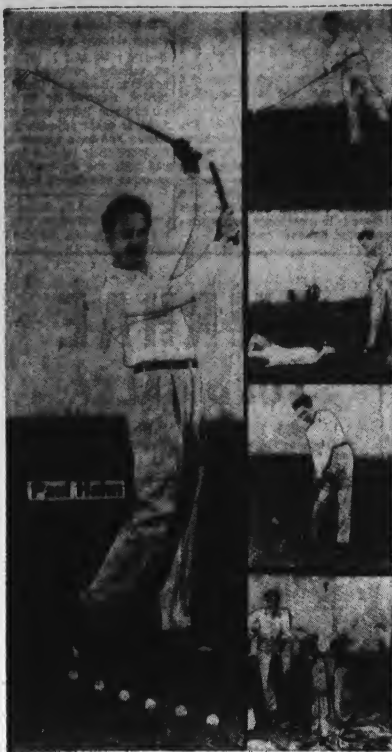

A former player on the P.G.A. tournament circuit, Hahn discovered that there was more money to be made from entertaining than from playing the game seriously. His 90-lb. golf bag is the world's largest and contains the weirdest assortment of clubs in captivity. While some are orthodox others are not, like the regular driver head with a garden hose shaft. Paul has hit a golf ball over 230 yards with this one.

Other shots include hitting four balls at once — two go straight up (Paul catches these before they hit the ground) and the other two go off down the fairway. The entire show lasts one hour.

Hitting unusual shots with regular clubs and regular shots with unorthodox clubs, Hahn leaves his audiences gasping with amazement. The phenomenal distance he gets with each drive defies belief. Paul states that his most difficult shot is the "double action" shot. In this shot he hits a series of twelve balls, all lined up, with a club in each hand, alternating right and left handed shots without stopping.

His steely-nerved control has astounded audiences in practically every state in the U. S., and Hawaii, Cuba, Puerto Rico, Canada, Mexico, Panama, Australia and Central and South America. His act has been made into six movies and Hahn has been seen on over 200 television shows. Camera fans are invited to take their cameras out and have a field day photographing Hahn's unusual talent. Non-golfers as well as links addicts will enjoy the show's entertainment. Ramsey said, especially since the show is done from one spot and there is no walking from the gallery.

Ft. Story Blessed With Strong Pitching Staff For 1955 Season

The wraps are off the 1955 edition of Fort Story's baseball team, which promises a lot of trouble for other representatives of the Navy Major Inter-service League during the season.

A strong pitching staff, and solid outfield are among the big guns the Story soldiers will use in their 40-game schedule. This includes four lefts each against such formidable nines as Norfolk Naval Air Station, runner-up in last year's Armed Forces' Inter-service Tournament, and the Marine team from Quantico, a perennial powerhouse.

The "Dukes," winning their opener against Langley Air Force Base 6 to 2, showed some of the pitching strength that can help them cop the league title. Carl Buniva, former Providence College ace, and Norman Chandler, a Class AA hurler with the Atlanta Crackers before he entered service, combined to hold the Langley flyers to three hits. Chandler, the team's coach, received credit for the win.

Chandler added another victory to his slate when he pitched and batted the Dukes to a 6-4 decision over Norfolk Naval Base. His home run in the 8th, with a man on, broke a 4-4 tie to ice the game. Chandler pitched hitless ball after relieving in the 6th inning. With Buniva and Chandler on the hurling staff are Al Antinelli, promising bonus property of the Boston Red Sox; Ralph Strawn, and Mickey Withers. Antinelli recently returned from the All-Army Basketball Tournament at Fort Benning, Ga., as a member of the Fort Eustis championship outfit.

A strong-armed outfield includes rightfielder Henry McQueney and center fielder Bobah Hicks. The left field slot is shared by Jessie Maddox and Bob Davidson. Outfielders Gene Williams, Carl Richards and Curtis Richmond rejoined the squad as Operation High-Tide came to an end last week.

The infield appears set with Harry Dinardo, Tom Edge and Bob Whitekiller entrenched at first, second and third base, respectively. Shortstop Ray Frisch is a cousin of the famous Frank Frisch. Charles Trewin, Jimmy Glover and Edward White round out a strong bench. Behind the plate are Jorge Gonzales and Berle Ryan.

ment Committee and the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce, the sponsor of the Tournament.

The VBO was a tremendous success from the standpoint of weather, attendance and exhibition of golf. It is not yet known whether the Tournament was a success from a financial standpoint. The Tournament Committee had funds on hand to pay the $17,500.00 in prize money, but does not as yet have the money in hand to pay unpaid expense bills of approximately $9,000.00. Checks are still coming in for tickets mailed to the several Club Memberships, for Booster Club Memberships, and for advertising. All those who still owe for several items are requested to mail checks to VBO Headquarters promptly, so that the financial strain on Tournament Officials will be relieved. It is hoped that after all funds are received, that the Tournament can be termed a financial success, although officials wish to stress that this will not be possible unless all money due is paid.

In his closing statement, Stanton wished to thank not only the workers in the Tournament, but those who supported and attended the Tournament. "Without the support of the public," he said, "our Tournament would not have been possible. Everyone seemed to recognize that it was a Community Event, and gave it whole-hearted support."

GAME COMMISSION ACQUIRES EAGLE

A fine mount of an immature bald eagle with a huge wing-spread of 92 inches has been put on display in the Hearing Room of the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries.

It had been brought to Sandston taxidermist Hubbard Walker for mounting. Walker, realizing that it was illegal to take a bald eagle or even to mount it without a permit, called in Virginia Game Warden C. I. Smith, Jr., and J. J. Webb, who in turn notified the Federal Agent, since the bald eagle is protected by Federal law. The specimen was such a beautiful one that the taxidermist offered his services to prepare it so it could be displayed by the Commission.

GARDEN GUIDE

By J. WILTON ANDERSON

AN ANNUAL GARDEN

The weather is ideal now for getting out annuals in our flower gardens and planting boxes.

Annuals are very easy to grow and will produce gorgeous displays of color all summer long. If spring came before you were able to buy and plant seeds, then start with the young plants that growers have made available through the normal retail outlets. Excellent selections are available and the plants will ask very little care.

Plants to Try

One of the favorites of all annuals are petunias. Thanks to the work of hybridizers, we not only have a wide color choice, but also a wide flower choice. You can get lavenders, whites, purple, variegated, and recently a red petunia has come into being. The flowers are available in the better known singles and also now in ruffled and double forms. Petunias will thrive in a good loam soil and will do particularly well if a little dried manure is worked in with it. For best results, they should be kept well watered.

Zinnias are rather colorful and interesting plants. Most of them have been developed from Mexican species and are therefore well adapted to hot climates. They come in very rich shades of orange and red as well as white and yellow. Many of the varieties are quite tall (30 inches), but for windy locations, the 12-15 inch varieties are ideal.

Ageratum in both the blue and white forms is nicely suited for edging beds or for an area where low plants are called for. This plant comes from Mexico also. It is quite vigorous, and though it is an annual, it usually comes back year after year, through natural re-seeding.

It is not too late to sow seeds of portulaca or purslane. These, too, are semi-annuals, but if the seeds are sown now, the plants will bloom this year. They are very low growing plants and have flower forms that are both single and double. The flowers will bloom in varying shades of purple, pink, and yellow and are quite attractive. These plants have very tiny seeds and are usually sown just where they are wanted to grow, with no attempt made to transplant them.

Ocean Front Gardens

Ocean front gardening enthusiasts take note that all of these annuals should prove hardy near the ocean. Select the low growing form, give them good soil and moisture conditions, and you should not have any trouble with them.

Other Annuals

Inland gardeners also should not forget such other good annuals as larkspur, which re-seeds easily; marigolds, sweet alyssum, which is excellent for edging; snapdragon, sweet pea, verbena, asters, and surely the beautiful yellow California poppies. Be sure to put in enough of

New Ruling Will Alter Headlight Adjustment

In accordance with national standards set forth by the Society of Automotive Engineers, Col. C. W. Woodson, Jr., Superintendent of State Police, has announced that the forthcoming motor vehicle inspection period beginning May 1 will require adjustments of many headlight beams to a 2-inch drop from the horizontal in 25 feet instead of the previously required 3-inch drop. Exhaustive testing and research the plants. They are inexpensive and easy to handle, and when you see the display they will create for you, you are bound to wish for more. Many such as sinningia, larkspur, snapdragons, asters and others are excellent for indoor arrangements, too, so be sure to include those.

by the Society developed, in 1954, a new type of sealed-beam light equipped with a shielded filament which is more effective at this adjustment in that it can produce as much as 80 additional feet of "seeing distance" on the lowered beam with no increase of glare to oncoming cars, gives more light diffusion to the roadside and penetrates fog more effectively. Many new models are now being equipped with this type light and it is expected all will be in the near future.

Colonel Woodson stated further that this change in adjustment would also make safer driving for those using older type of sealed beam light, since post-war cars have been changed drastically as to seating arrangements with rear seats moved forward, thus reducing the weight effect of front-seat passengers and luggage in the rear compartment of the vertical position of headlight beams. In addition, he stated, automobiles have been greatly improved as to stability, thus permitting less variance between the beam and the horizontal and that, if a motorist fails to lower his beam, the difference in adjustment will not increase the blinding effect on other drivers.

Under Section 46-277 of the Code of Virginia, the Superintendent of State Police is permitted to control headlight adjustment in accordance with the recommendations of the Society, and Colonel Woodson announces this move is in accordance with a pronounced national trend.

Accordingly, such adjustments will be required on all new passenger vehicles registered and inspected after May 1, 1955, and on all vehicles equipped with the new-type headlight. They will be further required on all old-type sealed-beam lights when replacement or other adjustment is necessary and upon request of owners when their vehicles are equipped with the old-type light but no other adjustment is necessary.

Frame Buildings Best in A-Blast

Your chance for survival from an atomic explosion is best if you live in a wooden frame house, according to some of the experts.

Two frame houses exposed to the horror of the "heat of a thousand suns" in the Nevada Atomic Proving Grounds tests proved the amazing ability of wood to withstand heat, shock and flame.

One house, only 3500 feet from the center of the blast, subjected to pressures of 1000 pounds per square foot, 67 times normal horizontal pressure, collapsed, but did not completely disintegrate. The basement shelters of wood were adequate for security from resulting debris. There was no fire, flaming or burning of the building. There were no signs of thermal radiation within the building.

The second house, 7600 feet from the vast explosion, although damaged, did not collapse. It was possible to re-occupy this house under emergency conditions if reinforced.

The Land of Plenty, the progressive six-state area served by the Norfolk and Western Railway, is a land of blueprints and plans . . . of new factories and new business. It is marching into a new era of development . . . in harmony with the bulldozer's rumble, the rhythm of tapping hammers and the music of rivet guns. There are men, too, in already-established firms who are seeking new markets, diversifying their production and creating new products.

Every time somebody creates something — new factories, new products, new markets — it means new jobs and more income.

The N&W is building, too . . . because dependable rail transportation is vital to progress. This railroad has spent and authorized $229,000,000 since World War II in a continuing improvement program to insure better rail service to meet the growing need.

For many years the N&W has carried on a consistent national advertising campaign to promote the advantages of the Land of Plenty to the nation's top management. The campaign is backed by an Industrial and Agricultural Department staff of plant location specialists who are constantly helping manufacturers find desirable industrial sites.

The Norfolk and Western will continue to work with utilities, businessmen and other organizations who are striving to develop this area. The railway is convinced that the potential for new industry here is unlimited and will exert its best efforts in the march of progress in the Land of Plenty.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Red Finds a "Sweet Solution"

Red Jackson found a slick way to get his cows to eat what's good for them. Seems they were pining up the tall green grass—full of minerals and vitamins—and eating the short grass, which is naturally sweeter.

Red solved the problem by spraying a solution of corn syrup over the grass that was going begging. The cows sure went at it. Red says it's lucky for him—and the cows—that every one of them has a "sweet tooth."

Next week, according to Red, he's going to have his cows clean up all the weedy grass along his fences—after he sprays them with more corn syrup, of course.

From where I sit, some folks, like Red, are always trying out new tricks—and others stick with the old tried and true methods. Just a question of preference, I guess. Like the way you may enjoy coffee with meals, while I prefer a cold glass of beer. So let's not allow any bad feelings to "crop up" by thinking ours is the only choice.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES SHULACK, JR.

Fort Story Chapel Scene Of Shulack - Hayman Wedding

The marriage of Miss Helen Jane Hayman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Clarence Hayman of Virginia Beach, to Peter Charles Shulack, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Charles Shulack of Bound Brook, N. J., took place Saturday, April 16, at the Fort Story Chapel. The ceremony was performed by Chaplain James Powell, USN, in a setting of fern, white gladioli and white candles. J. William Miller played the wedding music.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a wedding gown of white, Chantilly lace and tulle over satin, fashioned with circles of lace across the shoulder and again at the collar line; bodice of lace shadowed over satin, and long lace sleeves tapered over the wrists. The billowy skirt, having a triangle of lace wide across the hem, was topped with a mist of tulle and drifted into a regal train. Her finger-tip veil of silk illusion was arranged from a crown of tiny embroidered flowers. She carried an arm bouquet of white bride's roses and baby breath.

Mrs. James Allen Kunkler was her sister's matron of honor. She wore a floor-length gown of pastel blue net over taffeta, fashioned with a strapless bodice and a shirred pocket of crystalite. Her headpiece was of blue nylon covered leaves and she carried a nosegay of pink carnations and baby breath with matching pink streamers.

The bridesmaids were Miss Diane McComb and Mrs. William Worthington Davis. They wore bluish pink gowns identical to that of the matron of honor. Their headpieces were of pink nylon covered leaves and they carried nosegays of blue dyed carnations and baby breath with matching blue streamers.

James Makar, of Whippany, N. J., was best man and the groomsmen were Kinsey Mathews of Bound Brook, N. J., uncle of the groom, and Anderson M. Holland, uncle of the bride.

Mrs. Roper Rains served as mistress of ceremonies.

The bride's mother chose a navy crepe street-length dress, styled with white collar dotted with sequined white flowers. Her hat was a matching straw with white accents and she wore a white orchid corsage.

The bridegroom's mother wore a dress of light blue lace. Her hat was of matching blue straw, and she wore a white orchid corsage.

MRS. JACK WYNDHAM SEAWELL.

Miss Claire Banta McGrath Weds Jack Wyndham Seawell Saturday

The marriage of Miss Claire Banta McGrath, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard James McGrath of Bay Colony and Greenwich, Conn., to Jack Wyndham Seawell of Savannah, Ga., son of Mrs. Earl Wyndham Seawell of Nashville, Tenn., and the late Dr. Seawell, took place last Saturday at noon at the Church of Our Lady, Star of the Sea. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Daniel Rankin, S. M., of Washington. The church was decorated with ferns, mixed white flowers and cathedral candles. Larry Williams played the wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a wedding gown of ivory satin and lace, styled in the princess line, with bodice of heirloom Alencon lace. The full skirt ended in a train of antique ivory satin. Her cathedral-length veil of antique ivory English illusion was caught with French orange blossoms and fell from a coronet of lace embroidered in seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of lilac of the valley and stephanotis, centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. Louis Renshaw Fortier of Frankfurt, Germany, was her sister's matron of honor and only attendant. She wore a waist-length gown of white silk organza, fashioned with a broat neckline, appliqued in scrollwork of hyacinth blue grosgrain ribbon. She wore a matching blue bandeau and carried a cascade bouquet of fleur d'amour and freesias.

William Boyd Henderson of Pittburgh, Penna., was best man and groomsmen were Richard James McGrath, Jr., of New York, brother of the bride; Harry Cooper of Savannah; Gilbert Savage of Norfolk, and Quimby Seawell of Nashville, cousin of the bridegroom.

The bride's mother wore a dress of navy blue lace and taffeta, navy accessories and a corsage of phalaenopsis orchids.

The bridegroom's mother wore a dress of heather Alencon lace over matching taffeta, white hat and a corsage of white orchids.

After the ceremony a reception was given at the Princess Anne Country Club. Later Mr. and Mrs. Seawell left for a wedding trip to Nassau, British West Indies, and upon their return they will reside in Savannah. The bride chose for traveling an ice blue worsted suit with matching felt hat, navy accessories and a corsage of white orchids.

'The Great Git-Away' To Have Premiere At Theatre-Go-Round

"The Great Git-Away," a new play by Romeo Muller, will have its world premiere at Theatre-Go-Round in Virginia Beach on July 5 through 10. It was announced this week. Described by the author as "all play and a yard wide," the play is a comedy-fantasy dealing with a group of unusual characters who float out to sea on the front porch of a seashore house.

Romeo Muller, as resident-director of Theatre-Go-Round, will personally supervise the Virginia Beach production along with Lesley Savage, producer.

Muller has had great success with his original plays at Theatre-Go-Round in the past two years. "Mahogany," introduced in 1953 as "With Drum and Colours," is now in the hands of Eddie Dowling for future Broadway production. The great comedy success of last season, "Angel With the B.B. Big Ears," is now scheduled for August rehearsal and early fall opening in New York by Lesley Savage of Theatre-Go-Round, and Muriel Campbell of New York.

Among the major characters in "The Great Git-Away" are Carroul Jortter, the guitar-strumming owner of the floating house; Max Ellis, a disillusioned Hollywood director, and his protegee, a blond who is best described as the Marilyn Monroe type; Jesse Dalton Dillinger James, public enemy number one, a Tahitian couple and a Senate investigating committee also float along for the ride.

"The Great Git-Away" will be the second play of Theatre-Go-Round's 1955 season, which begins on June 28 with the production of "Picnic."

Pittburgh, Penna., was best man and groomsmen were Richard James McGrath, Jr., of New York, brother of the bride; Harry Cooper of Savannah; Gilbert Savage of Norfolk, and Quimby Seawell of Nashville, cousin of the bridegroom.

The bride's mother wore a dress of navy blue lace and taffeta, navy accessories and a corsage of phalaenopsis orchids.

AMERICA'S FAVORITE FROZEN DESSERT
... from Coast to Coast

The MIXING BOWL... IT'S Fun TO COOK!

By LUCILE CLARK
SUN-NEWS FOOD EDITOR

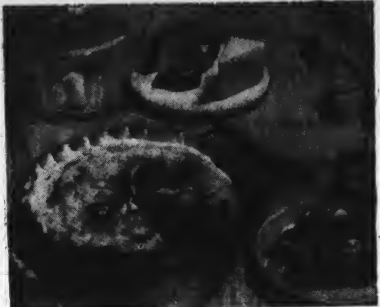

For the very latest in food fads and foibles... for practical, down-to-earth recipes that please both palate and pocketbook, tune in "LET'S COOK," with Lucile Clark each day, Monday through Friday, at 1:00 P. M. on Station WTAR-TV.

DESSERTS

What's for dessert? When pie is the answer the whole family usually beams. How about a spicy pear pie? Have you ever tasted one? I hadn't until very recently and found it SO good. Fresh pears are easy to digest and are rich in vitamins A, B and C, as well as in iron, copper, calcium and phosphorus, so you can serve this PEAR PIE and be sure it will not only please the family, but be good for them. Even dieters, who most usually turn "thumbs down" on pastries, are intrigued into sampling pear pie. It's in the out-of-the-ordinary class.

PEAR PIE

Pastry for double crust
5 pears, sliced
1 cup sugar
1-2 tablespoons tapioca
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
1-4 cup orange juice
1-2 teaspoon nutmeg

Combine all ingredients and fill pastry-lined pan. Dot over mixture 1-2 stick butter or margarine cut in small pieces. Put on top crust, flute edges and bake at 425 degrees 10 minutes; reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake 40 minutes.

Fruit salads must not only be delicious to taste, but also exciting to look at. That's why fresh pears combined with other fruits make a salad that will be delicious and one that everyone will rave about.

A TROPIC PEAR SALAD will surely bring forth the "oh's" and "ah's" and take care of dinner conversation for several minutes. Don't peel the pears because the peel adds color to the salad, and with red grapes, loads pineapple and the muted tones of banana and grapefruit, you'll have an exciting salad. Remember — you'll always be safe in serving pears because they're easy to digest, low in calories and high in vitamins and minerals.

Happiest of all, the tropic pear salad is easy to prepare and pleasing to your most "select" company.

TROPIC PEAR SALAD

1 cup red grapes (seeded)
1 cup pineapple chunks
2 bananas
Salad greens
1-4 cup honey
1-4 cup lemon juice

Cut ripe pears in half; remove core; slice each in thirds. Score bananas with tines of fork and slice. Peel and section grapefruit. Arrange salad greens on serving plates; divide fruit among servings. Combine the lemon juice and honey. Pour over fruit. Serve very cold.

During April you will be able to get both the Anjou and Nelis pear. The Nelis pear will be plentiful in May. It is rough on the outside but with a heart of gold. Russet variety; small very sweet.

The Anjou will make a better pie. It is green skinned, fine in texture and spicy. Hope you'll like these pear suggestions, and find them helpful in planning your menus. Bye, now...

Merry MATRONS By Alice

MRS. THOMAS S. CHAPMAN, attractive president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, had the most femininely attractive short, fluffy hair-styling we have seen in many a moon, when she addressed the Virginia Convention last week at the Hotel Chamberlain. With her erect and perfect stance, her beautifully straight back and neckline, and wearing an exquisite black sheath-like chiffon and Chantilly lace dinner frock, she made quite a picture (even though, unfortunately, like too many women speakers, she gave a much too long speech). The Illinois lady won the admiration of all of the Virginia Women's Club women who attended the State Convention, however, with her graciousness, charm and interest in Virginians.

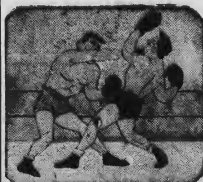

MRS. A. E. S. STEPHENS, wearing a stunning bottle green dinner gown, was more than proud that her lovely daughter is the Apple Blossom Queen this year, while the Lieutenant Governor, surrounded by pulehritudinous ladies, was at his most attentive best as he stood greeting the members in the long reception line.

Petite MRS. AUBREY HOLMES, new president of the Woman's Club of Princess Anne County, as one of the official hostesses, wore several attractively fashioned frocks and the longest, biggest silver chain necklaces in the county!

MRS. R. H. OWEN, wearing a smart navy blue knit two-piece sailor-suit dress, looked like a school girl, and MRS. IRENE FLEMING, as gay a conversationalist as ever, was on hand representing the United Press.

Tall and stately MRS. J. L. BLAIR BUCK, former General Federation of Women's Clubs president, wearing a striking emerald green gown with a double shawl collar, gave the shortest introductory for a speaker-of-the-evening presentation on record!

Friends of Princess Anne Senior and Junior club members who were enthusiastically received when introduced were: MRS. A. PAUL HARTZ, past-president of the General Federation, attractive in azure blue lace; MRS. V. LUCILE BLANE, in plum taffeta; MRS. H. STANLEY, wearing powder blue lace; MRS. JOSEPH

DESIGNER AWARDED—

Yesterday Thomas P. Brigrance, young Texas-born designer for Sportswear in New York, was presented with the 1955 Cotton Fashion Award for the best use of cotton in the American fashion designing field. The award, a Steuben glass bowl decorated with a cotton blossom and inscription, was presented to Designer Brigrance by United States Senator Allen J. Elkender, chairman of the Senate Agricultural Committee, at the National Cotton Council's annual Congressional Reception in Washington. An invited audience of Cabinet members and their wives, members of the Congress and wives, leaders of the textile industry, well-known fashion authorities and the guest of honor, Miss De Lois Faulkner, the 1955 Maid of Cotton, watched the presentation of the award to Brigrance for "distinguished use of cotton fabrics, often in patterns of his own design, in the creation of highly original, yet wearable and thoroughly American fashions for contemporary living."

SUMMER COTTONS—

A fashion show of cotton costumes for the beach, sports, and street wear from the Brigrance

SECOND AWARD—

The winning of the Cotton Fashion Award is the second major fashion honor to be bestowed upon Thomas Brigrance since he received the Coty American Fashion Critics Award in 1953 for "his versatility in creative designing. For his consistent good taste, imagination and sense of adventure in his collections and for his understanding of how the American woman wants to look wherever she is. His wonderful simplicity of line and shape and his imaginative use of color and fabric not only in sportswear but in coats and suits as well, has marked him as an outstanding American talent."

His heritage from a famous Texas cotton family makes designing in cotton a natural to Brigrance. Born in Waco, he had (continued on page 6, section 2)

Local Men Get Certificates For "Big Blow" Work

Recipients of the award are Richard T. Scully, 216 66th Street, and Pressley B. White, 106 66th Street.

The citations were voted by the judges of the annual Edison Radio Amateur Award sponsored by General Electric's tube department. In granting the hurricane citations, the judges pointed out that an unparalleled number of amateur radio operators joined in setting up emergency radio networks during hurricanes "Cari," "Edna" and "Hazel." The judges based their action on field reports compiled by the American Radio Relay League. Commendation also was extended to "many radio amateurs who spent long hours standing by to help if needed — but whose hurricane work unfortunately are unrecorded."

Chrysler Begins All-Time High In Production

Chrysler Division general sales manager E. M. Braden told a national television audience recently that "in only five months of the current model year, we've built more cars than in 10 months of 1954 — an all-time production record in the 31-year history of Chrysler Division."

Braden made the statement as he was being interviewed on Dave Garroway's "Today" show, which emanated from Chrysler Division's Jefferson Avenue showroom in Detroit. He introduced car 97-933, a Chrysler Windsor Deluxe Newport, as it rolled off the assembly line and said there had been experienced that many cars produced here since the 1935 model went into production.

He pointed out that Chrysler's multi-million dollar expansion program, to be completed sometime in July, will increase production facilities so new sales records can be made in the near future.

"The public's response to our new models has been terrific," said Mr. Braden. "Dealer deliveries for the first three months of 1955 have increased more than 70 per cent over the first three months of 1954. And they're going even higher. We're rushing our expansion program to meet demand."

The new plant will include a 14-mile long body conveyor system, the longest in the entire automotive industry, which will move bodies through two plants, across nine lane-wide Jefferson Avenue overhead, and into a third plant for their trip down Chrysler's up to the minute assembly line.

Double Duty Playhouse-Storage Building "What Doctor Ordered"

Every small girl has her dream house. Sometimes it's a castle. Most often it's a simple playhouse in the yard.

Almost every father with a home has his dream house, too. His dream house isn't very elaborate, either. All he wants is a place to store his yard equipment in the winter time — the rake, the lawn mower, the fertilizer spreader and the law sweeper.

Here's a suggestion for satisfying both dreams at once. The playhouse shown above can be used for a playhouse in summer, a storage shed in winter. It's made of durable materials and it's easy to build. Cost of materials is about $75 in most areas.

This playhouse received national attention last year after Clay Thompson of Glenview, Ill., built one for his daughter, Linn. A representative of the Insulating Siding Association saw it, drew up plans and a bill of materials and offered the information free to anyone who was interested. Over 5,000 sets of plans were distributed.

The Insulating Siding Association, 530 Echo Lane, Glenview, Ill., is again offering the plans and step-by-step directions, free of charge to anyone who wants them. Let's take a closer look at the playhouse. Although it is sturdily built, it uses inexpensive materials. The house is five feet high at the walls and more than six

Ports Authority Foreign Director Receives Honors

William Leslie Schultz, director of the soon-to-be opened European office of the Virginia State Ports Authority, has been elected an honorary vice president of the American Club of Antwerp.

The organization is composed of American businessmen and U. S. government officials in Antwerp and serves as a common meeting ground for them in their effort to better relations between the American and Belgian communities.

The honor was bestowed on Schultz "in appreciation for his many years of untiring and devoted efforts in the interests of the club, as a member and later as president," according to the citation.

Schultz, before joining the Ports Authority, was Continental freight manager for the United States Lines. He now is working from the Authority's headquarters in Norfolk, familiarizing himself with Virginia ports and the advantages they offer to both domestic and foreign shippers. He is scheduled to open his office in Europe this summer.

Change Habits To Lose Weight

"Don't go on a diet — change a food habit," is the emphasis of the weight-reducing program being conducted in Virginia by the American Dietetic Association.

Miss Janet Cameron, nutritionist at VPI, says weight reduction programs were conducted last year in 37 counties. Eight counties completed a 4-month program, with 140 women enrolled. The average weight as they started was 170 pounds. Two thousand pounds, or an average of 15 pounds per woman, were lost.

The follow-up has been encouraging, Miss Cameron says. For example, 43 women in Chesterfield carried through with the group, but they have helped over 400 people reduce.

Coast Guard Commandant At Apple Blossom Festival Today

Vice Admiral Alfred C. Richmond, Commandant, U.S. Coast Guard, will be the Minister of Recognition in the coronation ceremony of Miss Jean Stephens as Queen Shenandoah XXVIII, at the Shenandoah Apple Blossom Festival in Winchester today, at 2:30 p. m.

Sir Percy Claude Spender, Australian Ambassador to the United States, as previously announced, will be the Minister of the Oath in the coronation ceremony, considered a highlight of the springtime celebration.

Vice Admiral Richmond, also a native of Iowa, moved to Virginia, near the national capital, with his family when he was 10 years old. He attended preparatory school at Massanutten Military Academy, Woodstock, 1915-1918, where he became cadet-major and was valedictorian of the class of 1918. He entered George Washington University, Washington, D. C., while still 16, to study engineering and was, at the same time, employed at the U. S. Naval Observatory. Appointed a cadet at the Coast Guard Academy, New London, Conn., he graduated senior man in his class in 1924.

Banks Attends Hotel Assn. Meet

Sidney Banks, general manager of The Cavalier, recently attended a four-day meeting of the Resort Committee of the American Hotel Association at the Chalkonte-Haddon Hall in Atlantic City, N. J.

The meeting, attended by fifty of the world's largest resort operators, was devoted to discussions of international vacation trends.

At the opening session, John D. Green, chairman of the committee and vice president of Williamsburg Restoration, Inc., cited the vastly improved world transportation facilities as a two-way boon to resorts and travel. He pointed out that improved standards of living and economical travel costs have brought every resort area in the world within the reach of the majority of people.

Joseph I. McDonnell, vice president and general manager of the Chalkonte-Haddon Hall, was host to the meeting.

VA Offers Advice On Insurance

Three tips were offered by the Veterans Administration to veterans who have special Korean GI insurance.

More than 250,000 post-Korea veterans have taken out the special term insurance available to them upon separation from active military service, VA said.

Concerning these new policies, the following three points of advice were offered:

First, get into the habit of paying all premiums when they are due. Although the law allows a "grace period" of 31 days during which the policy remains in effect even if a premium due is not paid, veterans should consider this an emergency measure and restore it for an emergency.

Second, do not send cash thru the mails in paying premiums, but use a check or money order made payable to the Veterans Administration. Your cancelled check or money order stub will serve as a receipt.

Third, be sure to name your beneficiaries and have this information recorded by VA. This may be done at the nearest VA office.

After their separation from active military service, Korea veterans have only 120 days in which to apply for the special term insurance, VA added for the benefit of men and women just released from the service.

Some 35 per cent of mouth cancers are cured today. Over 65 per cent can be cured if the cancer is detected soon enough, says the American Cancer Society.

TROUBLE

Trouble is the great leveler of the human race. It comes to great and small, to rich and poor alike. Nobody wants it, everybody hates it. Some of it can be avoided by wise planning. But a certain amount of it comes to all. An important thing to remember is that trouble is not all bad. Trouble rightly faced and used can contribute to good.

There would be no civilization without trouble. It is plain historical fact that civilizations have been born only when men faced the challenge of hardship and adversity. The Greeks in rocky Attica, the Romans in the stormiest spot in Italy, the Puritans in bleak New England — all tell the same story. It is a story of greatness won through struggle. Call the roll of the great people of history and you will be struck with this fact — these people had to become great or perish.

There would be no character without trouble. Why is the rich man's son so often a bum, lacking all the virtues of his sire? Because everything is handed to him. Because he never had to work for anything. Because there is no challenge to his creative faculties. The rich man ruins his son by indulgence. There is no need for the son to produce, so he never does.

If you want to ruin your child, try to protect him from all the struggles you had to go through. Make his life easy for him at every turn. See to it that he has no burdens to bear and no struggles to face. That will do it! He'll be a good bet to end in the gutter. Nobody can amount to anything if the good in him never faces a serious challenge.

Of course, trouble doesn't always produce character. Some people are broken down by and destroyed. If trouble alone could do it there would be far more saints than there are. What produces character is not trouble alone but trouble rightly faced. A head wind helps the airplane rise. Trouble rightly faced can lift us where we could not otherwise have gone.

"All things," said Paul, "work together for good to them who love God." What does that mean? It means that you can be in such a state of mind that you will not be afraid of anything. You can know that everything that happens to you will be good, or will work out for good — provided you have God's love in your heart. When those conditions are met, and are dedicated to His will, trouble becomes good. Everything becomes good.

FOUR DOLLAR FIGHTS CANCER

Of every dollar given to the American Cancer Society, 60 cents is spent for cancer control in the state or division area where the money is raised; 25 cents goes for the national research program; 12 cents to national programs of professional and public education, service to patients, statistical research and administration; 3 cents for a national program of medical grants and clinical fellowships.

Year-'Round Air Conditioner Now Sold At Beach

Adams Brothers Plumbing Corporation, 416 17th Street, announces the marketing of a new year-'round residential air conditioning combination, called the "Spacesaver," built and designed by the Airtemp Division of Chrysler Corporation.

"Every home now being built and every older home with forced air heating can now be air conditioned," stated a spokesman for the local firm. "The problem of lack of space for the installation of residential air conditioning equipment has been solved with the successful development by the Airtemp engineering staff of a new V-type cooling coil. Incorporated as part of the furnace, the V coil provides air conditioning with no loss of valuable floor space, requiring only 14 1/2 inches of additional height above the furnace. Duct work can be installed easily and economically."

A complete "Spacesaver" includes the new V coil (available in four models), an Airtemp waterless or water-cooled condensing unit, and an Airtemp Lo or Hi-Boy furnace. Seamless copper tubing is used to pipe Freon refrigerant between the coil and condenser. The latter can be located outside the home, in the garage, in the sub-floor crawl space or basement. The furnace blower forces home air through the coil, cooling and distributing the air throughout the house.

The V coil, added the Adams Corporation representative, "although developed specifically for the 'Spacesaver' combination, is also available separately. It is easily adaptable to other forced air furnaces which have adequate blower capacity."

Adams Brothers is the Chrysler Airtemp dealer, serving this area and they will gladly provide a free air conditioning survey and information about this new "Spacesaver."

THIS IS "ENFORCEMENT"

Richmond papers report a local (Richmond) man as receiving a $100 fine and suspended sentence for driving under a suspended license and another $50 fine for exhibiting another person's license to police as his own. Another Richmonder received a $100 fine for drunk driving plus a suspended sentence and a $50 fine and suspended sentence for driving under a revoked license. In the same session another man received only a $50 fine for driving under a suspended permit. All this was in appeal court.

JESUS CALLS US

Few ministers' wives can write a hymn to order for their husbands, even if they are famous poets in their own right. But Cecil Frances Alexander did just that for her preacher husband, and while the sermon that preceded it has long since been forgotten, her poem has found a lasting place in the hearts of the Church universal.

It began long before her marriage to the Rev. William Alexander, future Archbishop of Armagh and Primate of all Ireland. Because, when she was still 21-year-old Cecil Humphreys, she had been so profoundly influenced by Rev. John Keble's book, "The Christian Year," that her first book, "Verses for Holy Seasons," was actually a "Christian Year" for children, containing a hymn or poem for each Sunday of the year with additional verses for special occasions.

In one of her Sunday School classes, some of her pupils asked, "Miss Humphreys, what do the words in the Apostles' Creed mean?" She tried to explain to them in their own language the deeper meaning behind each of the phrases in the Creed. Later she decided to reduce her teachings to poetic form and soon her boys and girls were singing about the Creed as well as studying it. For the phrase, "I believe in God the Father Almighty," she wrote her hymn "All things bright and beautiful"; for "born of the Virgin Mary," she wrote "Once in royal David's city"; and to explain the meaning of the death of Jesus who was "crucified and buried" she wrote "There is a green hill far away." In 1846, the year of her marriage, she published her book "Hymns for little children," which included the ones inspired by the Creed.

One afternoon during the week of November 25, 1852, her 29th year, she sat alone in the living room of their parsonage in Tyngree, Ireland, working over a new poem. When her husband came home he found her busily revising her latest work.

"And what is the effort of this afternoon about, my dear?" he asked, jokingly.

She chided him for his sarcasm, and then replied, "It is a new poem based on your sermon of last Sunday morning."

He looked surprised and said, "Honestly, dear, I didn't think you were paying attention."

But it does help a preacher to know he has at least one sympathetic listener in his congregation, even if it is only his wife. She reminded him that he had preached on "The Burial of Moses," which was the subject of her new poem. When she handed him the papers over which she had been working, he began to read one of the most magnificent poems in the English language: By Nebo's lonely mountain.

On this side Jordan's wave. In a vale in the land of Moab. There lies a lonely grave. But no man built that sepulchre. And no man say it ever.

For the angles of God upturned the sod. And laid the dead man there. When he finished the last stanza he turned and said seriously, "My dear, I salute you. This is the noblest piece of poetry you have ever written. Who knows but the day may come when I shall enjoy the distinction of being pointed out as the husband of Mrs. Cecil Alexander."

Later that evening, as they talked about the sermon and the poem it had inspired, Mr. Alexander said, "Next Sunday is St. Andrew's Day. Since you wrote about the burial of Moses AFTER last Sunday's sermon, I wonder if you could write a poem for next Sunday morning BEFORE you hear the sermon."

"I'll do what I can," she told him. He took down the Bible and read the account of the calling of Andrew by Jesus as recorded in March 1: 16-18. They discussed the coming sermon during supper, and she promised to do her best with the poem he had requested. That night, before retiring, she read the familiar Scripture verses again, and soon wrote down the stanzas which he was to read at the close of his sermon the following Sunday morning.

Her first stanza contained these lines: Jesus calls us o'er the tumult Of our life's wild, restless sea; Day by day His sweet voice soundeth, Saying, "Christian, follow me." Before her death in 1895, she had written more than four hundred hymns and poems. Over a quarter of a million copies of "Hymns for little children" were sold. But nothing she ever wrote received the universal acclaim that has greeted the hymn she prepared for her husband to use in his sermon on St. Andrew's Day in 1852.

THE WONDERFUL SHIP

She'll sail with the best of them, because into her fashioning have gone the eager hands of a small boy and the gentle, experienced touch of an old man. Across bright blue water her miniature sails will billow clean and white, and into the eyes of these two will steal a new light of pleasure.

There has been guidance in the making of this boat, the loving guidance of one who has weathered life's storms and gained from them the comfort of experience. And the boy, sensing this experience, is happy in a childlike confidence that this ship... this wonderful ship... can never sink.

It may be that on some brave voyage the little boat will meet disaster, and this lad will learn that material possessions so seldom last. He is also learning to find faith in a ship that is unsinkable. That ship is the Church... and it will carry him through calm seas and storms throughout the voyage of life. Every child should learn early to anchor his life to the Church.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For the sake of his community and nation. (2) For the sake of his children's sake. (3) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

W. Glenn Elliott Appointed As Management Officer At Ft. Story

W. Glenn Elliott of Richmond, a World War I veteran and long-time State Adjutant of the American Legion in Virginia, has been appointed management officer at Fort Story.

Elliott served as state director of Virginia's Aircraft Warning Service throughout World War II. He was first appointed to the post by the late Governor James Price and reappointed by Governor Colgate Darden.

Elliott also served as personnel and public relations officer during World War II on the staff of Maj. Gen. E. P. Goodwin of Emporia, who commanded the Virginia National Guard.

Elliott comes to Fort Story from the Transportation Training Command at Fort Eustis, where he directed the Work Simplification and Management Improvement programs. Earlier he had been Chief of the Organization and Methods Branch, Management Division, Office of the Comptroller, at Hampton Roads Sub-Port of Embarkation.

Elliott was born in Glade Spring, Washington County, Virginia. Serving his country in the first World War and in World War II, he went up through the ranks from private to Lieutenant Colonel. He was separated from the Army in 1946 when the Virginia State Guard was demobilized, following World War II.

W. GLENN ELLIOTT

Virginia State Guard was demobilized, following World War II.

His entire Civil Service career has been in the Transportation Corps, which is logical because his transportation background dates from early years. When Elliott was 16, he was a brakeman on the Laurel Railroad, a narrow-gauge line running logging operations out of Damascus, Va.

From 1928 to 1940, Elliott was State Adjutant of the American Legion in Virginia, and was editor and business manager of its monthly publication, the Virginia Legionnaire.

Cooperation Secret Of Upswing In Old Dominion Travel Business

Much of Virginia's continuous upswing in travel business is due to the splendid cooperation and close working relationship that has been developed in the last few years between state agencies and the 20,000 businesses that are licensed under the tourist establishment inspection laws of Virginia. Robert F. Nelson, managing director of the Virginia Travel Council told the American Hotel Association committee on resorts at its recent meeting in Atlantic City, N. J.

Mr. Nelson paid high tribute to the work of the State Commission on Conservation and Development for its work in advertising Virginia, to the Tourist Establishment Division of the State Board of Health, which he credited with giving Virginia the finest administration of the best health laws of any state in the union to protect visitors. High tribute also was paid to the Council for the Virginia Economy and the State Highway Department for research efforts in travel, to the Distributive Education Department of the State Board of Education for its tourist establishment inspection schools, to the Virginia Commission of Fisheries and the State Department of Game and Inland Fisheries for splendidly cooperating to bring sportsmen to the Old Dominion.

Mr. Nelson estimated that outdoor sports of fishing and hunting bring more than 15,000 to the state and results in the expenditure of many millions of dollars in the state. The speaker pointed out that the 22 businesses engaged in serving the traveling public are selling Virginia together, through the Virginia Travel Council, rather than competing. Competition, Mr. Nelson said, today is between states and areas rather than individuals and by working together constant increase in its travel from other states for more than seven years, resulting in the investment of more than $72,000,000 in new accommodations and the streamlining of existing ones, and probably as much more by other services.

"No state in the Union," Mr. Nelson declared, "can boast of the fine cooperation and coordination of effort that is shown in Virginia between Federal, State and local agencies and the private business serving the public. Virginia is among the top states in travel development because of this coordination."

AID TO ENEMY PLANES

A high altitude jet air stream which flows from the Aleutians over most of the United States provides a backdoor entrance for the Soviets to use in air attacks on this country through the Gulf Coast area.

This was pointed out recently by Air Force officials in urging activation of the Ground Observer Corps.

his first taste of fashion creating when as a schoolboy he made cotton costume designs for the Texas Cotton Exposition. But it was the study of art which took him to New York, and later to Europe. To earn a living for his study of art, young Brigrance made fashion sketches for various French couturiers and he gradually shifted his interest to a career in fashion, and joined the designing staff of Jager, the London sportswear firm. In 1939, on his return to America, Dorothy Shaver of Lord and Taylor discovered Brigrance at once, and he was adopted as the store's promising young American designer. After his 1941 enlistment and service in the Air Corps Intelligence in the Army, he has consistently expanded the scope of his designing, creating not only sportswear, but coats, suits, dresses and at-home clothes. He designs approximately 60 per cent of his own fabrics, and his novel weaves and prints are famous. So, when you're cotton-fashion shopping, look for the Top Man Brigrance's creations.

UNIQUE BAGS—

Probably the most exciting and most fun-filled summertime fashion will be that of carrying about a snappy, conversation-piece type of tote bag. There are just hundreds of them in the stores in this area and they are made of every imaginable texture and mixture. The raffia and burlap totes with their amusingly comic decorations are the newest. Have you seen the bags that have a "secret bottom" which you can look through—plastic—with little chickens or rabbits hopping about in them? Very gay! These ornate and original bags will be carried about for a day of shopping in town. They're mad. And they're nightmarish, too, but they are definitely fun to own one or two and to carry them about!

GIRLS WHO WEAR HATS—

From coast to coast, the slogan that "men love girls who wear hats" has begun to catch on and so every lass and lady is now wearing something on her head besides her curly locks. The more original and whimsy perched on top of your noggin, the more smart you'll be considered. For summertime dancing nights, better float a bit of gossamer or lace or a flower-arch if you want to be in the 1955 summertime fashion swing!

Before 1945, less than $1,000,000 a year was spent for cancer research. Since then the American Cancer Society alone has devoted about $35,000,000 to that work.

WHAT IS ample-plus WIRING?

... It's like having $100 vacation cash in your pocket, PLUS $300 in travel insurance.

... It's like having three speeds on your car, PLUS a fourth speed you need for a future.

... It's like having the next chapter of a suspense story at hand when you've just finished the current installment.

... It's like your home was wired for the electric appliances you had in 1950, 1953 or 1950, and now had AMPLI-PLUS wiring for 1955 and 1960.

SO IF YOU ARE BUYING, BUILDING OR RENTING, be sure your home or apartment has ample-PLUS wiring to take care of all your present and future electrical needs.

TAKE AUTOMATIC WASHERS (lots of hot water) ... electric Clothes Dryers ... electric Garbage Disposals ... a second TV set ... those electric appliances you received as presents last Christmas.

THEY, OF COURSE, demand ample wiring in your home. But even more important are the other electric appliances of Tomorrow! There is every chance they will require AMPLI-PLUS wiring. Wise people will plan for Tomorrow TODAY and see their Electrical Contractor, Dealer, Architect or Home Builder now.
